FISH-EYE VIEW

This fish-eye view of the interior of the Saturn blockhouse gives the view of many technicians at their jobs within a few yards of the thundering rocket which orbited the world's largest satellite to date at Cape Kennedy, Fla., yesterday. The three tubes in the center are periscopes through which the Saturn I rocket launching was viewed. At top is an overhead observation room from which the launching was watched. Minister Foils Theft At Beach

Two men and two women, whom a Methodist minister reported he caught breaking into a parked car at McClure's Beach, were booked into Marin County Jail yesterday.

Held on $2,750 bail each were Jackie Ray Mullins, 40, a carpenter; Robert Leon Leonard, 36, a welder; Katherine Glendoris Pock, 36, and Edith Laverne Calhoun, 29, all of San Pablo.

Sheriff's deputies arrested the four at a roadblock on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Pierce Point Road shortly after 1 p.m. They were driving a 1958 Ford with Oregon license plates, said Sgt. Kenneth Irving.

Rev. Carl E. Walker of the First Methodist Church in Burlingame called the sheriff's office from the Kenneth Kehoe Ranch near McClure's Beach.

He said he and his wife and daughter had parked and walked down the trail to the beach around noon. As they started back up the trail they met two women who asked how far it was to the beach. After the women passed them, Rev. Walker said they heard a "piercing whistle," apparently a warning from the women to someone in the parking lot.

Rev. Walker said he looked ahead and saw the door open on his car and Mullins inside attempting to hide something. A $20 bill was missing from his wife's purse, left on the car floor. He demanded that Mullins give him the money, and Mullins did so, Rev. Walker said.

As the four drove away, the minister noted their license plate number and went to the nearest farmhouse to call.

U.S. Launches Rocket To Moon From Orbiting Station In Space

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The United States today installed a camera-carrying Ranger probe in an orbiting station in space, then shot it outward on a planned 240,000-mile trip to take the first closeup pictures of the moon.

A silvery Atlas-Agena rocket, seeking the nation's second space triumph in two days, boosted the 804-pound Ranger into a "parking orbit" around earth after blasting off at 10:49 a.m.

About 25 minutes later, as it soared 115 miles above the Indian Ocean, the Agena rocket was re-started in an attempt to push the speed of the scientific package to 23,800 miles per hour—enough to carry it all the way to the moon.

The Federal Space Agency said that tracking information from ground stations indicated that Ranger "was where it should be" on the long, looping flight toward the moon.

A space program spokesman reported that nearly three hours after blastoff Ranger definitely had enough speed to reach the moon.

"Our early indications are that it is not 'way off," he said.

"We are on our way," another spokesman said.

Information radioed from the spacecrarft indicated it was performing well and its solar cells were working.

Jet Propulsion Laboratories said that, "as far as we are concerned the spacecraft is on a normal course and has separated."

It was this nation's first moonshot in 15 months and if everything went as planned Ranger would provide a barrage of closeup photographs as it dived to a crash landing on the moon's surface early Sunday morning.

One Russian Rocket Orbits Two Satellites

MOSCOW (UPI)—The official Soviet news agency Tass said today Russian scientists have put into orbit "a space system" containing two scientific "stations."

"In the USSR today a space system — two scientific stations 'Elektron -1' and 'Elektron-2' — have been put by one powerful carrier rocket into essentially different artificial earth satellite orbits."

The American satellite was launched by a 164-foot Saturn I rocket and was at that time the world's heaviest space vehicle.

Tass said the Soviet launching today was made "in conformity with the program for the investigation of the upper layers of the atmosphere and outer space . . ." This appeared to refer to the Cosmos series of launchings that have been in progress for some time.

It said the "Elektron-1" station was separated from the carrier rocket first while the engine of the final stage of the rocket was still working.

The rocket then continued on its set path, Tass said, and when the "necessary speed" was reached, the "Elektron-2" station was placed in orbit.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—A shapely woman musician from Florida linked a Huntington, W. Va., businessman today with a Nashville nightclub operator—expected to be a key witness in James R. Hoffa's jury-tampering trial.

Carol Pettijohn, a pianist from Lakeland, testified she accompanied Nicholas J. Tweel, the businessman and one of five men on trial with the Teamsters Union president, on a tour of eight Nashville night spots during Hoffa's conspiracy trial.

At the Sportsman's Bar, she said, Tweel was introduced to

Tam District Unification Vote June 2

Assuming State Education Board Approves Plans

Assuming the State Board of Education approves the plan, the question of unification of all school districts within Tamalpais Union High School District will go before the voters June 2 as part of the state primary election.

The Marin County Committee on School District Organization last night took four hours to decide on the date, first voting 5-4 to hold the election Nov. 3, with the general election, then reconsidering and agreeing unanimously to the June date.

The major effect of holding the election in June will be that election of trustees for the board of the unified district, if it is approved, will have to be held later, probably in November.

Edwin L. Blackmore, assistant secretary to the committee, explained that with a June election, there will not be enough time for notification and filing candidacy papers after the state board acts on the proposal.

The committee voted to put the plan on the agenda of the state board meeting in Sacramento in March.

In any case, the new district would not start operation until July 1, 1965, Blackmore said.

Committee member Mrs. Joseph B. Wallace made the motion, "for purposes of discussion," to hold both elections in November. She noted that the augmented committee studying the Tamalpais District had asked that trustee elections be held on the same date as the unification decision.

David D. Ring of Reed School District spoke from the audience against simultaneous elections, claiming that persons who opposed the unification plan would be in an awkward

White Jury Seated In Slaying Trial

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A jury of 12 white men were seated today for the trial of Byron de la Beckwith, charged with murder in the rifle slaying of Negro civil rights leader Medgar Evers.

The selection of one or possibly two alternate jurors remained before testimony begins in the trial of the 43-year-old fertilizer salesman from Greenwood, Miss.

The prosecution and defense agreed on the 12-man panel after more than three full days—and three night sessions.

New Vietnam 'Dictator' After Coup

COMBINED AP AND UPI

SAIGON, Vietnam—Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, a 37-year-old army corps commander, became a virtual dictator of South Vietnam today in a swift, bloodless coup. He pledged to "smash the Communists and the traitors who advocate neutralism."

A new council of generals took shape to help him run the country and the U.S.-backed war against Red guerrillas.

4 GENERALS JAILED

Khanh dissolved the old government and clapped four key generals of that regime in jail. Three of them were charged with plotting with France to neutralize South Vietnam. French President Charles de Gaulle has advocated neutralization of both North and South Vietnam.

The fate of Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh, chairman of the junta that had ruled Vietnam since the destruction of President Ngo Dinh Diem's regime last Nov. 1, was uncertain. Minh was not arrested with the other generals and there was a possibility he would be kept on as technical chief of state.

TAKEN IN STRIDE

In Washington, the United States withheld a decision on whether to recognize the new regime.

Second Fatality In 2 Days For Marin

A 35-year-old Almonte airline pilot was instantly killed early today when the car he was driving plunged 150 feet off foggy Panoramic Highway near St. Jude Road.

Victim was Frederick Norman Kivette Jr. of 155 Stanford Avenue, a pilot with American Airlines and a resident of Marin since 1957. He died instantly of a severe skull fracture and internal injuries, according to Asst. Coroner William C. Bradley.

Kivette's death was the second in Marin County traffic this year—and the second within two days. Todd Allyn Gadbois, 16, of Nicasio was killed Tuesday afternoon when he fell from the back of a moving truck on the San Geronimo-Nicasio Road.

There had been three traffic fatalities to this date last year in Marin.

Winding Panoramic Highway was shrouded in fog as Kivette, accompanied by Mrs. Ruby Thomson, 36, of Stinson Beach drove west at about 2:30 a.m., the California Highway Patrol reported.

The car missed one of the bends. It sailed 15 feet through the air, then tumbled end-over-end down the precipice, throwing out both occupants. It finally stopped in a six-foot washout near the canyon bottom.

As the car left the road, Mrs. Thomson gave a piercing scream. Her cry awoke Heinz Heling of 505 Panoramic Highway.

Heiling dressed hastily and went out into the fog. He found Mrs. Thomson, bruised, cut and with one shoulder broken, scrambling up the steep canyon wall.

She was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital.

Kivette's body was brought up the precipice in a litter basket to which ropes were attached by highway patrolmen and ambulance attendants.

Kivette had been active in Almonte civic affairs during his residence. He served one year as a director of the Almonte Improvement Club and was active in fighting against permitting building on substandard lots in Almonte and Homestead Valley.

He was born Nov. 18, 1928,

Facing Suit In Court

The Marin County Board of Supervisors in an emergency session yesterday vowed "to make every effort to adjust the boundaries of the supervisorial districts of Marin County on a basis providing for greatest equality of representation and population prior to Feb. 2.

With a court appearance on a taxpayers' suit over redistricting set for this afternoon, the board met with County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney and greed to fight the suit, at least on technical grounds.

Maloney said the county had three choices for action in court today.

The first was to "fall down dead," he said, agreeing to act or letting the court make the boundary decision.

The second would be to ask for more time. He said there was a good chance that Superior Court Judge Richard M. Sims Jr. would not grant the time.

He noted that the suit claims the rights of some of the county's voters have been denied

NWP Briefs Finally Due In Tunnel Dispute

Dates have finally been set for presentation of briefs in Northwestern Pacific Railroad's suit to overthrow an Interstate Commerce Commission order that it restore service through San Rafael's caved-in Puerto Suello Tunnel.

Boris H. Lakusta, attorney for San Rafael and Marin County in action which brought the ICC order, today disclosed that U.S. District Court in San Francisco has set next Monday for presentation of NWP's brief on why the order should be held invalid.

Lakusta then has until March 4 to file a brief in reply setting forth the position of San Rafael, Marin County and various interested shippers. NWP's rebuttal reply will be due March 23.

This indicates the court will hear oral arguments sometime in April, Lakusta said.

The matter has been delayed at request of NWP because of illness of its attorney, Randolph Karr.

Lakusta said that if the district court turns down NWP's appeal from the ICC ruling, but one last chance remains for the railroad to avoid carrying out the order to restore service: appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court. There is no intermediate appeal, he said.

The tunnel caved in during a fire started by two boys on July 20, 1961. The next month, the railroad applied to the ICC for permission to abandon the line—which is its mainline connection with San Rafael.

ICC hearings dragged on during the first half of 1962. The examiner recommended NWP's petition be denied and it be ordered to restore service. The ICC concurred. The railroad appealed the ruling, and for a second time was turned down. It then, after some delay, filed the court suit in an attempt to overturn the ruling.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Oswald Mother Pleads Son's Defense

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Mrs. Marguerite Oswald pleaded yesterday that her son, Lee Harvey Oswald, be defended before the Warren commission in an attempt to remove the assassin's brand.

Her attorney, Mark Lane of New York, appeared jointly with Mrs. Oswald and said he would make a series of public appearances to defend Oswald.

The two told a 70-minute press conference yesterday they were not convinced of Oswald's guilt in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Lane and Mrs. Oswald said the investigating commission has refused to allow them to appear in Oswald's defense.

Air Force Plans Cutbacks In Japan

TOKYO (UPI)—The Air Force today disclosed the second planned cutback of U.S. air power in Japan. It announced that a 20-plane squadron of F-102 jet fighters would be returned to the United States by July 1.

Last month, the Air Force said about 3,500 airmen and 2,000 dependents will be pulled out of Japan by the end of 1964.

Demo Leader Sees No LBJ Primaries

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Democratic national chairman John M. Bailey says he assumes President Lyndon B. Johnson will not enter the California primary or primaries in any other states.

"I see no reason why he should," said Bailey, on arriving at the national convention of Young Democrats in Las Vegas.

"I assume the president feels he has been in office only a short time, that he has a lot to do, and that it would take time away from his job to campaign in California or any other state."

Patrolmen said James A. Anderson, 30, a soldier stationed in Sacramento, was driving the wrong way on the freeway when highway patrolmen gave chase.

Anderson's car was speeding at about 90 miles an hour when it crashed head-on into an auto driven by Mrs. Lucille Daisy Sims, 48, of Sacramento.

Mrs. Sims and her 17-year-old daughter-in-law, Mrs. Leora M. Sims, were killed. The infant daughter of the teen-age mother, Terri Lee Sims, 3 months, also died.

A truck also was involved, but driver James Gregario Herrera, 48, of Modesto, escaped injury.

Glenn Running Ahead In Ohio Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. was running ahead today in a preference poll of Ohio county Democratic chairmen.

Glenn, the first American to orbit the earth, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator in the May 5 primary against the incumbent Sen. Stephen M. Young.

Those who replied to the poll showed a strong sentimental attachment to Young, but also indicated a preference for Glenn from the standpoint of practical politics.

No Smuggling Trial

CAIRO (AP)—The United Arab Republic will not try former U.S. Embassy attache Herbert Ferguson on charges of currency smuggling, the government prosecutor announced. Ferguson and eight others are accused of illegally transfer-50,000 Lebanese lire (about $20,000) out of the country and with trying to smuggle 377,000 Lebanese lire (about $180,000).

Rocket Prediction

PALO ALTO (AP)—Rocket experts were told yesterday that rocket engines "are approaching an upper limit of performance."

Dr. William H. Avery of Johns Hopkins University, in a luncheon speech to the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, predicted future orbiting vehicles will have air-breathing engines.

State Calling Bids On South Bay Aqueduct

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The State Department of Water Resources will call for bids tomorrow for construction of 5 million dollars in additional facilities for the south bay aqueduct of the state water project.

The work will include excavation and pipe laying work in Alameda and Santa Clara counties. A total of 12.7 miles of pipe and diversion works will be placed. This will require excavation of about one-half million cubic yards. The pipe will include 230 feet of 90-inch diameter and 67,500 feet of 72-inch diameter.

BASIC DETAILS

When Autos Must Have Smog Rigs

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you don't understand the state law about automobile crankcase smog control devices, you've got plenty of company.

It's confusing and complicated, but stripped down to the basic details it looks something like this:

If you own a 1961 or later American car originally bought in California, read no further. A crankcase emission control device was put in by the manufacturer.

There are some vehicles which don't fall under the law at all. They are diesel-powered vehicles, used foreign cars, autos older than 1949, motorcycles, agricultural and farm equipment, large road building equipment and what are known as "rare vehicles."

The California Highway Patrol and the Department of Motor Vehicles offices nearest you have lists telling what vehicles are exempt.

From here on in, all 1950 through 1960 cars sold or transferred must have the crankcase device installed or the auto won't be registered to the new owner.

By next January, all 1950 through 1960 passenger vehicles with license numbers ending in the numeral 1 must have the crankcase smog control device. In February, 1965 numbers ending in 2 must have the device and so on through the months of 1965 until October, when the cars with license plates ending in the numeral zero must have the device.

This process is the same this year for commercial vehicles of vintage 1950 through 1960. In January of 1965, commercial vehicles must have a properly operating approved crankcase control device in order to register and receive their license plate renewals.

The law applies only in the counties of Alameda, Contra Costa, Fresno, Los Angeles, Marin, Orange, Riverside, Sacramento, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Mateo, San Francisco and Santa Clara.

The Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board says the average motorist will spend $15.00 for the crankcase device and $2.50 at least once a year to keep it working properly.

Panama Talks Collapse; Aggression Is Charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiations aimed at a peaceful solution of the U.S.-Panama dispute have collapsed and Panama, charging aggression, has called for an emergency meeting of hemisphere foreign ministers.

Miguel Moreno, Panama's ambassador to the Organization of American States, delivered a note from his government which included the conference request and the renewed charge of aggression to OAS Secretary General Jose A. Mora last night.

Said Moreno: "We have searched for a dignified solution to the controversy but unfortunately and in spite of the good offices of the Inter-American Peace Committee and our willingness we have achieved no success."

The note included one of Jan. 9 by Panama Foreign Minister Galilee Solis in which he said "the Republic of Panama has been the victim of an unprovoked armed attack against its territory and civil population made by the armed forces of the United States of America stationed in the Canal Zone."

East Bay Watch Dog Sales Brisk Amid Three Murders

OAKLAND (AP) — East Bay residents are taking measures to protect themselves while police coninue to search for the person or persons responsible for three strangulation murders and an attempted fourth within the past week.

The Oakland pound sold 40 dogs yesterday.

Oakland Police Chief Edward Toothman yesterday urged residents to remain calm, but at the same time suggested housewives make sure their homes are lighted and locked.

Oakland Police Capt. Alvin King reported his men have questioned more than 1,00 persons but have come up with no clues to the double murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Martin and her 18-year-old daughter Carolyn a week ago.

Police were also at a dead end in San Pablo, where Mrs. Jane Stapleton, 43-year-old wife of a police sergeant, was found murdered by suffocation Monday morning.

Bill Would Create Resources Department

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Chairman Robert W. Crown of the Assembly ways and means committee—warning California must prepare for a drop in defense spending—announced today he will introduce a bill creating a Department of Economic Resources.

It would be responsible for state program designed to encourage industry and world trade and promote tourist travel to California.

Next Saturn 1 Job

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Next assignment for the Saturn 1 rocket, newly-crowned weight-lifting champion of space, will be to loft into orbit a model of the Apollo man-to-the moon spacecraft.

The launching, scheduled here in April, will be a step toward the U.S. goal of landing men on the moon in this decade.

Underground Power Lines 'Too Costly'

Stanford Nuclear Protest Is Called 'Esthetic' Matter

WASHINGTON (AP)—Should Congress spend 1.6 million dollars to place Stanford University nuclear accelerator power lines underground it would be for the esthetic benefit of a local area and not for the nation's taxpayers, two California congressmen said yesterday.

That was the reply of Reps. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.), and Craig Hosmer (R-Calif.), to a plea made by the spokesmen for the Woodside area.

The spokesmen told a Senate House atomic energy committee, of which Holifield and Hosmer are members, that overhead lines would ruin the scenic beauty there.

'USED TO POLES'

William R. Johnson, chief electrical generation and transmission engineer for Pacific Gas and Electric Co. which is installing the power for the nuclear accelerator, said other communities in the area are served by overhead distribution lines.

Hosmer observed: "Those people must be used to looking at poles." He later said: "I don't want to be hard-nosed about this . . . but there has to be some give on this thing."

Paul N. McClosky Jr., representing Woodside and certain other residents of San Mateo and Santa Clara counties, said, "The question is basically one of good neighborliness and cooperation between the levels of government involved. The accelerator was conceived and authorized in this spirit and operation should so remain."

'UNSIGHTLY MESS'

The residents are asking Congress put up 1.6 million dollars to put the wires underground.

Holifield asked if the county would participate in extra cost of putting lines underground and Yevy said only the board of supervisors could answer that.

Holifield replied it has been established "that the esthetic value is of primary concern to the community, and not the taxpayers of the United States."

R. W. Joyce, vice president of PG&E, said his company would have to be compensated for the extra cost if it were to put the lines underground.

Stamp For Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—A five-cent stamp in memory of the late President John F. Kennedy will be issued on his 47th birthday anniversary, May 29, Postmaster General John A. Gronouski said yesterday.

The president's widow chose the date and will choose the design.

INCIDENT IN A DEMONSTRATION

One of a series of clashes develops in Cleveland yesterday during picketing in the city's school integration dispute. An unidentified man about to be restrained seizes the arm of a picket in front of an east side grade school. The pickets, reprseenting the United Freedom Movement, demand full integration of Negro pupils being bussed into three predominantly white schools from an overcrowded school in the Negro section. Several persons were knocked to the ground but order was restored quickly.

Death Valley Park Scheme Is Denied

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Horace M. Albright, director of the National Park Service in the Herbert Hoover administration, has denied a conflict-of-interest charge leveled at him by Rep. John E. Moss, (D-Calif.).

Moss had told a hearing of his House government operations subcommittee in Sacramento that Albright had persuaded the park service to change a development plan at Death Valley National Monument to suit the wishes of the Death Valley Hotel Co.

Moss said Albright was an official of the Borax Co., sole owner of the hotel company, and was also a member of the U.S. Interior Department's advisory board on national parks, historic sites, buildings and monuments.

He said he tried to change the park plan because he believed it did not suit Death Valley's landscape and was too expensive.

U.S. Airmen's Bodies To Be Taken To Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—The bodies of three U.S. airmen killed when Soviet jet fighters downed their unarmed trainer plane in East Germany Tuesday will be brought to West Berlin tonight, authoritative sources said.

The wreckage of their T-39 twin-jet trainer also will be brought here, the sources said.

The U.S. military liaison mission to the Soviet forces in East Germany went to the crash scene from Potsdam and is transporting the bodies and the wreckage back to the west.

Accusing the Russians of an "inexcusably brutal act of violence," William R. Tyler, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, called in the acting head of the Russian embassy in Washington yesterday to demand that those responsible for the incident be punished.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who returned late yesterday from a Far East mission, condemned the downing of the U.S. jet as "senseless" and "shocking news."

Georgi M. Kornienko, minister-counsellor of the embassy, refused to accept the U.S. protest. He said his government had protested itself through U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler in Moscow. He said the T-39 jet trainer was more than 60 miles inside East German territory when it was forced down.

A State Department spokesman ridiculed the Soviet refusal. "What is not accepting?" he asked. The U.S. interpretation is that the Russian official heard what was said to him, the spokesman added.

Actor Alan Ladd Found Dead At 50

PALM SPRINGS (AP) — Alan Ladd, who realized a dream of driving a limousine through the same studio gate where once he had to punch a time clock, is dead at 50.

The 5-foot-6 star, who walked tall as a movie hero for 23 years, was found dead in the master bedroom of his home yesterday. A servant who had become alarmed when the actor failed to wake up from a nap found the body.

A doctor and Police Chief A. G. Kettmann said that Ladd died of natural causes, presumably a heart attack. An autopsy has been ordered.

Ladd, except for a butler, had been alone in his desert home for the last 10 days. His wife, the former actress Sue Carol, was at the couple's West Los Angeles home.

"I talked with Alan three times Tuesday," she said. "He seemed in fine spirits as always. It's a terrible shock."

It was Miss Carol, who later turned agent, who heard Ladd on a 15-minute radio show. She interviewed him, signed him and later married him.

The picture starred Robert Preston, later to become famous as "The Music Man," but it was Ladd the fans remembered.

At the height of his popularity at Paramount, Ladd received 20,000 fan letters a month. He employed eight secretaries to answer them.

Hamilton Lets Jobs

The base procurement office at Hamilton Air Force Base today asked for bids on one job and announced the awarding of contracts on three others.

Bids were called to alter liquid fuel truck fill-stands and to supply condiments and related products for troop issue at Hamilton.

A $7,229 contract was awarded to Lloyd Hunter Construction Co. of Novato to repair and alter the Women's Air Force dormitory.

Murray Baxter of San Rafael was awarded a $6,768 contract to repair a water storage stand.

A $4,900 contract was given W. K. McLellan of San Anselmo for construction of a trailer parking court.

Airman Reassigned

Airman 2C Robin W. Lampson of San Anselmo has been reassigned to March Air Force Base following graduation from the training course for Air Force radio equipment repairmen at Keesler AFB, Miss. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lampson of 221 Brookside Drive, San Anselmo.

McINNIS SOUNDS WARNING ON FILL

Moratorium Could Delay Flood Control And Industrial Development, He Tells Mayors

A four-year moratorium on bay filling might halt Marin flood control projects and much of its industrial development, Mayor John F. McInnis of San Rafael told the Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen last night.

McInnis outlined moratorium proposals and asked for expressions of opinion to present next Thursday in Berkeley at a special meeting of the Assn. of Bay Area Governments, of which he is president.

He got only one dissent from his own position that a moratorium is not necssary immediately and that if one is enacted, it must contain provisions to prevent interference with flood control, channel dredging and waste disposal, and some sort of relief for private investors who have money tied up in fillable bayshore lands.

The dissent came from County Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker, against whom McInnis is expected to be a candidate in June.

Leydecker, who earlier had said "I'm at a little bit of a loss" on the subject because of not having studied it, declared: "This wouldn't convey my attitude. I would be in favor of a moratorium provided there are reservations attached to it . . ."

All five county supervisors were among the more than 50 officials attending the dinner meeting at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax — the first time the entire board has attended a meeting of the Council of Mayors. All gave their views on the bay fill problem.

McInnis said the Petris Bill, which was referred to an interim committee by the legislature last year, called for a four-year moratorium on all filling of land less than five feet above the mean high water line of the bay.

This, he said, would even prevent filling at Davidson School or in the Bret Harte industrial area. The Army Corps of Engineers is on record, he said, that it would stop all channel dredging through forbidding dumping of the spoil. This, McInnis noted, would prevent dredging the San Rafael Canal or Richardson Bay. Also, he declared, it would stop all fill-and-cover garbage disposal along the bay's shores.

Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'berg of Sacramento, who heads the interim committee, said after a recent hearing that he plans to ask permission to introduce legislation at this year's special session. But McInnis said Z'berg refused to indicate what it might contain.

There is wide divergence of opinion as to how fast the bay is being filled, McInnis noted. Mel Scott of University of California, one of the moratorium proponents, has claimed it is being filled at the rate of four and one-half to five square miles per year. The Army Corps of Engineers claims the rate is about one-half of one square mile per year.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr said "some form of reasonable legislation" is required, although not perhaps immediately. But, he said, "I don't think constitutionally, morally or ethically the rights of private property owners can be ignored."

Supervisor William D. Fusselman said compromise is called for between the extreme conservationists who seek the moratorium and the cities, counties and property owners on whom it might work extreme hardships.

Supervisor George H. Ludy, telling McInnis "I will go along with anything you recommend," declared: "I definitely do not want to see San Francisco Bay spoiled, but I am definitely not in favor of this moratorium."

Supervisor Chairman William A. Gnoss noted the proposed moratorium would halt flood control projects on Novato Creek and Petaluma River.

The mayors and councilmen went on record as favoring the proposed uniform county-wide dog control ordinance, with a single loud "no" voiced by Councilman Roy Farrington Jones of Ross. Earlier, however, City Administrator Douglas Flautt of San Anselmo objected to the ordinance.

Mayor Lesly A. Daveler of Larkspur reviewed efforts to get a bill for a Marin County Rapid Transit District included in the special call to the legislature.

The Ralph M. Brown Act and recent attorney general's opinions on it were reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson, city editor of the Independent-Journal. The act is that which requires that meetings of local governing bodies and their committees in California be public.

Gallinas Annexation To Proceed, Under Orders

The Las Gallinas Village Sanitary District is expected to go ahead with plans for annexation of the Gallinas Village Community Services District, under orders from the State Board of Water Pollution Control.

In a special meeting at the state attorney general's office in San Francisco yesterday, members of the community services district and sanitary district boards met on the problem of a $200,000 suit filed against the community services district over land on which some of its sewer facilities were installed.

County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said that Robert Hatch, president of International Investment Co., which filed the suit, left for South America on a vacation the day after the county, also a defendant, was served.

The sanitary district, on hearing of the suit, had ordered engineer J. Warren Nute to stop engineering work on the proposal to take over the sewer service.

The three sanitary board members present, chairman Floyd Hovland, Fred J. Mahr Jr. and John E. Duckell, promised to ask that engineering work be started again. But, they warned, no contract would be let until either the suit was settled or the sanitary district was absolved of any liability.

Conference Registrations Closed; But It Will Be Aired

Registration for Saturday's conference on "Marin and Its Future" has been closed, but interested persons who were too late to register may hear it all on Radio KTIM-FM.

Mrs. Margaret Azevedo, conference chairman, announced today that 400 reservations had alrealy been received—the capacity of Guzman Hall of Dominican College in San Rafael, where the conference is to be held. No more can be accepted, she said.

Meantime, news editor Karl Barron of KTIM announced the entire conference will be broadcast over KTIM-FM (100.9 mc).

The broadcast will begin at 9:30 a.m. and continue until the final summation at about 4 p.m. by County Supervisor Peter H. Behr. This last portion will be carried on KTIM-AM as well.

Bill Thompson, who will coordinate the pickups from various locations in the college, will use amplifiers and five microphones to give full coverage, Barron said.

Girls, Housemother Ruled One Family

Five girls from Sunny Hills in San Anselmo and a housemother form a single family unit, therefore, no variance is needed for them to live in a "group home" at 16 Millay Place, Mill Valley.

This ruling by the County Counsel was presented Tuesday night to the Mill Valley Planning Commission over mild protests from two residents of the Enchanted Knolls area. This eliminated the variance request from Sunny Hills.

Tam Sanitary Area Rules Book On Sale

Copies of the Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District's newly adopted omnibus ordinance are for sale at the Tamalpais Valley Firehouse at 25 cents each, Robert D. Smith, director, said today.

The ordinance contains rules governing sewer extensions, schedules of connection charges for both residential and commercial property owners, and "should be of interest to real estate brokers and developers," said Smith.

BUT HAS BIG JOB

Professions Unit Is Little Known

By BILL BOYARSKY
(First of two articles)

But he's an important man to physicians, accountants, funeral directors and members of 26 other occupations regulated by agencies of the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards.

The 62-year-old Republican was given the job by Gov. Edmund G. Brown after he supported the Democratic governor against the GOP's Richard Nixon in 1962.

His department isn't well-known to the public. It's one of the few state agencies without a public relations man.

But even if it escapes the spotlight of publicity, P and V can't avoid controversy.

For the 29 boards, commissions and bureaus in the department license occupations affecting your entire life, from delivery room to the grave.

Everybody in the healing arts — including midwives — is licensed by the state. So are architects, engineers, contractors, pest controllers, boxers, barbers, dry cleaners, private detectives, marriage counselors and shorthand reporters.

So many people are affected by the department that complaints are frequent.

Right now, the loudest complaints are coming from Sen. Alan Short (D-Stockton). He's the chairman of a committee which is trying to find out if the regulatory agencies are protecting the public.

Short has his doubts. He has been particularly critical of the Bureau of Furniture and Bedding Inspection and the State Board of Dry Cleaners.

"It would appear to me that we have a most compassionate bureau," he said of Furniture and Bedding.

That was his comment after disclosing that the bureau had found violations in half of the 495 articles of furniture and bedding checked last year—but had disciplined only a handful of violators.

As for the dry cleaners board, Short charged it protects the industry at the expense of the public and competitors. He said it has been "the feeling of the committee that this board has set up its regulations to restrict" coin-operated cleaning establishments.

Complaints similar to Short's persuaded the 1961 legislature to enact laws adding laymen to the regulator boards, previously composed only of members of professions or vocations.

Officials reply the regulatory agencies have the public's interest at heart.

"The board has always been aware of the public," said W. W. Thompson, executive secretary of the Board of Medical Examiners.

Thompson also questioned the use of statistical lists of complaints and disciplinary actions to judge an agency's effectiveness.

"It does indicate a portion of activities, but there are other areas where you have no jurisdiction," he said.

Proton Is Measured To Quadrillionth Of Inch

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—A new reason for marveling at the precision of physicists was today's revelation that a team of them has measured the proton down to one quadrillionth of an inch.

That's much shorter than short. To write one quadrillion you put down 15 zeroes and put "1" in front of them. To make it one quadrillionth you can write it thus, 0.000 000 000 000 001.

This ultra precision was aimed at finding out if the structure of matter is even more complex than is now provable. A proton is now considered to be an elementary particle.

There is at least one in the nucleus of every atom. If it should turn out a proton and other elementary particles forming the structure of atoms are not elementary at all, a complete understanding of nature in its ultimate depth will be even further away.

Theoretical physics postulates that elementary particles are not really elementary but are themselves made up of even tinier particles. The team which reported to a national meeting of the American Physical Society took the search for the truth as far as it can go with the proton and the investigative tools now in existence.

These tools are vast and costly machines which accelerate particles to fantastic energies. The tool the team used was the synchrotron at Brookhaven National Labortaory, Upton, N.Y., which accelerates protons to an energy of 30 billion electron volts. No other accelerator does as well.

Protons were held stationary in the machine's target area. A beam of protons was directed at them with that energy. The resultant collisions were recorded on scintillation counters and the energy transfers were computed through elaborate electronic circuitry.

In any collision the moving proton would transfer some of its energy to the stationary proton, and the more direct the hit the more the transferred energy. The most direct of direct hits—a head-on collision, as it were—would transfer one-half of the moving proton's energy to the stationary one and they'd bounce out of the field of the counters at the same speed.

On the basis of these energy transfers and the frequency of "high momentum transfer collisions" the scientists calculated the proton's dimensions down to that fabulous one quadrillionth of an inch. But there are measurements of even smaller which will be made when more powerful accelerators are available.

The experimental results indicated the proton has a "hard core." Otherwise, it was theorized, there could have been no "high momentum transfer collisions." Whether this "hard core" corresponds to the nucleus of the atom is presently unknowable. The key question physics is now trying to answer is what an elementary particle consists of—and if it consists of particles much more elementary than it is.

The scientists were Drs. Giuseppe Cocconi, Jay Orear, Roy Rubinstein, Donald B. Scari, Vanna T. Cocconi and Alan Krisch of Cornell University and Drs. Winslow F. Baker, Edger W. Jenkins and A. Lincoln Read of Brookhaven. Orear reported to the meeting in behalf of the team.

Candidates Taking Out Petitions

The usually placid town of Ross produced the greatest flurry of political activity in Marin this morning as the period opened for taking out and filing petitions of candidacy for April 14 municipal elections.

Three candidates for city council immediately took out nomination papers in Ross: Incumbents Harry C. Scott Jr. and William C. Bricca and W. Peter McAndrew, a bank employee residing on Makin Grade.

Also, incumbent City Clerk Natalie G. Lewis took out her own nominatoin papers. And Mrs. Eleanor T. Muller, now serving in the non-elective post of finance officer, took out a petition of candidacy for city treasurer.

Two petitions were taken out in behalf of city council candidates in Fairfax, but City Clerk Alice Leonesio said she did not know for whom they were taken. Mrs. Leonesio also took out a petition for her own candidacy for re-election.

There were also two sets of nominating papers taken out on behalf of unidentified city council aspirants in Sausalito.

No papers were taken out up to noon in Belvedere, Corte Madera, Larkspur, Mill Valley, Novato or San Anselmo. San Rafael does not have a city election this year.

Deadline for filing the petitions if Feb. 20 at noon. Feb. 20 is also the last day voters may register to qualilfy for the city elections.

man said it had not yet been decided whether a state of diplomatic recognition still exists or whether recognition was automatically suspended by the coup and if so whether it will be reinstituted.

Department spokesman Richard I. Phillips, said the question of U.S. aid to Vietnam, which has amounted to more than 1.5 million dollars a day, is also up in the air, awaiting a full assessment of the facts.

Phillips said he had no reports of any Americans being injured in the coup and that "the situation there is reported to be quiet."

In another development the White House said President Lyndon B. Johnson reseived reports of coup yesterday after he wound up a meeting at 5:15 p.m. with congressional leaders about the Panama crisis.

Acting press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said the president "kept close surveillance until about 10:30 p.m." on reports coming in from the U.S. Embassy in Saigon through regular diplomatic communications channels.

The president had not talked directly by telephone with U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge or other American officials in Vietnam last night or this morning, Hatcher said.

There was no immediate assessment on what effect the peaceful coup d'etat would have on the Vietnamese war against the Communist guerrillas, officials said.

Saigon radio announced: "The standing committee of the revolutionary military committee formed on Nov. 1 last year lacked the ability to deal with the nation's internal and external problems and therefore has been dissolved. The new chairman of the standing committee is Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, commander of the First Corps. This decision is effective today, Jan. 30."

Forgery Charge

Walter Michael Lynch, 38, of San Francisco was booked in Marin County jail last night by Sausalito police on a charge of forging a check for more than $400 for merchandise purchased about two months ago from Joel's Jewelers on Bridgeway. Lynch's bail was set at $2,750.

DISTRICTS

and would be denied in the coming election unless action were taken before Feb. 2. That is the deadline for action if the boundary changes are to be effective for this year's elections.

The third choice would be to claim technical mistakes in the suit and to dispute some of the claims. The board agreed to this choice, but also decided to make a last-ditch major effort at changing boundaries.

To that end, a meeting of the board was set for 9 a.m. tomorrow. The supervisors promised to spend the entire day and possibly longer in trying to hammer out a solution.

The board asked Planning Director B. D. Dobbs to present copies of maps of the county divided into census tracts, and to get information from the Marin County Development Assn. on current population figures.

County Clerk George H. Gnoss was asked to provide the board with county precinct maps.

Maloney said a state Supreme Court decision on the Monterey County case indicated without doubt that population would have to be the main consideration.

Supevisor William D. Fusselman said it would be difficult for the West Marin area to gain adequate representation.

"They have a different way of life," he said, adding that a man from another part of the county could not adequately visualize their problems.

Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker said the only solution he could see would be to have the districts run in horizontal bands across the county, so that every supervisor would have to answer, at least in part, to west Marin's wishes and needs.

Fusselman said he had been thinking of the same thing.

Supervisor George H. Ludy was absent for the special, hurriedly called meeting, but was telephoned and said he would be at the Civic Center tomorrow.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr said Maloney might present evidence in court on how hard the supervisors had worked on the matter.

"This is a two-bladed sword," answered Maloney. "The court could find you already have studied it enough."

Fusselman noted that the suit claimed he and Ludy have voted against redistricting. Fusselman said this allegation was false, since he had never voted at all, so far, and neither had the other board members. Leydecker agreed.

Fusselman went on to say he had opposed the plan presented by the advisory committee, but had not said he would vote against any plan.

Maloney said the suit proposes as one court solution the election of supervisors at large, using a law which allows such elections if there has never been a county redistricting.

Chairman George A. Gnoss said that there have been some boundary changes as late as 1940, although they did not radically change the population proportions in the various districts.

Marin Drizzle Fizzles Out

San Rafael had .01 of an inch in the 24-hour period ending at noon today. Tamalpais Valley had .05.

Other rainfall totals in the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today were Point Reyes Station, .03, and Woodacre and Larkspur, .01.

position if they tried to run for the board.

He added that if the proposal passes, some of these persons might make excellent trustees of the new district.

Mrs. Wallace said that June would not give the voters enough time to become informed on the issue. Committee member Mrs. Watson M. Conner answered that the task of education would not go on during the summer anyway.

Mrs. Winifred Frederick of Lagunitas, a leader of the Committee Against Unification of the Tamalpais District as a Whole, asked for a special election, in spite of the cost. She claimed the June ballot would be too cluttered.

Committee member Robert Rogers made the major point in favor of the June date. He said that school district tax and bond issues will be almost impossible to pass while the unification election is pending. Election in June would help local boards make up budgets, he said.

A delay of six months in the election might mean a delay of two years in providing classrooms in many districts, Rogers declared.

The committee received the resignation of member Peter MacGowan, who said he had not enough time for committee work. The group voted to send letters to school boards throughout the county asking for nominations, but also agreed to name a screening committee to interview candidates to explain the amount of work, in the hope that the new member selected would have more time to spend on committee affairs.

Action on the Tomales Joint Union High School District area was put over until a later meeting.

The committed decided informally to start action in February on unification in the Novato and San Rafael areas. Blackmore said his department has had to rework much of the Booz-Allen and Hamilton report on unification for the area.

Girl, 9, Injured In School Scuffle

Geraldine Vaughn, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vaughn of San Geronimo, was bruised in a scuffle in a corridor at Lagunitas School Tuesday and lost a day of school due to her injuries.

Her father said five boys attacked the girl while she was serving as a monitor in a school corridor at 11:30 a.m.

Supt. Clifford L. Frye, said there were conflicting reports on the incident and there may have been from six to eight pupils involved.

"It was not a serious thing," he said.

Vaughn said his daughter suffered black eyes and a bruised shoulder. She was back in school today.

OBITUARIES

Dr. Barton E. Briggs Dies At 54

Dr. Barton Eugene Briggs, 54-year-old physician and a resident of Marin County for two and one-half years, died early yesterday in his home at 54 Serra Way, San Rafael.

The Marin County coroner's office said today an autopsy failed to disclose cause of death, and further tests by a pathologist and a toxicologist were being conducted. Results are not expected for about 10 days.

William C. Bradley, assistant coroner, added, however, that Briggs had suffered a heart attack about 18 months ago.

He said Dr. Briggs, whose practice was in San Francisco, arrived home about 8 p.m. Tuesday. He retired in a rear bedroom about 11 p.m. His wife, Mary Louise, was reading in a front bedroom.

About 4 a.m. Wednesday she was awakened by the family's dog scratching at the door. She checked to see if her husband was asleep. She found him lying face down and without a pulse beat, on the bedroom floor.

The San Rafael Fire Department was summoned, but resuscitation efforts were futile.

A native of Hollister, San Benito County, Dr. Briggs was a veteran of World War II and a member of the International Footprint Assn., a fraternal police organization, in San Francisco.

Graveside services will be at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow in Odd Fellows Cemetery in Hollister.

A year later he joined American Airlines, flying out of New York until his transfer to San Francisco in 1957.

He leaves his wife, Masa, and two daughters, Nancy, 2, and Laara, 18 months.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley.

Dallas Hall, the operator, and the two men conversed. She said she didn't hear what they said.

The government has said it will show Tweel, at the direction of Hall, the operator, and defendant Allen Dorfman of Chicago, asked Hall to try to contact jurors who were hearing the trial.

Miss Pettijohn said she was in Nashville during Hoffa's 1962 trial, as a professional pianist at a downtown hotel. She said she met Tweel while working.

Earlier, the government sought to link Hoffa with a series of telephone calls which it claims were made to rig his Nashville trial jury.

A Detroit telephone company official testified that calls, from pay booths, were made on a credit card issued to the Detroit Teamsters local which Hoffa heads. Those from Detroit, he said, were made from a pay booth near Hoffa's home — at a time the union leader was on trial in Nashville.

Mama Rabbit And The Pups

GREENSBURG, Kan. (AP) — A pet doe rabbit provided a mother's tender care for a litter of Pekingese puppies abandoned by their mother.

John Bedinger reported the rabbit took over voluntarily when the dog left the pups. Bedinger's main problem was at feeding time. He had to feed the puppies from bottles until they were big enough to scramble for a pan of dog food.

OVE SCHMIDT

Funeral for Ove Schmidt, 63, of 1332 Monte Marie, Novato, who died yesterday, will be held at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home in Novato. Private burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Bruno.

C. R. SALYER

Charles Raymond Salyer, 53, former San Rafael resident, died of a heart attack Dec. 24 in London, his daughter, Mrs. Salyer Likerman of Greenbrae, disclosed today after returning home from the funeral and from visiting her mother, still living in England.

Services were held in the U. S. Air Force Chapel at Ruislip, near London, Dec. 28.

Salyer, a native of Missouri, served in the Air Force from a base in England during World War II. After 14 years' service, mostly at overseas bases, he was discharged as a master sergeant shortly before moving to Marin in 1954.

He and his wife, Mrs. Janet Salyer, and another daughter, Janis, went to England to live in 1962.

He also is survived by a son, Alexander, of San Francisco; three sisters and one brother in Missouri, and one granddaughter.

IRENE WHITE

Funeral services for Irene F. White, 55, of 47 Loring Avenue, Mill Valley, will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael.

Mrs. White died Sunday at a local hospital where she had been ill since Jan. 18.

In addition to her husband, she leaves two sons, Robert White of the California Maritime Academy and William White of Mill Valley; her father, John Currier, and five brothers, Everett J. Currier of Menlo Park, Thomas T. Currier of Santa Barbara, Louis Currier of Los Angeles, Ray J. Currier of Oregon and Earl Currier of Chicago.

ZOOOOOOOOOOOOM

(WOW! Plymouth's got it)

Plymouth has special engines for Zooooooom (optional, of course). That's an important item to a good many people.

Others don't feel they need that much Zoom. They stick with the high performance of our standard V-8 or the economy of our standard six.

What's important to you—no matter how you like your power—is that Plymouth's a car designed to make good use of it.

Power-hungry or not, test-drive the new Plymouth. Consider the fact that Plymouth offers you a 5-year or 50,000-mile warranty* on the parts that keep you going. Then you'll know why we say, "Get up and go Plymouth!"

*HERE'S HOW PLYMOUTH'S 5-YEAR/50,000-MILE WARRANTY PROTECTS YOU:

Chrysler Corporation warrants for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, against defects in materials and workmanship and will replace or repair at a Chrysler Motors Corporation Authorized Dealer's place of business, the engine block, head and internal parts, intake manifold, water pump, transmission case and internal parts (excluding manual clutch), torque convertor, drive shaft, universal joints, rear axle and differential, and rear wheel bearings of its 1964 automobiles, provided the owner has the engine oil changed every 3 months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first, the oil filter replaced every second oil change and the carburetor air filter cleaned every 6 months and replaced every 2 years, and every 6 months furnishes to such a dealer evidence of performance of the required service, and requests the dealer to certify (1) receipt of such evidence and (2) the car's then current mileage.

Your Bay Area Plymouth-Valiant dealer invites you to visit Chrysler Corporation's Turbine car display at Hillsdale Shopping Center, January 29 through February 1.

GWEN CURATILO

80 Children To Sing In New Cantata

More than 80 Marin children will sing in the West Coast premiere of Menotti's cantata, "The Death of the Bishop of Brindisi," Saturday at 8 p.m. in Angelico Hall of Dominican College, San Rafael.

Members of the Santa Venetia and Davidson Junior High School Choruses and the Winifred Baker Children's Chorus, they sing the roles of the ill-fated children whom the bishop blessed as they set sail on the Children's Crusade.

The role of the bishop will be sung by baritone Byron Jones. Soprano Gwen Curatilo is cast as the nun who nurses the bishop on his deathbed.

In the 1962 season Miss Curatilo sang 23 roles with the San Francisco Opera. She received rave reviews last summer for her performance as "Madame Butterfly" at Stern Grove in San Francisco.

Preceding the premiere will be two other choral works, William Walton's "Coronation Te Deum" and "Cantata on the Death of Emperor Joseph II" by Beethoven.

In the Walton work the Winifred Baker Chorale will be joined by Marin Pro Musica, the Madrigal Singers of Dominican College, and Wilbur Russell on the organ.

Pianist William Clark of Corte Madera and the Winifred Baker Orchestra with Everett O'Bannon as concertmaster will accompany the choirs.

Tickets will be on sale at the door and at various Marin County book and music stores.

Lance Says He'll Marry Actress

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Wealthy Lance Reventlow says he plans to marry actress Cheryl Holdridge as soon as his divorce from actress Jill St. John is final.

Reventlow, 27, a racing car builder and driver, is the son of dime store heiress Barbara Hutton.

OVERSIZED QUARTERS OR UNDERSIZED CARS?

This scene is either a testimonial for the spaciousness of garages in the Forest Hills subdivision, Novato, of Kaehler-Farrar Development Co. or for the compact products of Leon J. Felton's Volkswagen agency in San Rafael. It resulted from an argument between Jack Farrar (left) and Reuben W. Kaehler (center), who insisted there was room for four cars. Saleswoman Carolyn Blake settled the dispute by squeezing in this foursome.

BUSINESS EARNINGS INCREASE

Reports Both Impressive, Reassuring

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Business has caught its second breath in the current long upswing and this week is showing it where it counts: Increased earnings. The reports are impressive and reassuring.

Profits are at record highs for a long list of companies, large and small. Most reflect increased sales and production. Cost cutting and automation play a big part.

Also reassuring for the immediate future is that for many corporations the big gain in profits over the previous year came in the final months of 1963. Executives say they expect the trend to continue for a while. The profit boosts came after a breather in the early months of 1963.

ALMOST UNANIMOUS

Some leading industries are almost unanimous in reporting record of at least greatly improved earnings: steel, oil, railroads, business machines and utilities. Giants in the motors, glass and chemical industries report good gains in 1963. Some of these climbed to record heights.

The flood of annual statements is just starting. But early reports of some companies and those of many with fiscal years ending before the calendar one give a preview. The final tally seems sure to show that 1963 was the best year yet for business profits in aggregate.

Among the biggest saying 1963 easily topped 1962 are General Motors, AT&T, Jersey Standard Oil, U.S. Steel, IBM, Du Pont, Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads, and Consolidated Edison and Public Service E&G utilities.

OTHER GIANTS

Other giants among the steels so far to report better earnings than in 1962 are Republic, National, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Inland, Armco.

Big oil companies enjoying a more profitable year include Texaco, Socony Mobil, Shell, Gulf, Cities Service, Sinclair, Sun, Marathon, Phillips.

International Harvester, Caterpillar Tractor, Massey Ferguson, Johns Manville, Carrier, Monsanto Chemical, Koppers, Firestone, all report increased earnings. So do Douglas Aircraft and Continental Airlines.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Sequoia Title Co. Settles On San Rafael Office Location

Paul R. Leahy, who recently announced he will open Sequoia Title Co. in San Rafael, has settled on a location. Offices will be at 341 Third Street in the Montecito Shopping Center. No date for the opening has been set, but it is planned for sometime in February.

Leahy was former vice president and manager of Title Insurance and Trust Co., San Rafael. He and his wife and two daughters live in Santa Venetia.

A NEW BUSINESS that expects to get under way this weekend is Weathercraft Aluminum Products, Inc. at 4164 Redwood Highway, across from Terra Linda. This is headed by Allen Ward, now living in San Carlos but who expects to move to San Rafael shortly. Production manager is Clifford McAuliffe, now living in Terra Linda.

The firm retails and wholesales aluminum awnings, carports, patios and screen enclosures.

REAL ESTATE BROKER Lynn E. Barr who has had his office on Tiburon Highway, just east of Highway 101 for about 14 years, has closed and is now associated with Temelec. This is the 268-acre planned retirement community taking shape in the Valley of the Moon, near Sonoma.

Barr is building a home in Sonoma and expects to move there in the spring. Meanwhile he continues to live in Kentfield. He will retain an inactive membership in the Marin County Real Estate Board.

CHARLES BRUNNER of Terra Linda has been named cargo sales manager for United Air Lines in San Francisco. He was formerly district cargo representative in the airline's Cleveland office. He joined United in 1955 as a reservations agent in New York City. Later he became an air freight salesman there, transferring to Cleveland in 1958.

ROBERT F. GIRARD of Kentfield has been made a member of the board of directors of the Northern California Industrial Relations Council. He is associated with Dalmo Victor Co., Belmont.

VERNON A. LIBBY of Fairfax, executive vice president of the Better Business Bureau of San Francisco, announces that the organization's next annual meeting will be held March 2 at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel in San Francisco. Featured speaker will be Joseph D. Lohman, dean of the School of Criminology at the University of California, Berkeley. He has been a consultant on police problems for many U. S. cities.

Better Business Bureau's educational leaflets cover many schemes, promotions and phony deals in various lines of business. I understand that single copies are available upon request to both members and non-members without charge, although the demand has been so heavy there may be some delay in mailing.

There is also a series of "fact booklets" on various types of business available at a nominal charge. Lists may be secured by writing the bureau office at 414 Mason Street, San Francisco.

JACK ZIMMER, sales manager for Ames Ford Sales, San Rafael, has been named one of the top Ford sales managers in the country. He was presented a trophy by Ford's district sales office for outstanding performance in 1963.

JOSEPH J. WITTENMEIER of Mill Valley has been honored by Home Life Insurance Co. for outstanding achievements during the past year. He has been named a member of the company's Leaders Club.

WEAVER HAIR GOODS, a new business at 2200 Bridgeway, Sausalito (in the Sunset Plastic building) manufactures wigs and hair pieces. Owner Mrs. Joyce Hansen (nee Weaver) formerly was co-owner in Weaver and Lucey of San Francisco (same type of business) for 17 years. She lives at 5 Joan Avenue, Novato. Sales are mostly wholesale—out of the state.

We have one wig and hairpiece importer in Marin, but this seems to be the first manufacturer. Weaver imports most of its materials from Europe.

WALL STREET

Declines Can Teach Lessons

NEW YORK (UPI) — David Quarrell of Shearson, Hammill and Co. says he is confident about the prospects for economy and the market over the next year but feels investors' enthusiasm is moving ahead of economic fundamentals.

Quarrell feels that investors should take a lesson from the declines in some of the market favorites last week. He points out that in such issues, declines can be as rapid as advances whenever enthusiasm wanes or profit-taking outweighs new commitments.

TEMPORARY BLOWOFF

Bradbury K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohu and Stetson continues to believe the current market will prove to be "nothing more than a temporary blowoff of speculative confidence."

CONVERT TO CASH

Goodbody and Co. says if the speculative fever now concentrated in a few issues should spread to the general market, the time will have come to take profits and convert to cash. However, the firm feels that time has not come and says the approach to the 800 level in the Dow-Jones Industrial Average should not entail any serious correction.

CAUSE FOR CONCERN

Richard T. Leahy of J. W. Sparks and Co. says that despite the frothy action of several issues, the technical action of the market shows some cause for concern. The firm feels the one million share decline in daily average trading activity lessened considerably the favorable potential of the new record in the Dow-Jones Industrial Average and leads him to believe a retreat to the 755-760 area is in the making.

Steel Plant Opens

PITTSBURG — The West's first plant to make steel strapping was opened here yesterday. As a result, Western manufacturers and shippers soon can expect to see improved prices and lower materials handling costs of steel strapping.

Mart Closes Higher During Active Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed irregularly higher today in active trading.

Volume for the day was estimated at 4.3 million shares compared with 4.45 million on yesterday.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point prevailed among most key stocks.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) increased the dividend but proposed no stock split, disappointing some, so the stock was off a point.

Ford, up a point, Hercules Powder, ahead more than a point, and Burroughs, fractionally higher, had a part in the Ranger moonshot missile.

IBM recouped about 7 points, Xerox over 2, Control Data more than 3 and Polaroid more than a point.

General Motors was up a fraction following reported success of the big 3.9-million share secondary offering.

Radio Corp.'s (when-issued) stock split, looked like the volume leader as it gained fractionally over its opening price. RCA regular gained more than a point.

Lorillard rose about a point while other leading cigarette manufacturers added fractions. Gains of about a point were scored by Eastman Kodak, Union Carbide and Allied Chemical. Merck was up about 2.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mostly higher in quiet trading.

U.S. government bond prices were unevenly higher in quiet trading. Corporates opened mixed.

Permission Asked For Cable From N.J. To France

WASHINGTON — A subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. applied yesterday for permission to lay a transatlantic cable between New Jersey and France, with intermediate direct connections at the Azores to the nations of Southern Europe.

The application to the Federal Communications Commission by MacKay Radio and Telegraph Co. supplements one made on Jan. 3 of this year asking the FCC for authority to lay a direct cable between Cape Cod, Mass., and France.

MacKay, a wholly owned subsidiary of American Cable and Radio Corp. which, in turn, is wholly owned by IT&T, proposed to share the cost of the total project with the European nations concerned.

Earnings By TWA Hit $19,688,000

The Independent-Journal does not aggressively solicit or render copy writing service for political advertisements that are argumentative in content. Political advertisements are construed to be all assertions subject to public controversy, whether or not a public election is involved.

Any political advertisement that is not clearly the personal appeal of the elective candidate or candidates involved must show the name of the sponsoring group together with the name or names of one or more persons officiating for such group and their address.

Political advertisements must be submitted in complete and explicit form, ready for the printers, and clearly marked as to size and date of appearance. All political advertisements are payable in advance. Charges are figured at the regular rate.

Advertising deadlines are 4 p.m., two days preceding publication. As example: Tuesday advertisements must be in Friday at 4 p.m.; Monday advertisements must be in the preceding Friday morning. Any intervening holiday advances the deadline by a day.

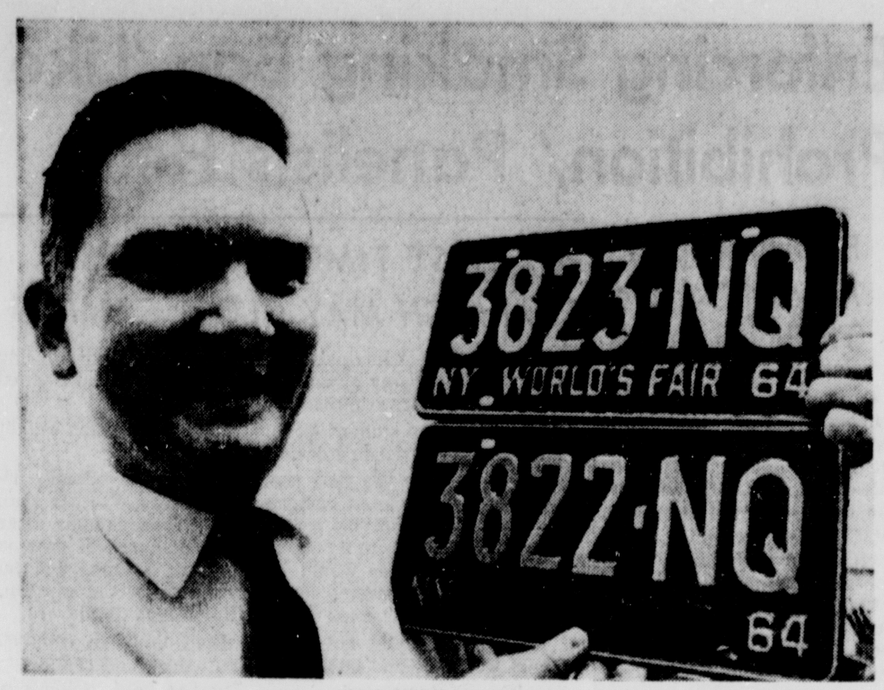

No responsibility to show printer's proof is assumed under the above schedule.

If a proof is desired, advertisement must be submitted substantially in advance. Corrections, if any, must be ordered by 4 p.m., two working days preceding publication. Any changes from original copy will be charged for on basis of printing work involved.

On the last publication day before an election no political advertisement other than a simple statement of advocacy will be printed. As example: "Vote yes on proposition three," or "Elect John Jones," together with facts as to nature and time of election and, if desired, candidate's party affiliation or occupational identity.

Nearing a public election, no advertisement introducing a new controversial subject will be accepted to run later than the fourth publication day preceding the election. If any new statement or issue should be introduced on the fourth publication day preceding the election, attacking the opposing candidate or issue involved, the newspaper may, at its discretion, make allowance under this rule for the opposing side to answer.

Necessity for the newspaper's disinterested handling of political advertisements is readily apparent. These terms and conditions are adhered to in spirit of fairness to all.

GIANT SLAYER

This is E. Kenneth Froslid, 32, of Port Washington, N. Y., in whose favor the New York State Supreme Court ruled this week in his suit to have a World's Fair slogan removed from his 1964 automobile license plates. He is shown displaying plates for his two cars. One plate shows the slogan and the other shows the slogan obliterated. The state will appeal the decision. The court ruled the state must provide Froslid with sloganless plates. "I took on two giants, New York State and the World's Fair and won," said Froslid. (AP Wirephoto)

Ike Raises Funds, Praises Gov. Romney

Eisenhower, looking hale and hearty at a trim 165 pounds, climaxed a two-day visit to Michigan last night as the star performer at a $100-a-plate "Dinner With Ike," designed to raise money for the 1964 GOP war chest.

3,000 ON HAND

He was to fly back to his winter home at Palm Springs today.

He talked briefly to more than 3,000 Republicans at Cobo Hall last night, then went on a closed-circuit telecast to address 22 fund-raising dinners across the country.

Eisenhower proposed a nationwide GOP system of "party-to-people" plans to conduct forums and public discussions aimed at stimulating and educating voters.

He tempered an attack on France by first referring to President Charles de Gaulle as "an old friend" and, "the savior of France."

CHINA NOT DECENT

However, he said, Communist China "hasn't acted like a decent member of the family of nations" and doesn't deserve the diplomatic recognition France has given her.

"I wouldn't recognize them until they mended their ways," Eisenhower said. "Red China stands before the United Nations as an aggressor and has never abandoned its announced purpose to take Formosa by force."

He lauded Romney as "a vote getter" with an appealing personality but avoided giving him a plug for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination.

Unruh Drafting Bill To Equalize Aid To Schools

By BILL BOYARSKY

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh is drafting legislation aimed at completely revising the present method of financing the public schools.

An aide disclosed the speaker's plans today as lawmakers and state officials began forming battle lines for the 1964 legislature's expected fight over the educational dollar.

Rafferty has asked for a 75-million-dollar increase in the 837 million dollars the state is now giving to local districts. Brown seeks an additional 35 million dollars in state aid — if the legislature approves a countywide equalization tax designed to raise another 27.5 million dollars.

Rafferty opposes the countywide tax, which would force districts with a large tax base to share their wealth with poorer districts in the same county.

Even if the legislature does nothing, state aid to school districts will increase substantially. The law requires a 51 million-dollar hike to meet population growth and the districts will get 25 million dollars more voted by the last legislature.

Brown issued a statement today defending his request as "a realistic program based on both need and ability to pay."

"Those who are proposing increased expenditures should make it perfectly clear that they are also proposing and supporting more taxes to pay for their programs," he said.

Unruh's aide said the speaker hadn't yet decided on the specifics of his educational finance bill. But he said the legislation aims to:

1. Eliminate the constitutional requirement that each school district receive a minimum allocation of state aid—the so-called "basic aid." Instead, Unruh would use all funds to equalize the economic difference between rich and poor districts.

2. Bring about a more efficient organization of school districts.

3. Pump more state dollars into local districts.

4. Lift some of the school support burden from property taxpayers, especially in residential areas with a small tax base.

The aide said Unruh (D-Los Angeles) wants a "structural and functional reform" of school financing methods.

But he emphasized the speaker has not made up his mind about the countywide tax.

Meanwhile, Chairman Carley V. Porter (D-Compton) of the Assembly water committee, spread the word that he wants a bigger slice of state money for water project development.

A spokesman said Porter is considering introducing a bill allocating 21 million dollars for the state water fund, which helps pay for construction of the California Water Project. That's 10 million dollars more than was in last year's budget.

Rocky Slashes At 'Failures' Under Demos

COMBINED AP & UPI

LOS ANGELES — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York today closes a three-day thrust into California marked by his first sustained attack against President Lyndon B. Johnson.

In Los Angeles yesterday, Rockefeller opened up on what he termed the "dismal Democratic record of failure in solving the problems facing Americans at home and abroad."

Speaking at the Hollywood Palladium to a $100-a-plate Republican fund-raising dinner, he pictured the Democrats as "riding two horses going in opposite directions."

Rockefeller, in a second speech to the Hollywood Palladium audience, charged that "Lyndon Johnson is running against the record of failure by the administration of which he was part and parcel for three years."

He ticked off:

Civil rights demonstrations in American cities, the "disarray in the free world alliances," four million jobless "in the midst of plenty," a Soviet military base 90 miles from Florida, "upheaval in Asia, explosion in Africa, eruption in Latin America."

In Washington Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) showed little concern today that Senate GOP whip Thomas H. Kuchel is leading the Rockefeller-for president forces in California.

The conservative candidate for the GOP presidential nomination said his California forces headed by former Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland, are ahead in the drive for the state's 86 convention votes. California holds its presidential primary on June 2.

Goldwater told newsmen that Kuchel's own supporters represent "no particular segment of the Republican party." The liberal assistant Senate GOP leader, he noted, "draws much of his support from Democrats."

BAGLEY COMBATS 'ABUSE' BY UNRUH

'Young Turks' Seek To De-Centralize Powers Of Assembly Majority Leader

By WAT TAKESHITA

Assemblyman William T. Bagley (R-San Rafael) left for Sacramento this week to continue the minority battle against what he terms the "abuse of power" by Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh.

"The Senate has a five-man rules committee to appoint committees and assign bills," Bagley explained. "But in the Assembly, one man does it all —Jess Unruh."

Working with three other young lawmakers, known as the "Young Turks," Bagley plans to seek reform of the system "which gives so much power to one man." He said the "Young Turks" will make the proposal at the outset of the 1964 session, which opens Monday, to de-centralize the speaker's powers.

"Even if we can't cut expenditures and direct more monies toward education, we can at least attempt to provide more of a balance so that you don't have runaway power in the hands of one man," said Bagley.

A bill to create a transit district for Marin has a good chance of being placed on the governor's special call, the Marin assemblyman said. A similar bill last year passed both houses but was vetoed by the governor. This time, the bill will include a paragraph stating that the Marin Transit District will go out of existence as soon as the county is able to re-join the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

Bagley will also attempt to get on the special call some type of legislation to swap land with the state so that Las Gallinas Creek can be straightened out to improve the development of the Civic Center lagoon area.

The San Rafael assemblyman is also asking the governor to place on the special session agenda a "clean elections" proposal. Bagley fought for it last year and blames its defeat on Unruh and his rules committee chairman, Tom Bane (D-North Hollywood).

Bagley has criticized what he calls a "slush fund" built up by Unruh through contributions from lobbyists and others and channeled into campaigns of pro-Unruh legislators.

Here are some of the other matters which Bagley hopes to pursue this year:

1. The 100-million-dollar surplus carried over from last year "we will try to get for education." He said the governor got the funds for purposes of education, and "if it's going to be spent anywhere, it should go for education."

2. About a million dollars has been proposed for a field house (athletic facilities including a gym) for Sonoma State College. "I'm anxious to see if the money for the field house is in the budget or whether it has been clipped out," Bagley said.

3. "A major issue this year will be 700 million dollars in proposed additional bond appropriations," said Bagley. "The last time the administration wanted to put part of the bonds on the June ballot and part in November. We want it in one package." The assemblyman pointed out that per capita bonded indebtedness in California rose from $15 in the late 1950s to $158 now.

4. Bagley wants to knock out a provision in the law that added a 1-cent gas tax last year and caused Sausalito and a handful of other cities to protest. For cities to get their share of the added gas tax revenue, they had to pass resolutions asking for the revenue and supporting the law. "They have to sign a loyalty oath to the governor," Bagley charged. "The administration did not want to be tagged with the responsibility for this additional tax and so it tried to get cities to endorse it."

Other possible legislation on bridges, water crossings and rail rapid transit will have to wait for the time being, said Bagley. He explained the Bay Area Transportation Commission was set up last year to study those problems.

Boy Fatally Shot At Television

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An 8-year-old boy was fatally shot last night while watching a western on television.

Sheriff's deputies said Raymond Allan Baumann was shot accidentally by his brother, who was handling a .22 caliber revolver he thought was unloaded.

The brother, Kenneth, 17, was taking care of the younger boy while his mother visited his father, who was in the McClellan Air Force Base hospital.

The parents are M/Sgt. and Mrs. Roy M. Baumann.

Eviction Of Botanist Up To The State

The State of California has to make the next move if it really wants to oust W. Warren Anderson and his 5,000 potted plants from land purchased for Mount Tamalpais State Park.

So stated Marin Superior Court Judge N. Charles Brusatori today, after what he termed a "strictly informal" meeting yesterday with Deputy Atty. Gen. Wayman Robertson and Anderson's attorney, Albert Bianchi.

The 68-year-old botanist has refused to budge from seven acres off Frank's Valley Road, now part of the state park. He alleges he can't find another nursery site in Marin adequate for his rare plants.

Judge Brusatori said the state wanted him to issue a writ ordering Anderson's eviction, but Bianchi held the superior court had no jurisdiction to permit state seizure.

"An eviction suit is still pending in Marin Municipal Court," Brusatori said. "There was nothing done at the meeting yesterday. It is strictly up to the state to pursue the matter and make the next move, if it wishes to do so.

Father Of Late Inmate Found Dead

SAN PABLO (UPI) — Forrest T. Darling, 59, father of an executed murderer, was found dead yesterday in his apartment.

Police said Darling apparently took an overdose of sleeping pills after writing three notes. One read: "I want a plain funeral—as cheap as possible because what does it matter after you're gone. If any money is left, get a head marker for Melvin Thomas Darling."

Melvin Darling, his son, was executed in the San Quentin gas chamber Oct. 1, 1962, for the Oakland murder of Alex Malcomson III.

Police said Darling had been under a physician's care since he was injured in an accident during a house painting job.

CORE Plans Picketing Of Real Estate Firm

Marin Congress of Racial Equality pickets are to march Saturday morning before the office of Ted Gibson Realtor at 328 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, CORE chairman Douglas J. Quiett said today.

The decision was made yesterday following failure in a third session of negotiations with Gibson and his attorney, Albert Bianchi.

Bianchi said today he will go before the Marin County Real Estate Board Feb. 13 and ask that it either adopt a rule that all Marin real estate brokers display a 'fair opportunity broker" placard in windows and use the phrase in newspaper advertising, or appropriate sufficient funds to enable Gibson to fight the picketing through the courts.

Gibson's firm is the second to be picketed by CORE. Walburn Realty, 90 East Blithedale Avenue, Mill Valley was picketed on weekends from Nov. 16, 1963 until thils month after CORE alleged Mrs. Walburn had offered apartments to whites but not to Negroes.

Pickets were withdrawn after Mrs. Walburn agreed to display a sign stating her firm as a "fair opportunity broker."

Quiett said that in November a Negro family went to Gibson and asked to see a home advertised in a newspaper. They were told the house was sold and none other was available in the price class. A white couple, an hour later was shown the first house plus several others in the price range, claimed Quiett.

Gibson, said Bianchi has agreed not to practice discrimination but has refused CORE's demand that he display a sign that he is a "fair opportunity broker." Bianchi likened the latter demand to a merchant's being required to place in his store window a sign saying "I am not a Communist.

Many Marin Pupils To Get The Day Off

For many Marin school children, tomorrow will be a holiday.

County Supt. of Schools Virgil S. Hollis reported schools in all but 10 districts in the county will be closed tomorrow, either for "institute day" or to give teachers a day for putting out semester grades.

The districts which will hold school as usual are San Rafael Elementary and High School Districts, Tomales High School District, Marin Junior College District, and Dixie, Fairfax, Reed, San Jose, Sausalito, and West Marin Elementary School Districts.

Searching Mill Valley Thief Takes Only Pot

An ornamental cast iron pot was reported stolen from outside the home of R. P. Kleinsmith of Mill Valley yesterday after the burglar had broken into the home and ransacked the living room, bedroom, den and bath.

Kleinsmith, who lives at 315 Ralston Avenue, said the break-in was made between 6:30 a.m. and 6:45 p.m. Entry was made by punching a hole through a screen and breaking a pane of glass in a door. No valuables were taken from the house, said Kleinsmith. The pot was hanging outside of the house.

Long Sauna Bath Kills Man, 75

SAN FRANCIOSCO (UPI) — Ernest Midwinter, 75, died yesterday from the effects of an over-long stay in a sauna bath.

Police said Midwinter was found unconscious yesterday morning in the Finnish style bath at the hotel where he lived.

Doctors said Midwinter's body temperature was 108 degrees when he arrived at San Francisco Emergency hospital, but efforts to cool him were futile.

Car Injures Woman On Hospital Lot

Wanda Lee Stroud, 50, of 307 San Rafael Avenue, Belvedere, had only a few feet to walk yesterday to get treated for minor injuries suffered when she was hit by a car in the parking lot of Marin General Hospital.

She was treated in the emergency room of the hospital for cuts on both knees.

Mrs. Stroud was walking across the parking lot near the old entrance to the hospital when she was hit by a car driven by Selma Antoinette Reno, 59, of 2115 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, at 2:45 p.m., according to the California Highway Patrol.

Stephen Merrill Bassel, 31, of Santa Rosa was to see a private doctor for treatment of minor injuries after a two-car accident yesterday at 10:45 a.m. on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, 15 feet east of San Geronimo Valley Drive.

Camila Wolfe, 45, of 222 Woodland Avenue, Kentfield, swerved to miss a pick-up truck which was making a quick turn and her car collided head-on with Bassel's car, the highway patrol reported.

Two Hamilton Men Awarded Safety Prizes

Safety paid off for two Hamilton Air Force men this week when each received a prize and trip to Colorado Springs for his safety record in the Air Defense Command's "life saver" campaign.

M/Sgt. Vincent G. Till of the 78th Field Maintenance Squadron placed 13th in the contest. He received a $385 set of golf clubs.

A/1c Lyle E. Meek of the 78th Air Police Squadron placed 26th and won a $250 camera set.

Both men went to Colorado Springs, where they received their prizes at a banquet.

San Rafael Rec Elects New Chairman

Arthur W. Friedler Jr., 211 Forbes Avenue, last night was named new chairman of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission.

Fiedler, on the commission for three years, replaces Carl J. Brown who resigned effective last Jan. 1.

Other commission business included a discussion of the city council request for a study tion needs for the next five or six years. Joseph D. Rodota, city recreation director, said principal work session toward this will be about park acquisition and development in the Terra Linda Valley area and completion of the Victor W. Jones Memorial Park in Glenwood.

The commission heard a report of increased daily attendance at San Rafael Community Center on Union Street. Attendance at the opening last August was 79 persons. Last month the average was 137.

An engineering report on feasibility of using two land parcels in Terra Linda Valley offered as a gift by the Freitas Estate will be given ths commission in two weeks, Rodota said. One parcel, about two acres, is at the end of Malone Lane and the other, acreage not determined, is at end of Dias Way.

Apartment Zoning Denied In Larkspur

Rezoning for apartments of property owned by the Larkspur Assn. of Volunteer Firemen across Crane Street from the Rose Bowl was turned down by a 3-2 vote Tuesday night by the Larkspur Planning Commismission.

The commission also denied rezoning from single-family to apartments of adjacent property owned by Minnie E. Learn and R. L. Hammon.

A petition signed by 18 persons objecting to the rezoning was presented by neighbors.

Voting for the rezoning were Commissioners William P. Schnell and Andrew Gilardi. Voting against were David Scott, Earl J. Grady and Henry T. Taylor.

Architectural approval for 108 apartment units in the Larkspur Plaza, being sought by developer James R. Coleman, was held over for submission of more complete plans.

Two Mill Valley Police Promoted

Two promotions were announced in the Mill Valley police department today by Police Chief Dan Terzich.

Sgt. William Walsh, with the department five and one-half years, has been promoted to lieutenant, filling a vacancy left by Lt. Charles McCourtney, recently retired on a physical disability discharge.

Enforcing Smoking Ban 'Like Prohibition,' Panelists Hear

Four Principals Agree It's Hard To Police Pupils

Principals of five high schools in Marin County, on Radio Station KTIM's "Sounding Board" today, told of the difficulties in enforcing the ban on student smoking on their campuses.

"It's like prohibition," said George Yertson, principal of Terra Linda High School. He described "raids" on wash rooms in attempts to catch students smoking.

Rev. Edward Dullea agreed and spoke of the need for "unheralded approach to the powder room." Father Dullea is principal of Marin Catholic High School.

He was the only panelist to speak of the "moral aspect" of smoking.

"We all have an obligation to take reasonably good care of our health," he said. "That's a moral law."

In light of the government panel's report on the harmful effects of smoking, Father Dullea thought more emphasis must be placed on this issue.

Alfred N. Thomson, principal of San Rafael High School said enforcement is extremely difficult and checking boys' pockets and girls' handbags for cigarettes when they arrive at school is unrealistic. He called for efforts to make cigarettes less available to youngsters.

Donald Kreps, principal of Redwood High School, declared parents are the logical ones to check on possession of cigaretes before students leave for school in the morning.

All agreed their efforts to curb smoking are not 100 per cent effective.

Harold Allison, principal of Sir Francis Drake High School, said that since the government report, the faculty has launched a crack-down on smoking in the parking lot and letters have been sent to parents warning of state laws making smoking and possession of tobacco on campus an offense which may bring suspension.

Yertson said two Terra Linda students were suspended yesterday for smoking. Under his school's regulations, the first offense calls for a five-day suspension, the second, a 10-day suspension, and the third offense, suspension for a semester.

Father Dullea said the first offense at Marin Catholic calls for probation. If the student is caught smoking a second time, he or she is dismissed from the school.

Kreps said that of all offenses calling for suspension, smoking is the major one at Redwood.

Thomson said that the 15-minute off-campus privilege for seniors during the lunch hour at San Rafael High School has been discontinued due to the government report.

In the question period, one listener asked about teacher smoking and the example teachers set for students.

Yertson said there is a "double standard," one for students and one for teachers.

Kreps said faculty members are setting an example and perhaps should re-examine their values in light of the government report. Allison said the important thing to emphasize is that smoking is a habit, hard to break once started, and the best place to prevent it is among young people.

The panel generally agreed that the government report had made little impression on students.

Kreps, in fact, thought it had been like a boomerang, causing an increase in the amount of student smoking.

"It's like a general rebellion against authority, resenting being told what to do," Kreps said. "This seems to have been the first stage reaction."

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast by tape recording at 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

Dimes March Dance Set At Nicasio

The 10th annual Rancho Nicasio March of Dimes dinner-dance will be held Saturday beginning at 8 p.m., Nick Kobseff, Rancho Nicasio owner, announced.

A variety show featuring the Sweet Adelines of Marin County will headline the entertainment, along with Bob March, "Captain Satellite" of the television world. Jack Barnes and his orchestra will provide music for dancing.

A barbecue chicken dinner will be served. Because the event is usually sold out, reservations are required, and they can be obtained by calling Kobseff at Rancho Nicasio.

The Sweet Adelines include 34 singers, with Mrs. Kathy Kreps of Tiburon as president.

A major part of the show will present a quartet called the Miss-Fortunes, made up of Margaret Mithun, Jeanne Sutliffe, Jean Barnes and Chris Erickson. Another feature will include the Triads, a trio composed of Steve Carick, musical director of the Sweet Adelines and Jeanne and Frank Sutliffe.

FOR FIRST TIME IN 56 YEARS TAM HIGH MAY CLOSE CAMPUS

Closing of Tamalpais High School's campus during class hours is being given serious consideration, Principal Robert H. Prather said today.

Faculty and student leaders' feelings are being sought on the subject prior to a decision.

It would be the first such action in the school's 56-year history. A closed campus would mean, Prather said, students would not be permitted to leave campus after arrival for their first class until their school days is completed. Lunches would be eaten on campus and no one would be permitted off campus to visit the canteen, a privately-owned snack bar on Homestead Boulevard.

Smokers would not be permitted to leave campus. There would be no "smokers' corner" set up on campus.

The contemplated closing, Prather said, follows a series of disturbances resulting in neighborhood protests and the suspension of several students after fights.

Meeting Set On Marin City 'Flats'

Members of the minority housing subcommittee of the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Urban Development last night decided to call a special meeting to aid persons living in the "flats" of Marin City who are soon to be evicted.

Resource experts in various fields will be present to answer questions and explain what action is available.

The group decided to have specialists appear to explain the real estate opportunities in the area, how to establish credit to buy property, how to contract, and whether, in some cases, purchase of co-operative apartments in Marin City may be advantageous.

The meeting was tentatively set for Feb. 12 in Marin City.

New Texas School Digs In CHICAGO (AP) — The noise problem from a nearby Air Force base will be less of a problem when a Fort Worth, Tex., suburb builds its next school.

It is to be built underground.

The present school is 1.5 miles from the main runway.

School officials say landing and takeoff noise results in loss of up to 10 per cent of a student's instruction time.

Everybody who wants a Riviera, please stand up.

Really.

It would be a shame to waste this chance to drive one of Buick's lively sport models, wouldn't it? Especially considering your Buick dealer's so close, and the price is so nice. That's what the Sports Car Rally is all about. And they're all luxurious enough to make you wonder why anybody'd settle for a two-seater. County Aid Asked For Waldo Point District

Public rights of way along the east side of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad and the establishment of "suitable bulkhead and pierhead lines" are being sought by the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District prior to forming a sewer assessment district at Waldo Point.

Requests for assistance in these two matters are being made to the county board of supervisors, president Frank I. Lawson said today.

A proposed collection system for the area north of the Sausalito city limits to the Rosedale Canal and east of the railroad tracks has been outlined by the board.

Clarification is needed from the county, said Lawson, regarding public access for the extension of Petaluma's Avenue's main sewer line southward from its Yuba Street intersection with Sonoma Street.

Sewage facilities between Rosedale Canal and Richardson Bay Bridge have an adequate collection system but any new building or barge occupancies in this vicinity will require new sewage collection work and a new pumping station, he said.

The board cannot process an application from George Kappas for sewage facilities for a small office and restroom on his property north of Rosedale Canal without county help on public right of way, Lawson said.

Kappas has submitted drawings, too, for a proposed sewage pumping installation with future collection lines to serve all blocks owned by him, north and south of Rosedale Canal. The board has held the district must have a system which it owns and not a pumping station on private land.

Two Marin Areas To Get Gas Bill Cuts

More than 600 homes in the Novato and Lucas Valley areas will be saved $4,629 a year in gas bills from Pacific Gas and Electric Co., effective Saturday, as a result of the annual survey of customer density ordered by the California Public Utilities Commission.

The survey was made in conformance with commission decisions that eliminate city boundaries as the major factor in determining rate zones and substitute customer density as the chief factor, said chairman William M. Bennett today. As density increases rates decrease.

The new rates will cut $2,844 from the bills of 478 homes west of Sutro Avenue and north of Novato Creek at the northwest boundary of Novato and $1,785 from the bills of 165 homes in Lucas Valley subdivision units 1, 2, 3 and 4.

Sweet Timber Co. Auction Set Feb. 11

The Sweet Timber Co's lumber mill, once a thriving operation will disappear from the Marin County scene.

All mill equipment will be offered for sale at a public auction Feb. 11 starting at 10 a.m.

The equipment to be auctioned has been estimated at $240,000 by Milton Jr. Wershow Co. of Los Angeles, auctioneers.

Battle Is Vowed On Valley Zoning

Seventeen determined citizens of the San Geronimo Valley vowed last night to convince the Marin County Board of Supervisors the "rural atmosphere" of the valley ought to be preserved.

The group met in the home of J. Brook Robinson on Tamarack Avenue in San Geronimo.

They deplored what they called indifference of the board to years of work by valley residents which resulted in a master plan with limited commercial zoning.

They agreed to initiate a campaign of letter-writing, telephoning and "personal contacts" to culminate in a packed board room next Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Civic Center when the supervisors willl be asked to rescind their recommendation of more commercial and industrial zoning than proposed in the master plan.

By 3-1 vote Jan. 14 the supervisors approved increased commercial zoning for the valley, contrary to the recommendation of the planning commission. Supervisor Peter H. Behr dissented, and Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker was absent.

"It's upsetting to have so much work go down the drain," said Mrs. Edith Robinson. She objected particularly to increase of commercial property in Forest Knolls from a recommended three and one-half acres to 20 acres.

John Kielty, Lagunitas School District trustee, said the supervisors' action was "absolutely against the wishes of most of the people in the valley . . . For two years the citizens worked on a master plan which was ignored."

Rev. Charles Orr of the San Geronimo Valley Presbyterian Church said the church congregation was "officially opposed to the change in zoning." Future improvements at the church, such as classrooms and a sanctuary, had been "compromised by this rabid action by the board," he said.

Petitions asking the board to "redress our grievances" will be distributed at church on Sunday, Rev. Orr said.

Forest Knolls real estate broker Helen Elmore said there are "several business people in our area who do not go along with the board's action or the wishes of the Forest Knolls Businessmen's Assn., which has only 16 paid members."

"We should emphasize," said Rev. Orr, "that no existing business is being threatened by any plan. The master plan zoning protects what is already here and even provides for more."

Maurice E. Burke, retired engineer of San Geronimo, said the board's increase of commercial zoning was due to the efforts of "just a few business people."

The group agreed that people who signed form letters asking for more commercial zoning had been misled.

"Many people in the valley just felt confident the master plan zoning would be accepted and didn't realize what was happening," said Mrs. A. E. Larsen.

CIGARETTES HELPED IKE QUIT SMOKING

Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh of Detroit says Eisenhower told him he was once a heavy smoker.

"The president told me that he used to go around with cigarettes in all his pockets. He would pass them out to other smokers but not touch them himself, because this gave him a feeling of accomplishment and superiority."

Novato Couple From Germany New Citizens

Although they were born in Germany, they did not meet until they came to the New World.

That is the story of Marga and Manfred Ultsch of 17 Villa Maria, Novato, who just received United States citizenship.

Marga Schmolke was born in Hamburg, Germany, in 1933. Her father, Albert, was a gardener. She went to a trade school to become a bookkeeper, then, after beginning work, decided to go to Canada where she had a girl friend living in Toronto.

A week after she arrived in Toronto in June, 1954, she met Manfred Ultsch. They were married one year later.

Manfred, or Fred as he is now known, was born in Nuremberg, Germany, in 1930. His father, Martin, was an electrician for a railroad power plant. Manfred attended a trade school to learn to become a mechanic. He went to Canada in January, 1954.

In January, 1956, they migrated again, this time to the United States. They visited San Francisco, then went to Maryland where he worked for a year. They have lived in the Bay Area since 1957, and in Novato two years. Fred works for a Volkswagen dealer in San Francisco.

They have two sons, Mark, 7, who was born in Maryland, and Christopher, 2.

"We like it great here and wouldn't live any place else," they said, describing their feelings toward Marin County.

Merchant Assn. Is Formed For Tiburon

It will deal directly with local problems of parking, promotional activities and public relations.

A group of 25 restaurateurs and merchants from the Main Street area gathered in Sam's Anchor Cafe at the request of Mark Saunders of Leonard Linn Gift Shop.

A majority agreed that a more dynamic attack should be made on these problems than had previously been made by the Tiburon Chamber of Commerce.

Dean Jennings, author and Tiburon book store owner, said that if the merchants present at this meeting would appear at the chamber of commerce luncheon meeting, they could exert a strong influence on that organization. However, the merchants voted to form a separate organization.

Next meeting will be held in February to elect officers.

Sailor Dies Of Spinal Meningitis

The victim was Seaman Apprentice Robert Leland Smith of Topeka, Kan., a student at radiomen's school.

The death was the first caused by the infectious disease this year. There were 26 cases, including four fatalities, last year.

60 Firemen Complete Course At College

Examinations were completed last night at the College of Marin by 60 Marin County firemen in the night course, "Basic Fire Science," instructed by Capt. Jack Kidder, Novato Fire Department. Seventy-three firemen had taken the course, said Kidder.

Two courses will be taught next semester at the college, commencing Feb. 11. "Basic Fire Science" will be taught by Kenneth Mazza, fire prevention officer of the San Rafael Fire Department, and "Hydrauics" by Kidder.

Terra Linda Student Fund Pulls Ahead Of San Rafael

The Terra Linda High School student body fund, close to zero two years ago, is now pulling ahead of the same fund at San Rafael High School.

Though the reports on funds in the two accounts were a month apart, Terra Linda students showed a balance of $10,300.77 on Dec. 31, 1963, and San Rafael a balance of $9,958.19 on Nov. 30, 1963.

Two years ago, San Rafael students contributed $2,000 toward the purchase of band uniforms, but Terra Linda students claimed too much poverty to participate.

The reports, which have been submitted to the San Rafael Board of Education, show an even greater gap in general student association funds. San Rafael has a total of $1,826 in this fund while Terra Linda has $4,598.93.

San Rafael shows $2,050.25 set aside for its yearbook publication while Terra Linda shows that $3,125.55 has been collected against this cost. The yearbook account is one of several grouped under self-supporting activities.

Dr. Mitchell Voydat, assistant superintendent for the high school district, said it would take a good deal of comparative accounting to find out the reasons for all the differences.

Terra Linda Assembly

New student body officers at Terra Linda High School will be installed in a special assembly scheduled for 2 p.m. Monday in the school amphitheater. The program will also include a performance by school acrobatic teams.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Surgery Is Advised When Deformed Hand Becomes Too Painful, Disabling

H. O. writes: "What would cause some of the fingers on both hands to close of two brothers with different occupations? Their ancestors were not affected in this way and these men have not suffered from arthritis."

VAN DELLEN

Dupuytren's contracture probably is the answer to this question, especially if the small, ring, and middle fingers are bent and drawn toward the palm. This condition is not partial to any occupation.

THE PART involved is a strong sheath of tissue (palmar fascia) that lies just beneath the thick skin of the palm. The sheath binds and protects all the tendons, nerves, and muscles that give strength and precision to hand movements. For some reason, it thickens or wrinkles at the base of the affected fingers.

A lump, the size of a millet seed, forms and grows until it reaches the size of a green pea or even larger. The swelling adheres firmly to the under side of the skin. The palmar fascia becomes more and more puckered and soon pulls on the affected fingers, which curl inward gradually until the tips virtually rest upon the palm. The defect formerly was blamed on shortening, or contraction, of the tendons that operate the fingers. This concept proved false; it is the palmar fascia that is involved.

DUPUYTREN'S contracture is hereditary, which explains why the deformity appeared in the two brothers. It means little that none of their ancestors had the defect because those destined to develop it may have died before the fingers began to contract. A 45-year-old patient of mine had no family history of Dupuytren's until it developed in his 80-year-old father. If his Dad had died at the age of 79, my patient would have insisted that none of his forebears had this disorder.

Surgery is advised when the deformity becomes disabling, embarrassing, or painful. The fascia is removed along with the overlying skin and the palm is covered with a tissue graft.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

THE MAGIC SEVEN

Mrs. O. writes: Is that old saying true that the body changes in various ways every seven years?

REPLY

It changes, but not necessarily every seven years.

TOXEMIA OF PREGNANCY

Mrs. C. H. writes: Why are so many women subject to uremic poisoning during pregnancy?

REPLY

This is not as common as you have been led to believe. Approximately 5 per cent of all pregnant women develop the toxemia of pregnancy, in which the blood pressure rises and albumin is noted in the urine. The few who develop uremia had disabled kidneys before they became pregnant.

SORE TENDONS

T. M. writes: I'm 66 and always have enjoyed walking but haven't been able to for months, since I developed tendonitis. Physical therapy has not helped. Do you think I ever will be able to walk more than five minutes again?

REPLY

Yes. This disorder can be remedied and should respond to heat, massage, local injections of hydrocortisone, or surgery.

SWOLLEN KNEE

E. C. writes: Six months ago I fell to my knees on a cement walk. X-rays did not show fracture. But I still have some swelling and a feeling of tension in the knees. Why is it taking so long to get back to normal?

REPLY

You may have injured the soft tissues surrounding the knee joints. Cartilage, for example, heals slowly.

SEA AIR

H. W. writes: I was in the merchant marine service for most of my life until I broke down with tuberculosis. I am an arrested case, and since this is the only kind of work I know, I would like to go back to sea. Do you think the salt air would be bad for my lungs?

REPLY

No, and it might do good. Avoid overexposure to the sun because this may encourage the healed lesions to break down again.

Brown Asks $13 Million In Violent Felon Plan

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown said yesterday he will ask the legislature for a 1.3 million dollar appropriation to begin what he called a pioneering attack on the problem of California's violent criminals.

The funds would be used, he said, to support programs aimed at identifying and rehabilitating the potentially violent inmate in correction institutions, and to increase his parole supervision.

"No other state," said Brown, "has been able to mount the kind of systemic attack on this problem that I am proposing. It is a modest beginning, but I am certain the investment will be repaid many times over in reduced correctional costs and . . . better community protection."

Boat Accident Fatalities Decrease

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The death toll from California boating accidents was 81 during 1963 and another 214 persons were injured, the state division of small craft harbors reported.

Lachlan Richards, chief of the division, said he was pleased that, although the total of 492 accidents was 91 more than in 1962, there were eight fewer fatalities during 1963.

The biggest cause of the accidents was listed as operator fault, which accounted for 203 accidents. This was in addition to 35 blamed on excessive speed, six from overloading, 52 from operation without a lookout, and 115 from the fault of a person other than the operator.

Of the total accidents, 231 occurred in tidal waters, 149 were on the Pacific Ocean and the other 112 were on other waters. Open runabouts accounted for 261 of the mishaps and cabin cruisers for 230.

'Elsa' Author To Talk For Museum

Joy Adamson, author of a series of best-sellers about the lioness Elsa and her cubs, will present two lectures at the San Rafael High School auditorium Feb. 28 for the benefit of the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum.

Proceeds will go to the museum operating fund.

Mrs. Adamson, who has lived in the wilds of Kenyo for more than 25 years, gained international recognition with her stories about Elsa, a lioness she raised.

She will speak at 7 and 9 p.m. on "The Story of Elsa and Me."

Tickets may be obtained by telephoning or writing to the museum at 76 Albert Park Lane, San Rafael.

Limantour Spit Road Held Improper For Traffic Load

Flocks of park visitors descended on the Point Reyes National Seashore over the weekend and the influx has brought sharp protest from attorney Thomas T. Storer of Inverness Park, who lives on the access road to Limantour Spit.

Park Supt. Fred W. Binnewies last week announced the spit was open. The announcement brought "thousands of people," Storer claimed.

He said the access was not properly marked and visitors lost their way.

In a letter written yesterday to Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall, Storer said:

"There were no rangers on duty; no medical facilities; no drinking water; no life guards; no signs warning of the treacherous surf; no deputy sheriffs (the Marin County sheriff's office was not notified of the opening); no public restrooms; no public telephones."

Storer further charged that the only sign on the road to the spit was one saying "Unauthorized Persons Keep Out."

The attorney charged that the "abortive opening" put an unbearable burden on the local road system, upon facilities of the nearby communities and upon residents of the area.

Binnewies was not available for comments today.

The Sailors Union of the Pacific was organized in San Francisco in 1885.

College Board Sets Gym Fire Session

Insurance settlement for the fire which destroyed the College of Marin gymnasium last Dec. 16 will be discussed at a special meeting of the Marin Junior College District board today at 7:30 p.m. in room 61 of the art building.

College President Stephen E. Epler said the notice of the special meeting was broad enough so "almost anything relating to the fire" could be discussed.

Insurance adjuster John B. Lewellen was fired last Thursday after the board had agreed to hire him. He has since agreed to represent the Marin County Taxpayers Assn. without charge in seeking a higher insurance settlement to the college for the loss.

Epler said contractor Richard Zoellner of Ross had been hired by "administrative action" to determine the replacement cost of the building.

Lewellen contends this cost is about $300,000.

The special meeting will be followed by a session with the district's architects on revision of the master plan for the Kentfield campus. This revision could result in a new list of building priorities, Epler said.

Three Marinites Study Dentistry

Three Marin County residents are studying dentistry in the freshman class at the School of Dentistry, College of Physicians and Surgeons, of University of the Pacific in San Francisco.

The students are:

Curtis N. Klein, son of Dr. and Mrs. Curtis A. Klein, 311 Vista Linda, Mill Valley; Thomas E. Love, son of Harold Love, 20 Knight Drive, San Rafael, and Kenneth W. Pieri, son of Dr. and Mrs. Mario Pieri, 35 Rancheria Road, Kentfield.

School Pay Hikes Denied For Larkspur

The Larkspur School District board, faced with defeat of two bond issues and one tax increase within a year, Tuesday night agreed there would be no salary increases in the district.

The board also indicated that it would soon act to put a tax increase measure and the same $375,000 bond issue before voters on the June 2 ballot.

A preliminary budget, calling for cuts of about $60,000, was presented by Supt. Milton S. Cohen.

The board discussed eliminating summer school. It adjourned into an executive session to discuss eliminating five or six employees to meet the budget.

Cohen said that to meet expected growth of the district, five new teachers would be needed. The board cut this to three.

Cohen said there may have to be double sessions next school year.

James McClintock, chairman of the citizens bond committee reported that 25 per cent of the parents of pupils in the district schools did not vote in the Jan. 14 bond issue election.

The board approved use of San Clemente School grounds by the Marin County Day School and a trip by one board member to the National School Boards Assn. convention in Houston, Tex., April 25-28.

2 San Rafael Youths Enlist In Navy

Two San Rafael youths enlisted in the Navy at the recruiting office in San Rafael Monday and were sent to San Diego for recruit training.

They are Kevin George Waltz, 17, son of Mrs. Gloria Oussenko of 220 Canal Street, who enlisted in the electronics field, and Claude Arthur Wilson, 17, son of Mrs. Violette Jones of 37 Porto Bello Drive, who enlisted in seamanship.

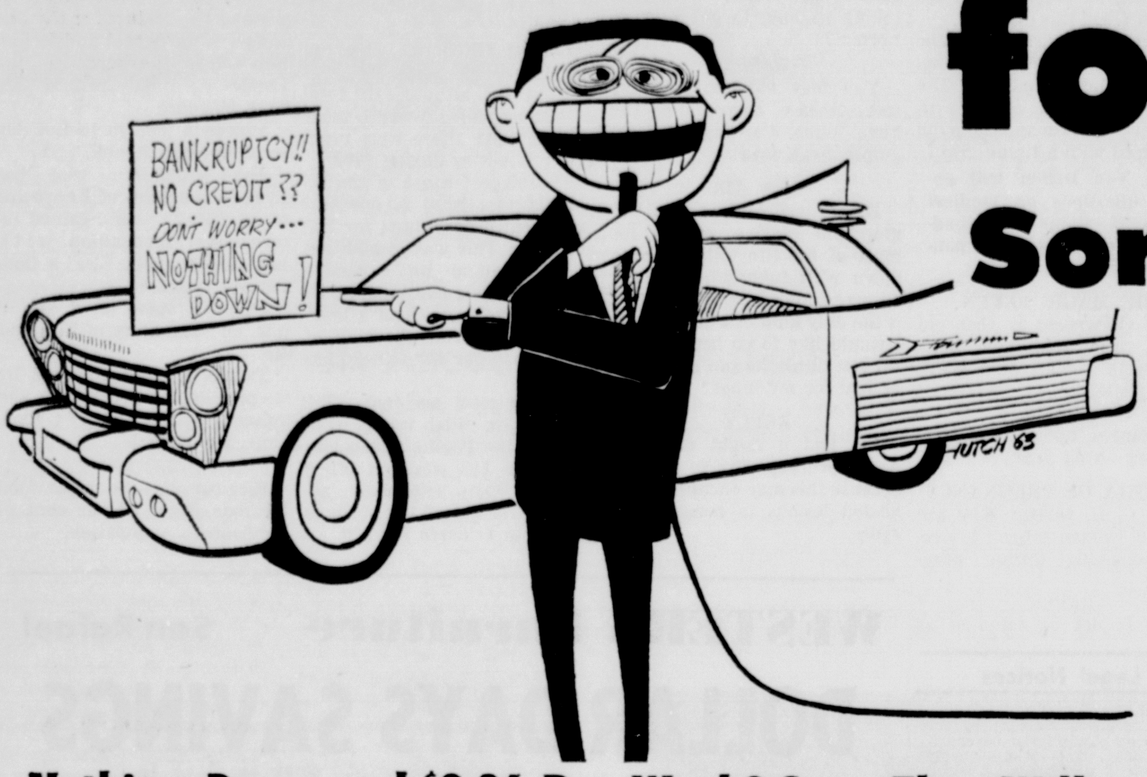

Polls Open Later For Local Bonds

Polls for the San Rafael Elementary School District bond election Feb. 18 will be open until 8 p.m., making it more convenient for commuters to vote when they get home, Frank M. Parker, head of the bond campaign committee, told the San Rafael Board of Education Tuesday night.

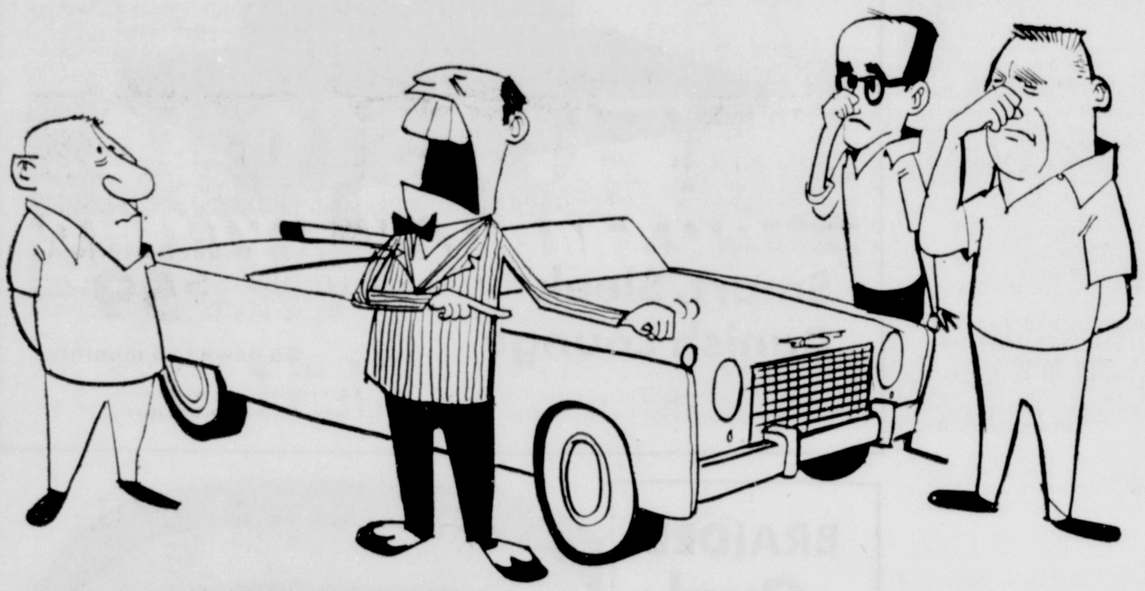

Supt. Bert C. Corona said the extension is provided under a new state code.

The polls will be open at the usual time, 7 a.m.

Do you want a car for nothing? — Sorry, we can't help you

Nothing Down and $3.36 Per Week? Sure, They Will With a Second Mortgage on the ol' Homestead!

New Tires? H--- Yes! New Battery? H--- Yes! New Brakes? H--- Yes! Your Cost for this $100.00 Package? — $200.00

HECK Yes!

HECK YES! Stage Money, That Is

And, neither can any other car dealer, no matter how they may try to convince you on radio, TV, and in big splashes in the city newspapers. Let's explore a few of their myths one at a time. "NOTHING DOWN" or "$47.00 down and pennies a day, O.A.C." O.A.C. means on approval of your credit, you know. Ames Ford can offer anyone with excellent credit any terms they want, but, the truth is, people with good credit are too wise to overextend themselves. That's how they earned their good credit rating.

"Brand new tires, battery, and brakes on every used car" is another claim being made proudly and loudly. These items cost the dealer about $100.00 in volume purchases. Care to wager you couldn't duplicate that car with good tires, battery and brakes for at least $200.00 less right here at Ames Ford?

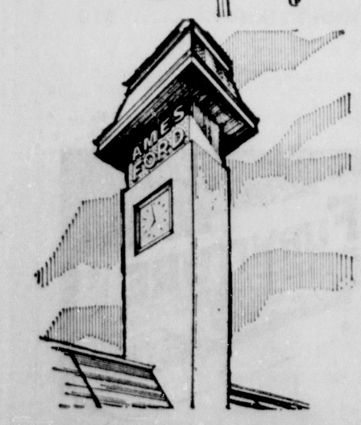

"Every car at Cost." How stupid do they think you people are to believe that? The simple truth is that every dealer pays exactly the same for his new cars, make for make, model for model, regardless of the number of cars he sells. By actual comparison of statistics available to all dealers, Ames Ford enjoys an advantage of a lower overhead cost per car than any city dealer, so, per se, we can and do sell for less, model for model. But, we still make a profit on each car. We have to, to stay in business, and we want to stay, to continue to serve you, after sale.

Look at just a few of our bargains on genuine trade-ins—not a lease or rent car in our stock. You can save a lot of Do-Re-Mi at these near wholesale prices. No Come-ons—No Dogs—just Good Buys, every one!

WINTER OLYMPICS

Soviets Pick Up Four More Medals

By HENRY W. THORNBERRY

INNSBRUCK, Austria (UPI) — Three favorites—downhill skier Egon Zimmermann of Austria, cross-country skier Eero Maetyranta of Finland, and women's speedskater Lidia Skoblinkova of Russia — won three gold medals in the Winter Olympics, shutting out the United States in today's competition.

Maetyranta and Miss Skoblikova, a pretty blonde teacher, both smashed Olympic records and Zimmermann, the glamor boy of Austrian skiing, delighted his legion of fans in the host nation by narrowly averting disaster to win the dangerous downhill.

It was a brilliant day for the Russian team as Miss Skoblikova paced a 1-2-3 Soviet sweep in the women's speedskating race and the Soviets also picked up a bronze medal in the cross-country skiing. The Russians, who took a gold medal in pairs figure skating last night, now have a total of five medals in the games.

Janice Smith of Rochester, N.Y., and Jean Ashworth of Minneapolis, Minn., tied for fourth behind the Russian sweep in the women's speedskating. But the best the Yanks could produce in the downhill ski was a 14th place by Annibale (Ni) Orsi of Stockton, Calif., and the top U.S. perforance in the crosscountry ski was 31st place by Michael W. Elliott of Durango, Colo. In four events the U.S. team has yet to gain a medal.

Russian 'Strongest Skater In World'

Miss Skoblikova, who won two gold medals for Russia in the 1960 Winter Olympics, both at longer distances and prides herself on being "the strongest skater in the world," gave a brilliant performance in the 500-meter event.

Her time of 45.0 seconds flat eclipsed by almost a full second the Olympic mark of 45.9 set four years ago by Helga Haase of Germany, who finished eighth today. Also breaking the old record were Irina Yegorova in second place in 45.4 and Tatyana Sidorova in third in 45.5. Miss Smith and Miss Ashworth were each clocked at 46.2 seconds, while Janice Lawler of Minneapolis, Minn., was seventh in 46.6.

For the first time in history two U.S. athletes were among the top-seeded 16 entrants in the downhill skiing. It was something U.S. coaches had been battling for a long time, but it didn't do either man much good.

While Orsi, who was unseeded, took 14th with a 2:21.59 clocking in a surprising performance, 20-year-old Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., who was the No. 1 man down the slope, wound up 16th with 2:21.82 and Wallace (Bud) Werner of Steamboat Springs, Colo., who had been the top U.S. hope, was 17th at 2:22.05.

Werner said he "lost time high up when I went slightly out of the track." Kidd swung wide at the final bend.

Champ Regains Control, Avoids Fall

Zimmermann took the title with 2:18.16 but nearly blew the whole thing 500 meters from the finish "when I almost lost my balance."

"However, I was lucky and regained control and avoided a fall," said the handsome, 24-year-old Austrian, who also is favored to win the giant slalom on Sunday. "Everything went perfectly on the upper part, but I could have been better on the second part."

Francis Lacroix took second for France with 2:18.19, and Wolfgang Bartels of Germany was third with 2:19.48.

The top 50 finishers in the cross-country skiing all bettered the old Olympic record for the event of 1:44:06.0.

Maetyranta, a policeman from the far north Finnish town of Pello, won the race in one hour, 30 minutes, 50.7 seconds. Elliott's time in this event, in which U.S. skiers never have fared well, was 1:40:11.7.

GOLD MEDAL—Austria's Egon Zimmermann is shown in action in the men's downhill ski event today at the Winter Olympic Games at Innsbruck, Austria. He won a gold medal for his first place finish, with a time of 2 minutes and 18.16 seconds. (AP Wirephoto)

Amalfitano Gets Another Chance In His Unique Big League Career

Jack Hanley

Joe Amalfitano, whose National League career with the Giants has been unique, is going to get a crack at the American League this year. Bill Rigney has invited Amalfitano into the Angel camp this spring on a "look-see" basis. The manager of the Angels doesn't believe Amalfitano's baseball career is ended at 30.

Amalfitano is the only player in baseball history to be thrice an ex-member of the same team. Three times he became an ex-Giant after initially being signed by Dutch Ruether, one of Horace Stoneham's scouts, as a $40,000 bonus baby in 1954.

To protect his bonus status the Giants kept Amalfitano on the big club in 1954-55 but he had no chance whatever of breaking into the Giant infield then. Those were the years when Henry Thompson was on third, Al Dark at short and Davey Williams on second.

In 1956-57-58 Amalfitano hustled through three seasons on Giant farm teams at Minneapolis, Dallas and Phoenix, playing anywhere in the infield and improving each year with glove and bat. After hitting .285 at Phoenix in '58, Amalfitano thought he would go to spring training with the Giants in 1959.

HOWEVER, THE Giants needed pitching help that year and Amalfitano was traded to the Yankees for Don Johnson. It was a deal with a double-barreled kickback. John was a disappointment. Jim Davenport was sidelined in August of '59 with torn knee ligaments. Amalfitano would have been a perfect replacement for Davenport but in '59 he was with the Yankees farm team at Toronto.

Rigney was manager of the Giants then and he vowed that never again would he be without an infield utility hand. The loss of Davenport and no adequite substitute to replace him cost the Giants the pennant in '59.

WHILE THE Giants were losing the pennant in '59, Amalfitano was hitting .308 for Toronto. The Yankees failed to protect him in the minor league draft and Rigney tiptoed into the draft meeting that winter of '59.

"I held my breath until we had Amalfitano safely back in the fold," Rigney admits.

Amalfitano didn't disappoint Rigney. He hit .277 in 1960. After slipping to .255 in 1961, the Giants put him in the player pool that stocked the new Colt and Met teams. Amalfitano was the $125,000 bonus pick of the Colts.

At Houston, Amalfitano wilted in the heat and skidded to .237 in 1962. When the Colts let it be known that the Giants could have Amalfitano back, Alvin Dark, Rigney's successor, said: "Joe is my kind of ballplayer." So the Giants gave the Colts Dick LeMay and Manny Mota for Amalfitano.

AND ONCE again Amalfitano was back in a Giant uniform but once again he faced a set infield with a promising rookie, Jim Ray Hart, on his way up. When Hart was called up, Amalfitano became an ex-Giant for the third time.

"As far as my baseball future goes, I don't know what's in store for me," Joe told us when that happened. "I would like to get one more chance with some club in spring training."

Rigney, with an assist from Chub Fenney, vice president of the Giants, is seeing that Amalfitano gets his wish. He deserves the chance as a clean-cut, aggressive competitor who has been a credit to baseball.

Antitrust Testimony By Frick

WASHINGTON (AP)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick endorsed today a bill proposing uniform antitrust exemption for professional baseball, football, basketball and hockey.

He told the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee he understood the measure would permit continued self-regulation by baseball, extend the same right to the other sports and end confusion now surrounding their antitrust status.

Self-regulation by baseball, Frick said in prepared testimony, "has well served the public and the game."

The confusion Frick mentioned stems from Supreme Court decisions which have exempted baseball from antitrust regulation since 1922 but not the other sports.

The prepared statements of all concerned in the hearings remained strictly silent on a temper-sparking issue which interested all of them—the efforts of Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, to move his American League team to Louisville or Oakland. The league has refused to permit him to move, and Finley has threatened to sue.

Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., told a reporter the subcommittee had notified Finley's lawyers that Finley would be welcome if he cared to testify about his troubles. Long said there has been no indication Finley will show up at these or later hearings.

Chairman Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) had announced the subcommittee would invite but not compel testimony from Finley.

Hart, in a statement for the hearing, warned baseball moguls that Congress has an eye on the imbalance in baseball which sees some clubs chronic losers, others equally chronic winners.

FAT TV CONTRACT GIVES AFL BIG LEAGUE STATUS

NEW YORK (AP)—After four years of travail the American Football League has reached major league status.

"The greatest day" in the history of the eight-team circuit came yesterday with the signing of a $36 million, five-year television contract with the National Broadcasting Co.

The pact is effective with the 1965 season and replaces the current TV contract with the American Broadcasting Co. which runs through the 1964 season for $2.3 million.

The $36 million, which breaks down into nearly $1 million yearly for each of the eight AFL clubs, compares to the record $28.2 million two-year television contract signed last week by the rival National Football League with the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The NFL pact breaks down to slightly more than $1 million a year for each of the 14 teams in the older circuit which has been operating for 43 years.

"This is our greatest day," exclaimed an elated Billy Sullivan, president of the AFL and also of the Boston Patriots.

Commissioner Joe Foss and the other club owners in New York, Buffalo, Houston, San Diego, Denver, Oakland and Kansas City joined in the enthusiasm.

"This is another step forward for the AFL which has improved its position yearly since its formation in 1960," declared Foss who negotiated the pact with Carl Lindemann, Jr. vice president of sports for NBC. "This contract puts all of our present clubs in the black and means we can really start thinking about expansion."

The commissioner disclosed that the AFL has received applications from four groups in Philadelphia as well as from those in Chicago, Los Angeles, Cincinnati, Columbus, Montreal, Portland, Ore., and Atlanta.

At the NFL meeting in Miami Beach, Fla. there was no official comment from any club owner and Pete Rozelle, NFL commissioner, said merely that "we are concerned only with our own National Football League and we are very happy."

"The new television contract stabilizes the other league," said an NFL club official who wished to remain anonymous. "It gives them substance. Now they are big league."

The day when the two league champions may meet in a title playoff still may be far in the future. At least there was no inclination to hasten the day at the NFL meetings which end today.

"We have no such plans," said Rozelle just as he had been saying for weeks and months.

Pro football will cost the television networks about $25 million this year. In addition to the $14.1 million for the AFL and $7.2 million for the AFL, the two title games, still open for bids, probably will be worth about $2 million each. A head-on conflict every Sunday afternoon is in prospect with each network showing pro doubleheaders from coast to coast.

Ordell Braase of the Baltimore Colts, new president of the NFL Players Association, appeared before the owners Wednesday and asked that the players be paid $100 a game for pre-season exhibition instead of the present $50. He also asked for player representation on the pension committee.

Two suggestions to alter the playing rules were turned down by the owners. One would have assessed a 15-yard penalty for offside, instead of five yards, when a defensive play knocked down the offensive quarterback. Another would have created a position for a sixth official to synchronize the scoreboard clock with the official clock on the field.

San Rafael Gals In ABC Tourney

Mariann Prischmann Gayleen Fitts, freshman at San Rafael High School, will be entered in the American Bowling Congress tournament in Oakland, rolling in a special junior squad division.

The two young gals are in the Bay Area Traveling Queens League, bowling at Country Club in San Rafael and other Bay Area Lanes. The ABC tourney will be held from Feb. 22 through April 26.

The Los Angeles Dodgers stole 124 bases last season. Their total is one more than the combined stealing efforts of the Cubs (68) and the Giants (55).

Things Not Going Well For Broncs

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Santa Clara was half way through an eastern road trip today and things are not going well for the Broncos.

NYU took a 79-64 decision after Happy Hairston scored 23 and All-American candidate Barry Kramer, playing with a bad ankle, had 17.

West Coast Athletic Conference squads St. Mary's and Pacific return to action tonight after lay-offs because of exams. Pacific hosts Redlands and St. Mary's is at Los Angeles State.

STEVENS

Seems that a recent column telling of an unsuccessful hunt for wild boar has aroused the interest of some of my readers. So much so that I am devoting today's column to that subject.

To begin, "Slim Porter and son, Jim, need not feel bad over the blank they pulled at Hunter-Legitt. Last Sunday I talked to another ardent hunter in Santa Cruz. Bob Nuchols of Castro Valley told me he and a pal had the same experience the same day. Bob admitted seeing fresh signs of boar, but saw none. "The terrain in the Los Padres National Forest area is extremely rough," he complained, and added: "It's foolish to hunt wild pigs without dogs, and a fellow should be mounted."

I AGREE that dogs are a big help on a boar hunt, but I lament the statistics that show about 40 per cent of all dogs on such hunts are either killed or seriously wounded by the long-tusked monsters.

Monsters? Yes, they are just that. And they grow to a very large size. The record being, I understand, 600 pounds. Lots of boars weighing 350 to 400 pounds are slain in the areas where they are most prevalent, North Carolina and Tennessee. With those long, razor-sharp tusks they can and do rip a dog to pieces. It is on record that a full grown bear was ripped open and left to die by a boar in the "Great Smokies" of North Carolina a few years ago.

THE WILD boar may stand at bay and fight the dogs or run at amazing speed through the brush. If at bay, he will occasionally ignore the dogs in favor of his arch enemy, man. So it behooves any and all nimrods to use a bullet that will stop this fellow. Old time boar hunters say that the first shop at short range (seldom more than 50 yards) should be lethal, and the hunter should be alert to send another shot off immediately. They take a lot of killing, these babies!

Most hunters use about the same rifle for boar as they do for deer, but they all recommend that you use a heavier bullet for boar than for deer. One chap who has killed his share of wild boars uses a 30-6 with 220 grain charge. One hunter I contacted favors an 8mm with a 236 grain bullet. (At such short firing range the telescope sight is unnecessary —in fact is a handicap in boar terrain.)

IT HAS been said that of all the wild big game in America, or elsewhere, the wild boar is the most courageous animal. He will keep on fighting long after mortally wounded and you never hear a whimper out of him.

Locally, you will find wild boar in the Los Padres National Forest in Monterey County. There may be other areas, but the main population is as stated. The season runs from Oct. 1 through March 31 in Monterey County but there is no closed season in the balance of the state. You are allowed one European wild pig per day and one in possession in Monterey County. There is no bag limit in the balance of the state.

EVERYONE I talked with agreed that these wild animals should be hunted with dogs while aboard a mountain bred horse. Also a guide is a good bet for the well-heeled hunter. For the specifics on such a de luxe safari after wild boar, contact the F&G at the Ferry Buildling and get the names of one or two accredited guides, and where to reach them.

Look for boar traces in the wildest section of brush, and where there are beechnuts, chestnuts and acorns. Best bet is to do your hunting close to some easily climbed trees or one large enough to hide behind.

Finley And Kansas City Are Farther Apart Than Ever

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles O. Finley and the city are farther apart than ever over a stadium lease for his Athletics and Finley has gained new confidence from a two-week extension of the American League's lease-or-else ultimatum.

Finley rejected, at a 90-minute session yesterday, two four-year city proposals he had taken under advisement Saturday. He insisted he would risk bankruptcy by signing for more than two years. The city wouldn't back down from its stand that at least four years is vital to recapture support of the fans, and to stabilize the troubled franchise.

No new meeting was set and no new proposals are under consideration.

Finley threatened to go to court after the American League turned down by a 9-1 vote his bid to move to Louisville Jan. 16 and by the same vote ordered him to sign a lease with Kansas City by Feb. 1 or face expulsion from the league.

Joe Cronin, league president, extended the deadline to Feb. 15 a short time before Wednesday's meeting, at the request of Finley's attorney, Louis Nizer. Finley went to Oakland after Saturday's session here and obtained a firm commitment to play there next season, should the league approve. But the league ignored Finley's request for a new meeting to consider a move to Oakland.

HOT SPOT IN SAN PABLO BAY FOR STRIPERS

There is ome hot fishing near San Pablo Bouy in the San Pablo Bay, it was reported today by Ralph Stevens, columnist for the Independent-Journal.

Stvens said a report just in from Joe's Launching at Santa Venetia told of fancy fishing near the buoy in 30 feet of water the past few days.

Ray Willsey To 'Improve Cal Defense'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ray Willsey, new head football coach at the University of California, says he plans to strengthen the Golden Bears' defense this year.

"I hope to try and bring up the area that isn't functioning well," Willsey said.

"Football is an offensive, defensive and kicking game. If you don't have the defense and the kicking game going for you, you are in trouble."

Willsey, 35, added he has not formulated any attack plan.

"I understand I have a quarterback who can throw pretty well, Craig Morton.

"If that is the case, we will set a flanker at one side and split the end a little, but I don't want to upset the running game."

Willsey attended California, then played in the Canadian League and assisted as coach at Washington and Texas. He also coached at St. Louis and Washington in the National Football League.

Warriors Trip Celtics; Move Closer To First

BOSTON (UPI) — The San Francisco Warriors today filed away the fact for future reference that they can beat the Boston Celtics on the latter's court.

The Warriors watched the Los Angeles Lakers drop a 102-97 verdict to Philadelphia in the opener of a twin bill and then bounced Boston, 100-92.

That left the Warriors only a game and a half behind Los Angeles in the tightening Western Division race. St. Louis lost to surprising New York to fall a half-game back of San Francisco. Things could not have gone better for the Warriors had they planned it.

Boston last night collapsed its defense on Wilt Chamberlain, inviting the guards to cast off. Chamberlain had 28, while guards Gary Phillips and Guy Rodgers made Boston regret its strategy by hitting 19 and 20 respectively.

San Francisco led after three stanzas 76-64, but then saw the Celts close to within four points before the Warriors wrapped it up when Rodgers and Chamberlain each meshed two foul shots.

It was the first win for the Warriors in Boston since the 1962-63 season. Chances are not too remote that these teams may wind up in the final NBA playoff. Boston would undoubtedly have the home court four times in any seven-game series. That means the Warriors would have to win at least one in Boston. They found out last night they could do it.

The Warriors, now 29-22 for the season, are at Detroit tonight.

Machen To Fight In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Eddie Machen will meet Duke Sabedong, of Honolulu, in a 10-round heavyweight boxing match at Kezar Pavilion Feb. 17.

Matchmaker Mario Spampinato of the National Boxing Club, San Francisco, announced the signup yesterday.

Jacobs, Sifford Lead 'Confusion Open' Golf

PALM SPRINGS (UPI) — Pro golf's marathon—the 90-Hole Palm Springs Classic — went into its second round today and the ostensible individual leaders were Tommy Jacobs and Charlie Sifford.

Jacobs, a 29-year-old University of Southern California graduate, and Sifford, the 40-year-old five-time Negro Open golf champion, both scored 66's yesterday in the start of the tournament involving 128 pros and 384 amateurs — a total of 512 golfers — on four courses in this desert playground.

East pro plays with a different amateur threesome for the first four rounds and then the pros go it alone for the fifth and final round.

Because of the complications involved in scoring and money-winning, this event is known sometimes as the "Confusion" or "Computer" Open.

Money prizes have been put up each day for low pro and for the pro whose amateur team — with handicaps — gets the lowest best ball score.

Jacobs picked up a total of $295 in this intricate scoring system but he's shooting for the $7,500 first prize at the end of 90 holes.

Sifford won a total of $437.50 in pro and pro-am scoring.

Arnold Palmer was shut out of the money. Palmer, setting the keynote for the "Confusion Open," drew a two-stroke penalty when he played one of his amateur partner's gold balls on the 14th hole at Eldorado Country Club. Palmer had a 78 — six over par.

Sifford played the tight La Quinta course which has a par of 36-36—72. His partner in the first round leadership, Jacobs, played Bermuda Dunes, which is generally considered an easier course. What's more, Jacobs represents Bermuda on the pro tour and has played it often.

Mrs. Evans Is Golf Winner

Mrs. Jerry Evans was the winner of the match vs. par tourney held Tuesday at the Indian Valley Women's Golf Club. Her score was 1 up.

Next were Mrs. Warren Smith, even; Mrs. William May, 4 down; Mrs. William Jonas, 5 down; Mrs. Lynn Sumpter and Mrs. Ernie Korn, 6 down. Mrs. John Burmaster and Mrs. Eldin Hill tied for low putt honors with 38.

Coast Boxing Tournament Slated At Hamilton Field

The fifth annual Pacific Coast Interservice Invitational Boxing Tournament will be held at Hamilton Air Force Base Feb. 17, 18, 19 and 21, providing boxing fans with championship amateur fighting.

Top military boxers from all of the armed services will be competing in 10 weight divisions. Of the more than 50 fighters already signed for the tourney, 13 are returning champions and six are world-wide interservice champs.

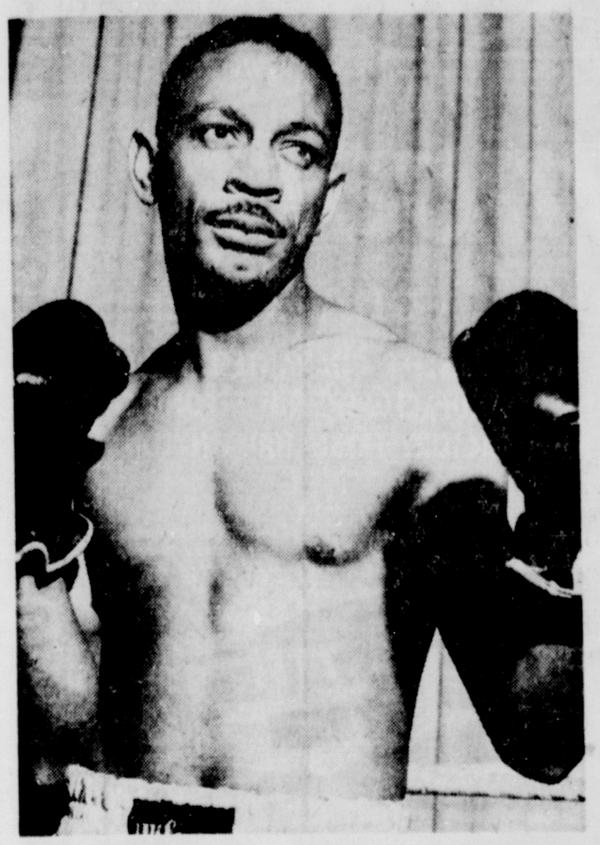

"Some of the best fighters in the armed forces will be competing here," said Sgt. William Ross, Non-Commissioned Officer in charge of Hamilton's athletic section. "The Marines have captured the tournament trophy for the past four years, but this time they'll be going against some real tough Army and Air Force boxers."

Hamilton's crew of boxers is not eligible for the team award because it is the host team. Hamilton boxers will still compete for individual recognition. Art Jones, All-Air Force and Interservice champion and third place winner in the 1963 Pan-American Games, will head the HAFB list.

Teams competing in the tourney include the Camp Pendleton Marines from Oceanside, and Army teams from Fort Ord, and Fort Lewis, Washington.

The Air Force will be represented by teams from Hamilton and Lackland Air Force Bases, and the Navy will send its best team from Mare Island and the Ream Naval Air Station in San Diego.

The bouts will be in the base north recreation hall. The action will start at 8 p.m. each day. Tickets to the tourney, open to the public, will be on sale each night at the recreation hall. Price is 50 cents.

HAFB CHAMP—Art Jones, All-Air Force and Interservice champ and the third place winner in the 1963 Pan-American Games, will head the Hamilton Air Force Base boxers in the Pacific Coast Interservice Invitational Boxing Tournament Feb. 17, 18, 19, and 21. The tourney will be held at HAFB. (USAF photo)

Take A Tip From One Who Knows: Don't Ever Get Stuck In The Mud

There is mud, and there is mud. Some of it is even nice mud—a paradoxical expression, permissible in this case through the lenity of comparison. It is really quite good for making mud pies.

And there is MARIN MUD. An uliginous paste of water-front and under-water bay. It smells like a well-balanced combination of wet toads and garlic. When the tide retreats, it clings to boat ramps with incredible tenacity. Grey and slippery, this mud is a hazard to walk in, nauseous to be near. Pulling your boat out then becomes more than mere routine; it becomes dirty work.

NEVER GET it on your clothes. If the stain sets, it won't wash out; as yet no TV commercial washing compound has broken through this barrier. And what happens if you get splattered with it? Right! Instant freckles — the permanent type. Seemingly, this mud is a horrid complex of many mysterious "genetic" strains.

There is one club in Marin that proved the fallacy of that old proverb, "Where there's a will, there's a way." The members have thrown in the sponge. Their yearly dredging bill is an expected annual debit. Alack! Mud is master; its habits, implacable; its behavior so terribly predictable.

SO, IF you boat long enough, sooner or later you'll become personally acquainted with Mud. This disagreeable experience, no doubt, will be due to your own folly. You may be fishing. Perhaps, lulled by the peace of wind and water you'll forget that the tide cometh—and it also goeth.

How often do you—the sailboater—forget that the wind is blowing skimpy? Why aren't you heading back? Have you forgotten how shallow it is in the upper region of the Richardson Bay area?

The high and dry canted hull is often spotted on the San Rafael Canal, Corte Madera Creek and other inland waterways; proclaiming to the sea gulls and passing boats that the skipper was inattentive at the right moment.

EMBARRASSING, isn't it.

Once, when we were new to boats and "green"on navigation, we took our hand from the wheel—for a moment only—to fumble for a graham cracker in a box. That's all it took. The 14-inch metal keel on the boat headed into, and cut through the left bank of the San Rafael Canal as though it were Philadelphia cream cheese. We became flustered, and by the time we cut the power, the craft was right up there with the gulls and sandpipers. They regarded us with astonishment and disapproval.

It was December. It was cold, 5 p.m. and growing dark. Only a knot-head would be out there . . . and it was unlikely another of that ilk would be coming by. A black tide was still running out, and it did seem as though it would be some type of minus-minus. There was only one thing to do. Back off.

SHE ROARED. Rocked. Vibrated. Nothing happened, except, of course, mud was being sucked into the water jacket—a thought that never occurred at the time. She gurgled, hiccupped . . . and stopped. If a fresh water heat exchange system had been part of her hook-up, this wouldn't have happened.

The moon came out. The Richardson Bay Bridge seemed gaudy as a Caliph's daughter. San Rafael's luminosity appeared but a step to starboard; but we were in the midst of a plain of mud, fearsomely primordial.

That graham cracker that caused the trouble might have been a comfort, but the vibration had disintegrated it. There was no heat, no head, no help. Sitting on cold hands, we contemplated that most marvelous of sports. Boating.

TWO HOURS, six minutes and four seconds later a power cruiser came by. Acting as though it were immensely logical that we should be where we were at 10 p.m., a crew member called out: "Ahoy. We'll throw you a line." No facetious questions. No jokey remarks. But just as if they were greeting us on a lovely June morning. Really! The tact inculcated in the grand old boating tradition is so b-eau-tiful.

Next morning the marine mechanic asked: "For evermore! Who pumped all that mud into the waterjacket?"

Not wanting to tell a lie, we teetered on the periphery of truth. "Her throttle got stuck," we mumbled, avoiding his eye.

FANCIFUL CASUAL

Delicate lace is selected by Paris designer Riechers for this casual ready-to-wear blouse coupled with sleek velvet pants. The designer styles the white Calais lace blouse with a neat Peter Pan collar and three-quarter length sleeves to top hip-riding pants trimmed with dainty little pearls. (UPI Telephoto)

FROM PARIS—

Lanvin Shows The Lean Look, Heim Features Middy Uniform

PARIS—Jules Crahay's first collection for Lanvin has a long and lean look, with the figure little marked.

There are lots of tricks.

Long, slim blouses open on tube dresses but never come off. They are really two half-jacket shells that disappear into a smooth side insert panel that joins top and bottom and keeps everything all of a piece. Flaring peignoir jackets stay put in the same way.

ANOTHER series of jackets did come off, but it took a bit of doing. Worn slightly open, with only a wide hip belt holding them together, their edges were firmly buttoned in double-breasted effect to the dresses underneath. For coats with the same hip cinch, the anchoring buttons were usually dispensed with.

Dresses under coats and jackets were usually shifts.

Women are getting younger by the minute around Paris. The mannequins at Jacques Heim's fashion show looked for all the world like 1920 schoolgirls in middy uniforms.

He showed two black and white checked suits with long straight jackets and blouses with long waistlines, white middy collars and little black school ties.

Some of his navy blue or black-and-white pin stripe afternoon dresses had white middy collars and dickies and perky white cuffs on the long sleeves. They were slim, beltless and fitted to show the curve of the waist. The mannequins wore patent leather round-toed pumps with medium heels and girlish straw boaters on the backs of their heads.

THE MIDDY collar showed up even on a navy blue chiffon cocktail dress. A floor-length turquoise sleeveless lame evening gown had a middy collar glistening with beads.

Pleats of all varieties—accordion, knife, unpressed and box—were used on nearly every outfit. Even redingote coats were pleated from neckline to hem. Suit skirts usually were pleated. Filmy pale green chiffon and crepe cocktail and white floorlength evening dresses were rippled like accordions all over, with shimmering sequins embroidered on to the pleats.

IF A skirt wasn't pleated, it was gored so it flared beginning below the hips, such as a white flared coat worn over an accordion pleated black crepe cocktail dress.

Other fashion news at Heim:

—Simulated jumper dresses. A black wool jumper cut low in back was worn over a black chiffon "blouse," but it was actually an all-in-one dress. Also a navy blue "jumper" with a pink and navy checked long-sleeved "blouse."

—"APRON" cocktail dresses, or an overskirt worn over a slim dress of the same fabric but in reverse color or pattern. For example, one black dress had an apron of large white polka dots and a top of smaller white polka dots.

Report On The American Family Today

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Survival of the America family is likely because it is the best institution for nurture of the young.

This was the consensus of the reports given Tuesday night to the Mill Valley Branch of the American Assn. of University Women by two members who attended on scholarships the weekend's symposium sponsored by the University of California Medical Center.

The topic was "Man and Civilization: The Family's Search For Survival."

Mrs. Wendell D. Ames and Mrs. Bruce A. Collins presented their resumes at a panel discussion moderated by Mill Valley Branch vice president and program chairman Mrs. Charles A. Murphy. It was held at the Mill Valley Community Church. Assisting was Mrs. E. R. Hill, a member who tape recorded some of the lectures televised by KQED and played back excerpts after the reports.

PARTICIPATING in the symposium were nationally distinguished educators including professors of history, sociology, anthropology, psychology and psychiatry—more than 14 men—one woman attorney and professor and one woman author. Space limitation precludes giving names and titles.

Though the family will survive, it will probably be with great changes and much research on and assistance with its problems are necessary were additional conclusions. All lecturers tended to be optimistic except the psychiatrists, who viewed many situations with alarm.

THESE ARE some of the highlights of the symposium as personally observed from the total KQED broadcast and from reports given by the Mill Valley AAUW members. They represent individual positions taken by symposium participants and not a consensus of their opinions.

1. Especially needed is a family court to deal with all family matters instead of separate ones for divorce, adoption, delinquency, etc.

2. The child is emerging as an individual with his own rights.

3. Mothers in California now have preference in custody cases, especially when young children are involved.

4. MORE changes are needed to curb the alimony racket.

5. Family life in the past was not so ideal as often pictured.

7. The average woman in America now has borne her last child at the age of 26 with three the average number of children. She is thus left with many more years ahead to plan other activities.

8. The woman is forced to

Female Dance Band On Ballroom Scene

By GAY PAULEY

It bothers comely blonde Joan Fairfax not the least that a coiffure count of her new all-girl orchestra adds up to 13.

"No, I'm not superstitious," said Miss Fairfax, a Canadian-born vocalist who is leader of an all-female dance band which she believes is unique in today's music business.

Surely, she said, there are any number of all-girl combos of four and five musicians performing. But to her knowledge, her group has no competition, now that bandleaders Ina Rae Hutton and Phil Spitalny have retired from the ballroom scene.

MISS FAIRFAX, who has been in show business since she was 8, heads a band recruited in the main from music departments of colleges and universities in the Midwest and Southwest. Currently, the baker's dozen is appearing at the Roosevelt Hotel, New York, in the grill room where Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians had one-two-three'd since 1929.

When Lombardo switched his band's base of operations to the Port O'Call Inn and Country Club, in Tierra Verdi, Fla., the Roosevelt tried other bands and other acts—without much success. The hotel manager, Arthur Dooley, decided to close the room. Then, Lombardo called Dooley and suggested he give a listen to Miss Fairfax's orchestra which was playing its first date, Port O'Call, while Lombardo filled an engagement in Las Vegas, Nev.

Dooley liked, and the hotel where Lombardo had been a fixture became the first New York engagement for the 13-member band (counting its leader) organized only last November.

"Most of the girls had never seen New York before," said Miss Fairfax. "Many hadn't even seen a live television show. Everybody's wide-eyed."

But she figured a lot of sophistication would be added during the rest of the New York engagement and in succeeding ones. The orchestra heads west after the New York stay for one-night stands in Wichita, Kan., Lincoln, Neb., and Rolla, Mo., before it settles in for longer stays at Harrah's Tahoe, a casino near Eno, and in Reno and Las Vegas.

Miss Fairfax in private life is Mrs. Thomas Higgins, 27, a native of Toronto. By the time she was 8, she recalled, she was a solo vocalist on radio stations in her home town.

She studied voice and music theory at the Royal Conservatory in Toronto and arrangement and composition with private teachers. Before she formed her dance orchestra she had been solo artist in a number of smart Canadian and United States supper clubs and had directed an all-female orchestra on Canadian television.

The idea for the dance band was hers, she said: the financing, her husband's. He is in the real estate and construction business—or rather, was. He said that for the time being he is letting it sort of run itself while he travels with the band as business manager.

The musicians, most of whom can double on anything from trumpet to autoharp and who are soloists in their own right, were screened by Miss Fairfax and her husband.

"We listened to combos all over the country," she said. We wrote to, talked with deans of musc schools and when we heard of a likely prospect flew out to see her." Both are pilots and get around in a twin-engined plane they currently have "parked" at Teterboro, N. J., airport.

They decided to make the band up of music students wanting some actual experience before graduation or of recent college graduates for one reason: "We wanted the band to have youth, a lot of zing, good looks," said Miss Fairfax.

Its members in general range in age from 18 to 27 years. The one exception is the "den mother" of the group—Alyce Sheratt, a trombonist who had played in the Ina Rae Hutton orchestra in the 1940s. (UPI)

CANADIAN-BORN Joan Fairfax and her all-girl orchestra take a breather during rehearsals at the Hotel Roosevelt. The attractive Miss Fairfax says she does not mind at all that a coiffure count of her orchestra adds up to 13 attractive young ladies. (UPI Telephoto)

Family Search For Survival Topic Of AAUW Discussion

play more roles than ever before, and more skills are now expected of children.

9. ONLY IN THE family is the necessary psychological relationship of trust best developed.

10. There is a trend away from divorce lately. It decreases as education and income increase, except for Negroes.

11. Earlier marriages to escape unhappy homes with juvenile parents create more juvenile parents and children in a vicious circle.

12. INSTEAD OF deterioration of parental authority there is dispersal to others, such as baby sitters, teachers, den mothers and the like.

13. Second marriages tend to be stable with successive ones becoming rapidly less so.

14. Children from broken homes tend to be not so disturbed as those in unhappy homes.

15. Absence of divorce does not necessarily mean a happy home — many lives are lived "in quiet desperation." Divorce may actually be a technique to improve family life.

16. AMERICANS need to rid themselves both of fear of and obsession with sex. Techniques include (A) more expression of physical contact love and affection within the family (B) encouragement of infants and adolescents to enjoy many kinds of physical satisfactions without discouragement even of masturbation and genital play unless it is excessive or createse worry (C) continuation of sex education throughout family, including for adults. A child who has had physical satisfactions in early life can control his sexual urges.

17. Monogamy is an unnatural state for males, but females need security. For males marriage is a sacrifice, which means they give up more in marriage, and females "should keep a long tether."

18. NOT EVERYONE should marry, though most people do. Many other worthwhile goals should be recognized since a large number, especially of males, are unfit for marriage for such reasons as homosexuality, impotence, alcoholism, psychosis, and economic incapacity. And not every married couple should have children since not all capable of having them are fitted to rear them.

19. THE MUCH discussed problems of the American woman tend to be those of the privileged, educated ones, not the average. Woman power was rediscovered during World War II, but afterward women were intimidated into going back into the home. Now the pendulum is swinging the other way again. Probably only the married women of exceptional talent should have careers outside the home, but others should make use of their "scraps of time" to develop interests and skills since they need more interests after the children are grown and some will have to work.

THEY MAY have to be satisfied with second string jobs. (A comment of a panel member here brought out that decrease in available work will mean more men will have to be satisfied with second string jobs too.)

There should be less distinction between the woman who has to work and the one who prefers to because lines of difference are very fine.

20. The happiest older people are those most independent of family ties. Proper institutional care is the answer for some.

SOME OF the most important general conclusions were that there should be increased education for and realistic approach to marriage and that society must continue to expand services to the family.

Breakfast Seen Helping Grades

If you want your child to do well in his school work, better make sure that he has a good breakfast daily.

University of Nebraska food and nutrition experts said recent tests prove that when breakfast is skipped, schoolwork "loses out."

The specialists said breakfast should supply a person with at least one-fourth of his daily calorie and body-building protein alowance, plus a good share of the required allowance of vitamin C.

They said persons should not shy away from a substantial breakfast under the theory that it will result in increased weight. Breakfast-skippers frequently double their usual intake of calories by nibbling on high calorie snacks. (UPI)

Not Every Fish Worth Catching

By JOY MILLER

It's a harsh thing to have to point out so early in a Leap Year, but not every fish is worth the catching.

Phrase this piscatorial platitude another way and you get: You may lead a man to the altar, but you can't always make him into a good husband.

It's not for lack of trying, of course. If there's any challenge a woman loves it's to take a big lump of slovenly habits, childish neuroses and pathetic pastimes and knead it into a model mate.

There are some men, though, who resist domestication, and they're better off let alone.

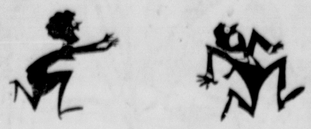

Psychologists seem to feel that marriage is contrary to the instincts of the male and that they have to overcome strong resistances within themselves to marry at all.

THE EMINENT Dr. Theodor Reik says flatly that men are afraid of being married. The fact, therefore, that so many of them do settle down quite comfortably in the wedded state is possibly due to the singlemindedness of the nubile female.

There are men who insist they're not the marrying kind —and what man is until, lemming-like, he plunges into the sea of matrimony?

Some of this species profess to be too selfish to want to support a spouse, although that's a pretty limp way out in this day of working wives.

BUT IF HE shows unmistakable signs of stinginess—and you don't feel that as a wife you'd want to call a plenary session every time you needed a nickel—you might consider throwing him back and casting again.

Also in this category is the lad who has been hurt by a mother or girl friend and ergo, all women are no darned good. If he's fortunate enough to meet the right kind of sympathetic spinster—from a limited edition though she might be—he's a pretty good marriage risk.

For that matter, woman-haters and Don Juans can be perfectly tractable teammates. That is, if they're only deluding themselves that they're woman-haters and Don Juans.

THE MAN who goes around criticizing women is a push-over for the first attractive girl who, says Dr. Reik, realizes that behind his professed bitterness is a real desire for someone he can love. As the old Viennese saying goes: "He who criticizes the wares buys."

And the dashing adventurer (so he thinks) who flits from flower to flower like a busy bee may really be looking for some place to light for good.

BUT THE MEN to avoid if you're seriously searching for a husband are: the pedestal - putters, narcissists, mother's darlings. Enjoy their company if you don't mind wasting your time, but realize they're allergic to orange blossoms.

Those bachelors who insist they worship women — pure, virtuous, noble women — are the worst of the lot. They adore women — they protest every single day of their single lives. They put the opposite sex on pedestals for one purpose: to avoid any closer contact; they're terrified of a real relationship.

NARCISSISTS COME in several shapes. There's the romantic who is carrying on a torrid love affair — with himself. He's so busy admiring himself in mirrors watching to see if anyone notices him, dropping bon mots to be overheard, he has no time for you. Bow out gracefully, and fast. You can never match the competition.

There's the self-deprecator, who's just as wrapped up in himself, but finds it compulsively fascinating to regale everyone with his defects, his failings, his inhibitions.

YOU COULD wait around and maybe snare him after a few decades. But it's so cumbersome to go down the aisle in a wheelchair. (AP)

Thirties For Dior

PARIS (AP) — Dior packed 'em in today for a spring and summer look that came from raincoats for day and the 1930s for night.

Raglan sleeves, tab buttons on the cuff and fly-front closings were featured in the day series.

In the same spirit there were long cardigan jackets belted over pleated skirts. Pleats and big silk plaids ran throughout.

The look relaxed completely as Dior's Marc Bohan shifted into evening wear. Although he continued with tiny bodiced dresses, sashed low to reveal a small high bosom, the dominant theme showed a bloussy sweater covered up with a low surplice wrap.

Sally Kathleen Byers To Wed

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Sally Kathleen Byers of Berkeley and George Edwin Corson Jr. of San Anselmo.

The bride-elect, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle A. Byers of Berkeley, was graduated from Berkeley High School and the University of Pacific in Stockton, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She is now doing graduate work at Pacific and teaching at Lincoln High School. Joan Byers of Berkeley is her sister and she is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln N. Swift and the late Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Byers all of Berkeley.

The future bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Corson of San Anselmo, was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School, College of Marin and the University of Pacific. He studied one year at the Sorbonne in Paris. He is now doing graduate work at Pacific. Kathryn Ann and Fred Corson of San Anselmo are his sister and brother. Mr. and Mrs. Wood N. Young of Suisun Valley are his grandparents.

The wedding will take place in late summer.

When Shampooing Gentleness Counts

A thorough shampoo, the best treatment for hair, does not require hard scrubbing which can actually punish even healthy hair, beauty experts note.

Hair should be handled gently by working the lather through it with squeezing motions until thoroughly clean. This requires at least two sudsings, each followed by three rinsings. Then, blot the hair with a terry towel, avoiding brisk rubbing. (UPI)

Rocky's Popularity Here Indicates He'll Win State

If what happened in Marin is any indication, Governor Rockefeller can be expected to score a run-away victory over Senator Goldwater in the California Republican primary election next June.

If his recent divorce is going to handicap him, it certainly was not apparent among the thousands who jammed Peacock Gap the other night to see him (and "Happy"), to hear him, and in the case of about half the crowd, to shake his hand and meet Happy, too.

If Rockefeller wins in the California primary and in a couple of other key states, he may well go on to win the G.O.P. presidential nomination.

He had achieved the presidency without a bitter election contest; no campaign accusations against him were fresh in mind. Most presidents assume office with a built-in booing section comprised of those who lost. Johnson didn't come in that way. Further, he was treated to a one-month moratorium on political criticism during the period of national mourning following Kennedy's death.

Johnson began to look unbeatable even to perennial optimists among Republicans.

Comes now the Bobby Baker case, in which Johnson is personally involved; exactly to what extent remains to be seen.

Baker, a former member of Johnson's staff in the senate, is accused of influence-peddling. The situation involves both the U.S. Senate—the highest legislative body of our country—and the presidency, the highest executive position of the land.

It is too much of a mess to be swept under the rug. It demands full investigation and full disclosure.

And if it turns out that President Johnson has feet of clay, the sooner we know about that the better in this election year.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

SMALL TOWN DOES A BIG JOB

"The town that wouldn't take no for an answer" might be one way to describe Deer River, Minn.

Some years ago the town, with a population of 1,000, was forced to close its small hospital because it was a fire hazard. Even though Deer River was known as a "depressed area," the businessmen, farmers and other citizens determined to have a new one.

State and federal funds were not made available so they began raising the $275,000 they needed. Everybody pitched in and in three years they had enough to start building. Then, admiring this grassroots initiative, a small foundation and the state legislature provided additional funds on a matching basis.

In its first 15 months of operation, the 20-bed hospital had cared for more than 1,000 persons. In all, it services 5,000 in the neighboring area.

Personal responsibility and individual initiative have always been the hallmark of those who wish to serve their fellow man for the love of God. It may not be easy but the reward far outweighs whatever efforts are involved.

"Our present light affliction, which is for the moment, prepares us for an eternal weight of glory." (2 Corinthians 4:17)

Never let me lose heart, O Lord, in any endeavor that will result in benefit for others.

BUT REASONS DIFFER

Few GOP-Demo Battles Seen In State Legislative Budget Session

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (C N S)—The two top leaders of the Democratic and Republican parties in the State Assembly don't look for too many pitched battles during the coming budget session of the legislature, but for different reasons.

The legislature convenes Monday to receive an expected 3.5 billion-dollar budget for the 1964-65 fiscal year. Real action won't get under way until after a constitutional recess and the lawmakers' return to Sacramento March 2.

Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh (D-Inglewood) who heads up the 51 Democrats in the lower house, said most legislators he has talked to recently seemed to have reasonable ideas about the coming session.

IN THE OTHER party, Assemblyman Charles J. Conrad (R-Sherman Oaks), floor-leader for the 28 Republican members of the Assembly, said the real problem of the coming budget and special session is that there won't be much the Republicans can do.

"The real problems in the new budget are the ones that were enacted at the 1963 session of the legislature," Conrad said. "The welfare bill is costing millions of dollars but there's no way to change the law in a budget session unless the governor opens up the special session to it, which he isn't likely to do."

Conrad said the main task of the Republicans at the coming session would be to attempt to inform the people of just what the budgetary problems were because of actions of the 1963 legislature.

Unruh gave a hint the communication between the office of Gov. Edmund G. Brown and legislative leaders might have suffered some of the lapses it was reported to have suffered last year. Brown charged the lawmakers opposed his programs before they even heard what they were.

AS FOR THE coming special session, Unruh said he had been to one meeting several months ago, at which legislative leaders had expressed the hope the special session items be held to a minimum.

First item of business will be election of a speaker.

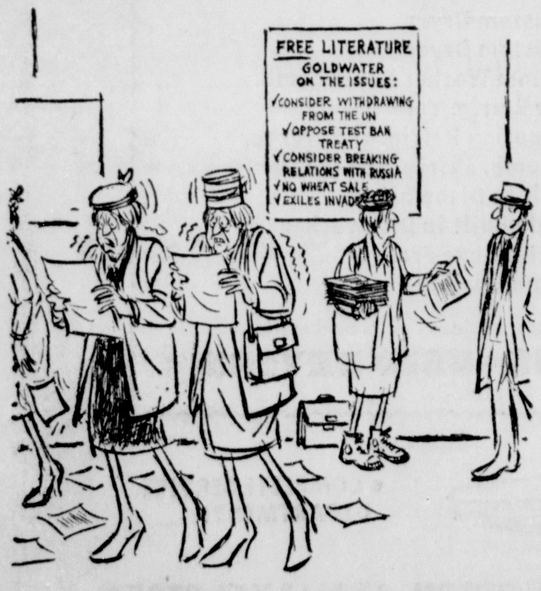

Under a rule change adopted by the Democratic majority at the hectic special session last summer, only the majority members, or Democrats, can vote for the speaker.

If the speaker election is brought up and no questions asked, all members presumably could vote in the matter.

"The Democrats said, with the rule last year, they don't believe the Republicans have a right to vote," Conrad said. "Now, if the Democrats want to say they made a mistake—and let us vote—that's fine."

Further Comment On Mortician 'Fillers'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Anent the article entitled "Morticians Bury Debate with Fillers" (Saturday, Jan. 25, page 12) and the comment that "Jesus recognized . . .", based upon St. John 12, it should be noted that:

(1) The disciple who questioned the propriety of the gift was Judas Iscariot;

(2) Jesus, at the time of His anointment with a very costly pound of spikenard was among the temporal living, in short, the costly gesture was to a living leader—not a funeral offering, and;

(3) The verse continues (answering the criticism by Judas that the ointment should have been sold and the money given to the poor) by saying,

School Board Tells Teacher Pay Views

Editor, Independent-Journal:

It was with some surprise that we read your recent editorial concerning teachers' salaries in Marin County. It may be that it was not your intention to create the impression that these salaries are too high and any request by the teachers to have them increased should be looked upon with disfavor by Boards of Trustees. However, this was one of the reactions that we had to your editorial.

The San Anselmo School District has long been cognizant of the fact that the salaries for teachers is a very important factor necessary to attract good personnel to the district and then, having once acquired them, it is even more important to retain excellent teachers. We are quite certain that there are other factors which play an important part in having a good staff, but salary is certainly a matter of prime concern.

Not only should the teachers be paid a sum which will give them a good standard of living for themselves and their families, but there should be an incentive for them to improve themselves academically. The time that additional courses can most easily be taken by most teachers is in the summer months. The credits that they earn during this period of time should also be reflected in higher compensation. It is for that reason that our board has provided in its salary schedule an increase in the salaries for those teachers who earn additional credits in their profession.

The remarks that you make concerning the $7,000 figure of teachers' salaries should be considered in the light of what other kinds of people earn in their callings. If one were to take the hourly wage that a plumber is presently obtaining (and this will be increased this year) of $4 per hour, it is quickly apparent that a plumber will earn in excess of $8,300 per year, exclusive of any overtime. The comparison of a plumber and a teacher is by no means to be construed as a comparison of the kind of work that each does. We feel that a plumber is a very important member of society and is rightly entitled to a fair wage for the work he performs, but we are equally emphatic that a teacher who has the responsibility of molding and guiding the minds of our children should be fairly and properly compensated for the long hours that she spends not only in the classroom but in conference with parents, attending in-service training sessions and many conferences, the latter two activities aimed at self-improvement and betterment of the teaching staff and profession.

Another part of your editorial referred to the fact that the teachers are the only ones who present salary requests to the Board. As is true of any general statement, the comments in your editorial are open to attack. Our Board, like many of the school boards in Marin County, is a member of the California School Boards Assn., which is a state organization, composed of trustees in California. It furnishes services to us in connection with salary problems through its literature and through the conferences which the state organization holds throughout the year; the most recent of these was the convention of the entire state organization held the first part of December, 1963, in San Francisco. There are in addition to the annual state conference, regional conferences which meet at other times during the year for discussion of salary and other subjects. Our Board also belongs to the County Trustees Assn., which is made up of most of the school boards in Marin. The county association also holds periodic conferences to discuss the many educational problems that school boards face, including salary for teachers and other personnel. Our Board, in addition to these, also reviews early in the calendar year quite carefully the availability of funds which we anticipate we shall receive in the ensuing year to see what can be done about the salary schedule, for all district personnel. As the salaries constitute the bulk of a school district budget, this is usually the first thing that we do in starting to set up the budget. It has been our sincere desire to provide a schedule that was competitive and within the financial limits of our district, considering the total program that we feel the district should accomplish. It is our policy to make the salaries available to the groups interested by a presentation at one meeting and then provide for discussion and vote at the next meeting of the board at which time we finally vote the salary schedules into effect for the next year.

We feel that insofar as the San Anselmo School District is concerned your editorial was without merit and did not reflect what we have conscientiously striven to attain—a fair and equitable salary schedule for our teachers and other personnel in our district.

San Anselmo School District Board of Trustees,
ROBERT W. CORLETT,
President

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

Ex-movie star Charlie Farrell, now a successful resort owner in California, confesses that he never can remember names. A patron of his Racquet Club in Palm Springs greeted him one morning with a hearty, "Hi, Charlie! Remember me? Jackson Hole." "Ah, yes," answered Farrell vaguely. "Hello, Mr. Hole." Another time, Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower paused at the Racquet Club reception desk to tell Farrell how she had enjoyed her lunch. As usual, Farrell couldn't recall the ex-First Lady's name. So he said, "Thanks, dearie."

A starlet sought to purchase a sweater for her poodle, but didn't know the exact size. "Bring him in and have him fitted," suggested a clerk. "I couldn't do that," protested the starlet. "It's for his birthday—and I want to surprise him."

Senate Probe Of Bobby Baker Case Needs To Go Deeper Without Delay

WASHINGTON — Something needs to be done soon to require the Senate Rules Committee to probe the Bobby Baker case to its core.

This Baker thing is not the worst offense that has besmirched the government. It is not comparable to the Teapot Dome scandals of the early 1920s. But it is beginning to look worse and smell worse every time the Senate Rules Committee dips into the testimony and lets the public know a little more of what it's finding.

WHAT WE HAVE HERE is not so much a crime against the public treasury, but the very worst of shabby, shoddy personal ethics in the egregious misuse by Bobby Baker of his influence in his post as secretary to the senate majority.

It is now evident that he used his high position in government, from which he resigned, in a wide variety of corrputing get-rich-quick devices in which other Senate employees were involved and in which he was giving favors and in return getting highly lucrative favors.

Few Washington correspondents believe the Senate Rules Committee is near to exposing the whole thing. There is no public confidence that the committee is going to dig to the bottom. There are plenty of people in Washington who would like to steer the investigation into bypaths before it reveals too much.

WHEN THE PATHS of Bobby Baker's dubious activities have been found leading to the door of some Senator, Chairman Everett Jordan of North Carolina reined in the questioning and explained: "We are not investigating Senators."

And he's right. The Senate has given the rules committee no mandate to investigate Senators; it is authorized only to investigate "Senate employees."

Because the testimony has come out piecemeal, it is doubtful if many realize the range of the unsavory mess which Bobby Baker left strewn behind. Here are samples of what was going on:

Baker and friend getting an $11,500 payoff in connection with the contract to build the District of Columbia stadium, according to the testimony.

A Senator extending to a Senate employee a share in a profitable land deal—without any clear explanation of what the return favor was to be.

Then there was a Senate employee arranging the financing on a mortgage for an expensive house a Senator wanted to buy and another Senate employee arranging for the gift of an expensive hi-fi set to an influential Senator.

THE PUBLIC WILL rightly ask what goes on here. How much more is still uncovered and is there any present assurance that the investigation will get to the bottom of it? One of three things is imperative.

1. A bold decision to take this investigation out of the hands of the Senators and put it into the hands of a blue-ribbon panel comparable to that holding the inquiry into President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

2. A bi-partisan-backed resolution giving an adequate directive to the Senate Rules Committee to investigate "Senators" as well as "Senate employees," as the evidence requires.

3. A public declaration by the rules committee that it will do so unless the Senate instructs it to lay off.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Castro Might Sign A-Test Ban Treaty

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—Fidel Castro is dropping hints that he will soon sign the nuclear test ban treaty.

The Cuban dictator has been the lone holdout among the Soviet satellites. Castro claimed he didn't want to become involved in the furious ideological dispute between Russia and Red China—which has violently assailed the pact.

IT IS NOW APPARENT that Castro effected a "neutral" stand on this issue for the express purpose of wangling urgently needed additional Soviet aid for Cuba's shattered economy.

Latin American diplomats in Havana, who have been tipped off on the impending test ban signing, are certain it is part of Castro's payment for the greatly increased assistance promised by Premier Nikita Khrushchev during their recent Moscow meeting.

Two moot questions overhang their deal:

(1) Whether volatile and temperamental Castro will make good on his promise to sign the nuclear treaty, and (2) whether Khrushchev will give him all the economic help promised.

The Soviet bloc already is putting more than a million dollars a day into Cuba in food, clothing, oil, machinery, equipment and new plants. In return, they are getting some barter payments in sugar, tobacco, fruits and vegetables.

Among the satellites the Cuban burden is admittedly onerous, and they are getting tired of it. They have plenty of economic shortcomings of their own to cope with.

So where the big boost in aid is coming from remains to be seen. If Russia shoulders the extra load, that will add to its tribulations, which are many and huge. As a result, Castro may discover—as have numerous others who made deals with the Kremlin—that what he gets and what was promised are very different.

THERE IS A significant reason behind President Lyndon B. Johnson's repeatedly avowed determination to put the long-controversial medicare bill through Congress this year.

The line-up in the Ways and Means Committee is closer than published reports indicate.

Speaker John McCormack of Massachusetts has told the president the backstage alignment on this stormy issue is 13 to 12—with the 10 Republican committeemen and three Democrats against, and 12 Democrats for.

Does John Glenn Know Importance Of Women's Vote In Senate Race?

A POLITICIAN and an astronaut are literally "worlds apart." One was created to deal with strictly terrestial matters, the other to conquer outer space.

We wonder how John H. Glenn Jr. will make out in his bid for an Ohio senate seat.

Judging from a letter sent to Redwood High School journalism student Paula Malvino in October, Glenn had not yet learned the importance of the women's vote.

Paula, obviously prejudiced, asked Glenn in a written interview why no women had been selected for the astronaut team.

Glenn, replying from that citadel of masculinity, the Madden spacecraft center in Houston, stated:

"SO FAR, the women who have proposed that they be the ones to go to space have not proposed that they could conduct the mission better than the people we have selected.

"I am more interested in seeing that the flights are conducted as safely as possible and are successful in acquiring as much new information as possible, than I am in the gender of the occupant of the vehicle."

As to whether Glenn would leave the space program for another job Glenn said:

"I feel that my place is with the space program as long as I am required as an active astronaut or until someone of higher authority feels that I can best serve in another area."

CORTE MADERA Lions Club members kept emphasizing two points immediately after the disturbance Saturday night which resulted in the closing down of teen-age dances at the recreation center.

One was that there actually had been no "riot." They insisted that the only disturbance created was from a group of youths who had not been admitted to the dance.

Criticism was leveled at Officer Charles Rester for putting out a general call for assistance. Police Chief Frank L. Nelson and other officers at the scene backed up Rester's action. It was a potentially dangerous situation, they said, which could not be handled by the dance management.

THE OTHER argument was to the effect that if the dances are discontinued at the recreation center, where will our kids go? To McNear's Beach? In comparison, the dances at the recreation center were described as well behaved.

There was also the humorous side to the whole incident.

A six-foot, four-inch California Highway Patrol officer was standing outside the recreation center keeping the peace merely by his formidable appearance.

His grim face and clasped hands behind the back had the desired effect on the milling youths of being seemingly implacable, until a diminutive teen-age girl approached the officer, peered up into his face and chortled: "Ho, ho, ho. The jolly green giant."

Actor Sums Up The Meaning Of Life —It Boils Down To Self-Respect

NEW YORK (AP)—What one word best sums up the meaning of life to you?

The question seemed to have touched a responsive chord in Peck, who worked his way up from a concession barker at the last New York World's Fair to his present status as a star in Hollywood.

Although he played a psychiatrist in his latest film, Peck thinks the flight to the head-shrinker's couch is being abused by many people who aren't in real mental distress.

"The fun and challenge of living is to meet a standard of excellence. I don't like the increasing unnecessary dependence on psychiatric counseling," he said.

"I THINK THE whole idea is to work these things out for yourself—even though it takes until you're 50 to overto me, is the point of the whole thing.

"If you turn this over to someone else and say: 'Handle this for me,' you're become your prejudices and reach a level-headed point of view.

"Part of the whole idea of life is to be able to do this for yourself. You have to learn to live without crying on someone else's shoulder.

"A measure of a person is how he can hurdle the problems of existence on his own —and without self-pity. That, faulting on the whole idea of living.

"THE MOST NOTEWORTHY thing about Hollywood right now is the cold war going on in the search for good script material. It's a real competition, full of espionage.

Peck, who has had a rare record of success, thinks an actor should be philosophical if a film venture turns out to be a turkey

"YOU TRY to do your best as a matter of pride," he said. "But a movie, after all, although it reflects and interprets life, is still only a movie —a comment on living and dying.

"If you do make a bad one, the nice thing about it is that everyone wants to forget it —and they sweep it under the rug as soon as possible."

HE FINDS PLEASURE outside his career by rearing five children, raising fine beef cattle, traveling, going to art and furniture auctions with his wife — and buying losing racehorses.

"I don't have time to be unhappy — and that's about it," he said.

Reed Tax Hike Due Discussion

Possible increase in Reed School District taxes through utilizing permissive features of over-ride tax provisions is expected to be discussed by the district board at its meeting at 8 p.m. today in room 14 of Reed School.

The district already is levying an operating tax of $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation, the maximum for which it has voter authorization. However, various "over-ride" levies are possible without going to the electorate for permission. Over-ride taxes in the district this year total 21 cents on the tax rate. An additional 37 cents is levied for bond and loan repayments, making the total rate $2.83.

A progress report from the Citizens Educational Objectives Committee is also to be heard.

Today is Thursday, Jan.30, the 30th day of 1964 with 336 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Those born today include Franklin D. Roosevelt, the 32nd president of the United States, in 1882.

On this day in history:

In 1933, Adolf Hitler was named Chancellor of the German Reich by President Von Hindenburg.

In 1948, Mohandas K. Ghandi was assassinated by an extremist in New Delhi, where Ghandi was leadng 1,000 of his followers into a summer house for evening devotions.

In 1962, Cuba was ousted from the Organization of American States by a 14-1 vote, with six nations abstaining.

A thought for the day—Franklin D. Roosevelt once said: "The test of our progress is not whether we add more to the abundance of those who have much; it is whether we provide enough for those who have too little."

Opening lead — ♡ 7

When today's hand was played in the 1961 world championships, West led the unbid suit.

RISKY LEAD

It was a risky lead, but West had to find five tricks, mostly in his partner's hand.

The lead worked very well. East covered dummy's queen with the king of hearts, driving out the ace. When East got in with the ace of diamonds, he cleared the hearts, and when he got in with the jack of diamonds he ran the rest of the hearts to defeat the contract.

South would have made the game against a spade lead. He would take the queen of spades and lead the queen of diamonds to force out the ace. Then he would hold up the ace of spades for one round and try a finesse with dummy's ten of diamonds. The defenders would get one spade and two diamonds.

SILLY SLAM

At the other table of this match the contract was a silly slam. North opened with three diamonds, and South jumped to six notrump. You can see better bidding in the Ladies' Tuesday Afternoon Bridge and Chowder Society.

What happened next reminds me of the time my old friend Charlie Lochridge was playing with another famous expert in a national championship.

The other expert had just made a horrendous opening lead, but Lochridge did not scold him. "Just put your hand on the table face down," he suggested pleasantly. "We'll have a better chance if you let me pick the opening lead that way."

WORLD CHAMP

To return to our 1961 world championship, West led the only card that could give South the slam — the nine of diamonds!

Naturally declarer covered with dummy's ten, and East could get only one diamond trick. South romped home with twelve tricks amid a strained silence.

The recommended lead against six notrump is anything that is unlikely to cost a trick. In this case most experts would lead a club.

QUESTION

You hold:
♠ 5 4 2
♥ K 9 6 4 3
♦ A J 5
♣ 10 7.

What do you say?

Answer: Pass.

If you bid two hearts partner may have to bid three clubs, and your hand is not strong enough to force the bidding to that level.

111—Used Imported and Sports Cars for Sale

What to look for in a used car.

We sell new Volkswagens, mainly, but our customers have put us in a thriving used car business with their trade-ins. And we like our used car customers to go out of here as satisfied and confident as our new Volkswagen owners.

The check list below is for your convenience. A car that rates 100%, we'd call "factory clean." Of course you can't ask for perfection in a vintage economy model. But you can make sure you know what you're getting for whatever you're paying.

Besides price, year, color, style, make and model, you can look into a few less obvious points to assure yourself of the car's worth with this check list.

We'd rather have you satisfied—than just sold.

On the lot, look for:

- ☐ Tires with evenly worn tread.
- ☐ Tight windows and doors.
- ☐ Lights and accessories that work.
- ☐ Clean, undamaged upholstery and flooring.
- ☐ Spare tire, jack, tire iron.
- ☐ Good radiator hose, fan belt, distributor cables, wipers.
- ☐ Tight hubcaps.
- ☐ Locks that work.

Check these points in road test:

- ☐ Good springs and shock absorbers.
- ☐ Comfortable steering that doesn't pull to either side.
- ☐ Firm brakes that don't pull to either side.
- ☐ Effective emergency brakes.
- ☐ Speedometer and other gauges that work
- ☐ Smoke-free exhaust.

Look out for:

- ☐ Rust around fenders and seams.
- ☐ Loose tail pipe or muffler.
- ☐ Loose bumpers.

NOTICE INVITING SEALED BIDS IN THE MATTER OF THE CONSTRUCTION AND ACQUISITION OF IMPROVEMENTS IN EAST SAN RAFAEL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT NO. 2, CITY OF SAN RAFAEL, MARIN COUNTY, CALIFORNIA.

Pursuant to the provisions of the Municipal Improvement Act of 1913 and to Resolution of the City Council of the City of San Rafael, Marin County, California, directing this Notice, said City Council hereby invites sealed bids and proposals for doing the work and improvements described in Resolution of Intention No. 2959 in the above entitled matter of the City Council of the City of San Rafael, adopted January 20, 1964, and said Resolution of Intention is hereby referred to for a description of said work and improvements, the lines and grades to which it is to be done, a description of the district to be assessed to pay the cost and expenses thereof, the bonds to be issued, and for all further particulars contained in said Resolution of Intention. Reference is hereby made to the plans and specifications and detailed drawings for said work on file in the office of the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael, in accordance with which said work shall be done.

The Contractor shall, in the performance of the work and improvements, conform to the Labor Code of the State of California and other laws of the State of California applicable thereto, with the exception only of such variations as may be required under the special statutes pursuant to which proceedings hereunder are taken and which have not been superseded by the provisions of the Labor Code. Preference to labor shall be given only in the manner provided by law. Said payment will be made to the contractor based upon the quantity of labor and materials furnished by said contractor. Commencing sixty (60) days after the commencement of the work and within the first five (5) days of each calendar month during the construction period thereafter, the contractor shall submit to the engineer an itemized bill of the quantity and value of the materials accepted and work performed prior to the end of the preceding month, and the engineer will within a reasonable time check such bill, make his estimate of the value of the same in accordance with the terms of the contract, and ninety per cent (90%) thereof shall be paid to said contractor on or before the 15th day of said calendar month; the remaining ten per cent (10%) of the amount due to the contractor shall be paid thirty-five (35) days after completion of all of said work and improvement and acceptance thereof by the City Council of the City of San Rafael.

All proposals or bids shall be accompanied by a check payable to said City of San Rafael and certified by a responsible bank for an amount which shall not be less than ten per cent (10%) of the aggregate of the proposal, or by a bond for said amount and so payable, signed by the bidder and two sureties who shall justify, before any officer competent to administer an oath, in double the said amount and over and above all statutory exemptions, or by a corporate surety bond in said amount satisfactory to the engineer.

Said proposals or bids shall be delivered to the City Clerk of the City of San Rafael on or before the 20th day of February at the hour of 2:30 o'clock P.M. of said date, at the office of the City Clerk, located at the City Hall, 5th and "A" Streets, San Rafael, California, which said time and place is hereby fixed as the time and place of a public meeting at which said bids will be publicly opened, examined and declared by the City Clerk. Said bids, after being publicly opened, examined and declared, will be calculated by the Engineer of Work, their report returned to the City Council, and the report of the results of the bidding and the calculations of the Engineer of Work will be reported to the City Council of the City of San Rafael at the next regular meeting thereof. The City Council of the City of San Rafael reserves the right to reject any and all proposals or bids should it deem this necessary for the public good, and also the bid of any bidder who has been delinquent or unfaithful in any former contract with the City of San Rafael.

Plans and specifications are available for inspection at the office of Whitlow, Hoffman and Albritton, 912 Grand Avenue, San Rafael, California, and may be had upon payment of $50.00 which is non-refundable.

California-Chile Program Is Hit

SAN FRANCISCO — The California-Chile program on technical cooperation — a federal-state plan with an avowed aim of furthering Chile's economic and social development —was criticized this week by the new president of the San Francisco Chapter of the Pan American Society.

Hugh O'Donnell, delivering an inaugural address at a chapter meeting at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco, said that serious doubts exist about the need for the California-Chile program and that it aims and objectives are vague.

The program was set up last year under the Ailiance for Progress, the long range Latin American development project.

'Big Knife' Deserves Attendance

By FRANK FARRARA

Clifford Odets' penetrating dissection of life in Hollywood is aptly handled by the Ross Valley Players in their production of "The Big Knife" currently running at the Barn at the Art and Garden Center in Ross.

The show will be repeated tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. and again Feb. 7 and 8.

Although it is a verbal tour de force by leading man Charles Black, the spirit and mood of the drama was carried by the entire cast in its opening performance.

In the role of a major film star caught in the web of Hollywood machinations, Black is onstage practically throughout the play.

PROPER SHADING

In moments of intensity, soul-searching and anger, he shines, but he falls short of these peaks in the moments of lightness or tenderness.

Despite this slight lack of proper shading, Black lends the vigor and dash that create the emotional impacts.

Phyllis Courtney, portraying his wife, gave a consistently good performance, bringing feeling and sensitivity to her role. At no time did she falter or make a false move.

CHARMING AIR

Shistar brought a charming air of naturalness to the stage, and Sullivan a slickness and polish that told as much about the character he portrayed as his lines.

Lois Feiner was suitably appealing as a young starlet and Larry Allen portrayed the producer with the proper degree of pompousness and arrogance.

Jean Wenger, playing a writer, Randy Greig, the star's publicity man, Justin Handlos, the butler and Jim Meyers, a neighbor, handled their roles efficiently.

Maudee Willcutt as the vicious columnist and Ursula McCarthy, as a wayward wife, also performed well. Director John Brebner apparently instilled the group with the proper mood and pacing.

Set designer John Thayer, artists, painters and construction crew deserve special mention for an attractive setting.

4 Exchange Students To Exchange Schools

Two exchange students at Redwood High School will attend classes in other high schools and Redwood will receive two different exchange students during the week of Feb. 8-15.

Evandro Riebero of Brazil will spend the week in Concord and Tanja Den Daas will go to Carmichael. Coming to Redwood High School are Roger Pickford of England and Desta Bishaw of Ethiopia.

Property damage totaled 200 million dollars during the Feather River flood in December, 1955.

NO PUZZLE—A happy marriage is no puzzle to Mr. and Mrs. Barney McGough of 99 Clark Street, San Rafael. They have been married 58 years, following the examples of other McGoughs who have been married even longer. Here they work together on a jigsaw puzzle.

San Rafael's McGoughs Wed 'Only' 58 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Barney McGough of 99 Clark Street, San Rafael, have been married only 58 years.

They say "only" because McGough is behind the rest of the family by a few years. He has a sister, Mrs. G. L. Rogers of San Anselmo, who has been married 60 years, and a brother, Robert Pierce McGough of Porterville, Tulare County, who has been married 66 years.

"That's a lot of years," McGough said as he and his wife sat before a jigsaw puzzle in the snug living room of their home.

There were also two other sisters and a brother who had all been married more than 50 years before they died.

How do you explain it?

"Our people have never been jealous, and we've never been selfish," McGough said.

McGough and his wife, then Arizona Brown, were married in Stephenville, Tex., on Nov. 27, 1905.

"We didn't have all the hifalutin things you have to put up with now, and there weren't all the temptations," McGough said.

Mr. and Mrs. McGough both grew up on farms near Dublin, Tex. When McGough was 14, his father died and the boy had to go to work on the family farm.

Despite his lack of schooling, McGough was a mathematics whiz. He claims that he had mastered the multiplication tables up to 14 by the age of 4 and "no one in school could spell me down."

The mathematical ability paid off after McGough left the farm at 26 and went into carpentry. "I could do most all of my figuring in my head," he said. "Younger fellows on the job couldn't understand how I did it."

"He's forgotten most of it now," Mrs. McGough said.

The McGoughs moved to Marin County, settling in San Anselmo, in 1937. They moved to San Rafael in 1941.

Recalling the early days of carpentry, McGough said he used to work for $10.50 a week, 10 hours a day for six days a week.

"We put in a good day's work then," he said.

"And even on that salary we would put money by," Mrs. McGough said proudly.

For a time McGough worked in partnership with his son, William Brooks McGough, building homes in Marin. The son has since become an architectural engineer and the father has retired.

McGough keeps busy in retirement.

"I sharpen saws for the boys and I trap 'coons for people," McGough said.

Man Asserts Drugs Given In Excess

A 71-year-old Pacific Palisades man asserts that excessive amounts of a drug administered to him at Marin General Hospital caused a loss of hearing accompanied by "constant buzzing, humming, beeping and gurgling sounds and noises in his head."

The claim for $62,500 in damages alleges that Vickers was given excessive amounts of streptomycin by doctors, nurses and employees of the hospital while he was a patient last April. He entered the hospital, the claim states, for an operation on his large intestine.

Vickers also asks repayment of $161.60 expenses incurred while he was a patient at the hospital.

Choir Concert Slated At Lagunitas School

The Whittier College a cappella choir will present a concert at Lagunitas School at 8 p.m. today, Rev. Charles Orr, pastor of San Geronimo Valley Community Church, reported.

Singing with the choir will be the Whittier College madrigal singers. A brass ensemble will accompany some numbers.

Brown Shies Away From Fair Dispute

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown said he is taking no position on a proposal of the California State Fair to contract with a broadcasters' association to pay it the fair's advertising budget for television and radio in return for support and favorable coverage of the fair, rather than paid advertising.

The plan to contract with the California Broadcasters' Assn. has been referred to a three-member committee, authorized to sign it. Although action was scheduled some time ago, the matter still is unsettled, perhaps due to opposition to the plan expressed by the California Newspaper Publishers Assn.

"The only thing I know about that is what I've read in the newspapers," Brown said. "The board of directors of the state fair did not discuss this with me.

"I want to keep the newspaper people very happy and I want to keep televison happy, and I think I'll just leave that to the board of directors to make up their mind on it," he said. "I can't get into every decision that's made by administrative boards and tribunals around this state."

Dartmouth Now Has Culture In Addition To Big Athletes

HANOVER, N. H. (UPI)—Dartmouth College, founded in 1769 to "tame" the Indian, now is in the midst of a 20th century cultural explosion.

It's a certainty that a comeback-to-earth alumnus of founder Eleazar Wheelock's days wouldn't know the place today; it's also a good bet that a graduate of even a few years ago would be startled at the changes.

The college on the hill still is the haven of the traditionally husky athlete in his bulky sweater and Dartmouth's prowess was proved last year by an undefeated fooball team. But returning alumni find today's Dartmouth man is of a different ilk, perhaps smarter.

The loyal alumni apparently approve, because they just gave a record $1,378,497 to the 1963 fund drive.

The most astounding change is that there are GIRLS studying on campus, at least for the summer.

Nearly two centuries passed in which the only girls on campus were being escorted by a Big Green man.

Dartmouth people point out the school always was active in these fields. But they admit there never was anything like the developments of the past few years.

Among other facilities, it has six art and sculpture galleries, seven art studios, two theaters, three music auditoriums and 28 large and small rehearsal rooms. There are even a soda shop and a ballroom.

Dartmouth turns away about three out of every four boys who apply and more and more of her students are going on to graduate work, a recognized "status symbol" among colleges.

A summer arts program initiated this year and called by some the epitome of Dartmouth's "new look" has kept the Hopkins Center bustling with 12 symphony and chamber concerts and continuing performances of three repertory plays ranging from Shakespeare to Shaw.

"We are taking a chance by refusing to present "light" music and "John Loves Mary" type drama during the summer. And although we had about half houses at first, we are now playing to full houses."

Bentley imported Broadway performers John Tanner, Claude Harz, Carol Teitel and Nancy Cole as the nucleus of the repertory group. He recruited some top summer stock and off-Broadway actors for supporting roles.

Hanover area residents are as pleased as most of the students, the college reports. And the alumni appears more than satisfied, judging from their financial response.

"It's an unusual feeling to see some big football player working in a sculpture studio," said one returning alumnus, "but it's a warm feeling too and I wish we'd had the same thing when I was here."

IN FOR OVERHAUL

The USS Constitution, the U.S. Navy's oldest commissioned ship, is tied up at the Boston Naval Shipyard for a period of major repair. It was the fifth time in the 166-year career of "Old Ironsides" that the warship was in drydock.

12,000 GERMANS SEEKING PARENTS

Red Cross So Far Has Restored 78,000 To Their Nearest Relatives

BONN (UPI) — Certainly not the most popular, but probably the most widely-heard German radio program for many years has been the daily reading of names or descriptions of children separated from their parents by World War II.

Ninety thousand German children were separated from their parents, mainly during the collapse of the Third Reich as refugees flowed back before the invading Allies.

After the war, the Red Cross registered all these children, most of whom were cared for in orphan homes, and began trying to locate their parents or other relatives.

Often, the children were separated from their parents before they could speak. If they were old enough to speak, they could not remember their names or where they came from and were still so young that the small vocabulary they had did not betray an accent that would have indicated their homes.

Nevertheless, in 17 years, the Red Cross has restored 78,000 of those children to their parents or near relatives.

But 12,000 still are looking hopelessly for their parents.

The bill, if it becomes law, requires all children under 12 to be issued identity plates, starting in 1966. The plates, similar to the "dog tags" worn by American GI's, will contain the child's name, birth date, birthplace and name and address of the parent or guardian.

The bill declares all children must have such plates handy in times of emergency. It does not say the children must actually wear them. Older persons may get the tags if they wish.

Children have been thus tagged in Belgium since 1955 and in Sweden since 1960.

Priest Spurs Spread Of Credit Unions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Following in the footsteps of a fellow Maryknoll missioner in Peru, a priest in Bolivia has sparkplugged a small credit union of 11 members into a countrywide movement of 80 credit unions.

Three years ago, Father Joseph W. Beausoleil, M.M., a native of New Haven, Conn., started a small credit union in his parish. Today there are 80 throughout the country and Father Beausoleil is managing director of the Bolivian Federation of Credit Unions.

Father Dan McLellan, a Maryknoller from Denver, Colo., started the first credit union in Peru at his parish of San Juan, high in the Andes Mountains. Under his direction the San Juan Credit Union prospered, and the credit union idea spread rapidly to other parishes throughout Peru. The country now boasts of the largest number of cooperatives in Latin America with a membership of 96,000.

The Bolivian Federation of Credit Unions now has 80 unions established in parishes, factories, communities and labor unions. The Federation's total savings are equivalent to $144,000 and it has granted loans totaling about $145,000, reports Father Beausoleil.

Next To Other Rabbits, Rabbits Just Love Trees

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — Rabbits love trees. In fact, a hungry rabbit can eat 100 Douglas Fir seedlings in a single meal. And without salt and pepper.

The research center project is a cooperative effort of the Washington State Department of Natural Resources, the U. S. Forest Service and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

One thing the scientists would like to find out is why animals won't eat some plants, such as tanzy ragwort, even if they are starving. The plant is green and full of nutrients but the animals won't touch it.

Dr M. A. Radwan, a plant physiologist for the U. S. Forest Service, said he believes the reason why some plants are immune to animal damage is chemical.

Radwan said if the chemical can be isolated, it will be possible to make other plants safe. stock as well as in order to imare teaching rabbits and porcupines to carry radio transmitters.

Paul Martin, a biologist with the Fish and Wildlife Service, explained that the radios would permit scientists to track the animals and learn more about their living habits.

"If they are after sugar, perhaps we can breed a tree that is low in sugar," he said.

The researchers admit they have just begun to scratch the surface of their project. But they are confident they can develop a means through which animals and trees can co-exist in the same forest.

Defendant Didn't Drink Evidence

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The defendant in city court denied a charge of possessing whisky for resale. He said he was holding the three half pints found on him for some friends.

"Do you drink?" asked Judge Andrew Doyle.

Plant Earlier

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) An agronomist at the University of Arizona suggests growers could decrease the rate of seeding of barley and at the same time increase yield. Dr. Bob Dennis said this could be done by seeding in mid-November instead of mid-December. Other factors would be an adequately pre-irrigated seedbed and a properly functioning grain drill.

They're Feeding Aspirin To Hens!

Poultry scientists Bobby L. Reid and B. J. Hulett of the University of Arizona figure the aspirin eased the pressure on hens who may lead a hectic life.

Rival Gets Bonus For Crash Report

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Houston Jones Jr. saw an auto crash near his school and promptly called a local radio station, which gives a $25 bonus for good stories.

Legless Vet Gets Along Fine, Flying Own Plane

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — The walking days of Russel W. Heriford were cut off by German machine gun bullets during World War II but that hasn't stopped the 36-year-old veteran from flying his own plane throughout the country helping other paraplegics and serving as a church evangelist.

In addition, Heriford has invented what he calls the Stand-Alone Therapeutic Aid which allows a paraplegic to be pretty much on his own, without outside help. It allows him to stand alone or wheel himself to a car, home or plane. He can fold up the store the device knowing that he simply reverses the process when he desires.

Heriford began taking flying lessons in Memphis, Tenn., in 1946 and got his commercial license in 1951. Recently he was able to buy his own plane.

Charles Bray, vice president and general manager of Riverside Air Service, said he was worried about selling Heriford the plane.

But a special hand rudder control was installed so Heriford could operate the rudder controls without his feet and he was ready to take off.

The StandAlone Therapeutic Aid required the removal of the TriPacer's rear seat, still leaving the front seats for Heriford and his wife Kittie.

Heriford says his chief purpose in flying around the country is to visit paraplegic conventions, veterans hospitals and other gatherings where he can demonstrate his Stand-Alone and explain other methods how a legless person can achieve independence.

A religious man, Heriford is a commissioned evangelist in the Church of the Nazarene and uses his plane in this work. He and his wife plan to extend their field of operations — both in church work and with paraplegics — to other countries.

Designers Making Everything Stretchable

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stretchable fabrics, already dominating the sports clothing industry, are beginning to make huge inroads into dress garments for both sexes and all ages.

Many of the fabrics are synthetic but some are made by processes that change the molecular structure of natural wool.

Buenos Aires Will Surprise Tourists

NEW YORK (UPI)—The newcomer to Argentina is in for some surprises—and the first is Buenos Aires.

It is a tremendous city. In population it ranks ninth in the world and is bigger than Chicago or Los Angeles. But its architecture and layout resembles Paris and, in the United States, comes closest to Washington, so that its size is deceiving.

American tourism is not a big thing in Argentina, simply because of the distance involved. It is 5,445 miles from New York to Buenos Aires and it's the end of the line for Americans visiting South America. The majority of them get only as far south as Rio de Janeiro in Brazil.

The Argentines are hoping for more North American visitors. Pan American World Airways recently inaugurated the first non-stop commercial service from New York to Buenos Aires, taking 65 newsmen and other guests. The first flight, smack over the Amazon jungles, took less than 10 and one-half hours — over distance roughly from New York to Los Angeles and return.

Buenos Aires has a very distinct European flavor. It has the sidewalk cafes of the continental cities of Europe. Its middle class people dress well. There is a fair variety of cuisines and foods and, of course, steak is the prime dish. It is relatively inexpensive and comes in such great cuts that you think you can never handle it—until you taste it.

One thousand miles to the south and west, nestled in the Andes Mountains, is another surprise. It is Bariloche, a favorite Argentine tourist resort and, for all the world, another Switzerland. There are the lakes, the chalets, the ski runs, the manicured terrain. It is a great honeymoon spot.

The pampas surprise the first-time visitors, too. Many envision them as great rolling prairies, an unbroken open range. Actually, in most part they are cultivated and divided into neat—if huge — sections. The land for hundreds of miles is as flat as glass.

In the northwestern section of the country is a waterfall higher and wider than Niagara Falls; not far away a canyon that rivals the Grand Canyon of our own West.

Argentine people are gracious and courteous, but they have dignity and pride. Away from the beaten tourist track, English will not get you by as it will in many other places. But even faltering attempts at Spanish from an English-Spanish dictionary bring warm appreciation that the visitor is trying.

Buenos Aires has an air of excitement, more invigorating than most Latin American cities. Some of it may be generated by the drivers—certainly among the wildest anywhere.

Every intersection seems to be a challenge to motorists coming from every which way and bluffing the other driver is practically a national sport.

The vintage of the cars immediately strikes the visitor from the north. Some go back to the decade right after World War I. Import duties are so high that a new car in the U.S. medium range will sell for $12,000 or more.

Taxi fares, however, are cheap—and what is laughingly called a limousine can be hired with driver for several hours for $3 or $4.

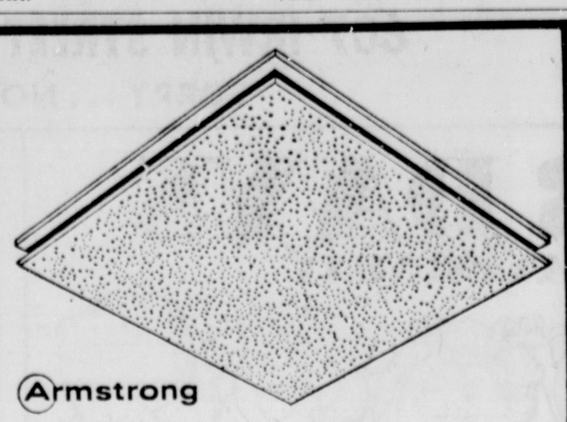

Buenos Aires is not as expensive a place to visit as one would imagine. A room in a luxury hotel costs about $12 per day. Food prices are reasonable and so are the excellent domestic wines. One hundred pesos is equivalent to about 65 cents U.S. at the official rate of exchange.

There are good supper rooms and night clubs, offering dancing — from the tango to the twist—and top-rate entertainment.

Once Blue Rhine Now Polluted By Industry

BONN (UPI)—Once it was blue, and between the whitecaps it reflected the proud castle towers and steep vineyards on its banks.

It has lost most of its reflecting quality.

The eel served in the inns is still taken from the Rhine. But before they reach the table, they have to spend four weeks swimming in a tank of well water to wash out the smell of phenol.

That's one of the prices of progress. The Rhine is the world's busiest river, with more than seven million tons of shipping working its surface. The much larger Mississippi is undeveloped by comparison.

Railways and highways run along its banks, linking the great industrial concentrations that interrupt the forests or vineyards every 20 or 30 miles.

All these products of modern civilization and a higher standard of living eliminate wastes, and they wind up polluting the river with phosphates and salt. The river moves along at a steady five miles per hour, carrying all that salt with it. Low man on the totem pole is Holland, where the salt is finally dumped.

The United Nations Economic Commission for Europe (ECE) last year looked over the situation. It decided, among other things, that 65 per cent of the waste going into the Rhine is from industry, 30 per cent is from neighboring residential communities and only 5 per cent from the ships plying the river.

The sum of this report and those by other researchers is that pollution of the river increases despite all efforts to restrict it, although the West German Ministry of Health claims the rate of pollution has been stabilized in this country.

The riparian states of Germany, Switzerland, France, Luxembourg and Holland have formed the International Commission for the Protection of the Rhine Against Pollution to coordinate their efforts.

The Allies insisted, after the war, that the new Germany have a weak central government, and strong state or provincial governments. The idea was to prevent another Hitler seizing power in the national capital and thus at one stroke in the nation. But it has some interesting side effects. One is the problem of dealing with public health, including river pollution.

The Constitutional Court a year ago declared unconstitutional a law giving the federal government certain executive powers in the field of river control. Dealing with river pollution, said the court, is strictly a matter for the states. So when several members of parliament asked the Federal Minister of Health for information on the fight against Rhine pollution this summer, it took six weeks to prepare the answer because the Minister had to ask the six state governments concerned.

A committee representing the six states replied they are following a plan calling for investment of 2.5 billion marks ($625 million dollars) during the next five years in filter and purification plants.)

The Rhine flows through Lake Constance, bordered by Austria, Switzerland and Germany, and this inland sea too is changing because of pollution.

DOUBLED IN WATER

The concrete flying buttresses of the new Roman Catholic cathedral at Liverpool, England, are mirrored in pools of rain water. The completed structure will be in the form of a vast cone, 350 feet in diameter and 300 feet high.

Thumpless Roads? Yes, No Joints

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Eighteen states are now trying out thumpless roads — new, supersmooth highways that eliminate the "double thumps" for motorists and minimize highway maintenance costs.

Called CRCP for "continuously reinforced concrete pavement," the new jointless roadway is made by placing overlapping high-strength steel reinforcing bars about mid-depth in the concrete.

The number of miles of CRCP road in the United States has almost doubled annually for the last three years and, as of October, 1,237 miles was in use or undercontract.

A CRCP highway permits use of a slightly thinner pavement slab than needed for a conventional joint highway, according to D. C. Greer, highway engineer of the Texas Highway Department, a leader in CRCP use. Experience in Texas indicates the new method increases pavement life and reduces maintenance, Greer says.

Because the concrete is held in a grip of steel throughout its length, these new roads don't need the contraction-expansion joints found in conventional concrete roads. It is these joints that cause the annoying "thumps" in conventional concrete pavement.

These joints enlarge in the winter, due to contraction of the concrete, and they must subsequently be filled in with asphalt. In the summer when the pavement expands, the asphalt may be forced out, creating bumps. The "double thumps" result when a car's front and rear wheels pass rapidly over the bumps.

New Road Alters View Of Lincoln Monument

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — You are driving along U.S. 30 east of Laramie when the engine starts to labor.

Designed by Robert Russin of the University of Wyoming's art department, the monument was erected in 1959 to symbolize the trans-continental highway which bears its name.

Travelers on the Lincoln Highway from Maine to California leave the monument with a deep sense of awe. The likeness to the Great Emancipator is that striking.

But one or two years from now, don't count on it. For progress is catching up with the Lincoln Monument.

And at least one person—the Rawlins, Wyoming, philanthrophist who paid $40,000 for the monument — has reservations about the re-location.

"I don't like it," says Dr. C. W. Jeffrey.

"It will be up on a hill and as soon as the new road goes in, the old one will become abandoned.

"How would you feel if you put up something like that and then a new road bypassed it?

"It's a very sacred piece of work."

It's not too difficult to understand Dr. Jeffrey's reasoning. But the Wyoming Highway Department, which will build the new road, has a good argument too.

"And plans call for an interchange nearby and a service road leading to it," he said.

The Highway Department said the proposed route will follow a new alignment just north of the present U.S. 30.

William E. Sutton, assistant stage highway engineer, said the six and one-half mile stretch of road running past the statue will be completed in the fall of 1965.

Ohio U. Plans 'Alumni College'

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University is developing a unique education program called "Alumni College."

It's a week-long series of courses in contemporary art and literature, interior decorating, personal finance and communications. The first was conducted during the past summer and attracted persons who had graduated 20 or more years ago.

Tentative plans call for two Alumni College weeks in 1964, one in each of the five-week summer school sessions.

Hockey Gear Donated To Nigerian Players

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — An Indian sports equipment firm has donated hockey gear to Nigeria "for distribution to the 12 best players of your country."

Wasan and Company of Jullundur, India, made the gift in response to an appeal by President Nnamdi Azikiwe for aid to the Nigerian national hockey team to enable it to play in international matches.

Airliners Make Like Choo-Choo

MEXICO CITY (AP) — If air travel in Mexico has something in common with railroads, there's a reason for it.

Sailors In Hawaii Parade On Volcano

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) There can't be many U.S. Navy men in the world who hold parades and reviews on the bed of an extinct volcano —but men of the Pacific Fleet Service Force do.

When Helium Runs Out There Won't Be More

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI)—The Department of Interior is storing helium in porous rock against the day that the natural supply is used up.

Officials estimate the supply in fields in the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles and in southwestern Kansas will be used up after 1985.

Ninety-five per cent of the nation's helium supply comes from the Texas, Oklahoma and Panhandle areas. Storage will insure the supply after the wells play out.

The Interior Department contracts for helium from private plants, which separate it from the natural gas with which it is mixed. The department will buy 63 billion cubic feet from the plants during the life of a 22-year contract.

Of this, a total of 40 billion cubic feet will be stored in dolomite, 3,500 feet underground in an area known as Cliffside Field. Two layers of non-porous anhydrite prevent the helium from escaping.

Paul Mullins, general manager of helium operations for the government, said the helium will be stored in its crude form and purified when needed.

"If we want to get it, we have to get it now," he said. "The reserves are limited to 15-25 years."

When the reserves are gone, there will be no replacing them, Mullins said.

"The hydrogen bomb makes helium when it explodes," he said. "That is the only way to make it and we do not want to do that."

Mullins noted there have been no important helium discoveries in 15 years. Through World War II, helium was used to inflate balloons. Since it has become valuable in arc welding and in testing for leaks in missiles because it is not explosive.

The Cliffside storage project includes a 425-mile pipeline from the Bushton, Kan., helium plant to near Amarillo. Feeder lines from other plants tie on to it.

DYING ART

Violin Strollers On The Way Out

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jashcha Heifetz once said that violin playing is a great but perishable art. At least one man is willing to agree that Heifetz knew what he was talking about.

"Violinists are a vanishing race," Vito Pisa, who is almost as intimately associated with the violin as Heifetz, said in an interview.

Pisa is the proprietor of a number of romantic-type night spots which employ first-rate violinists to stroll among the patrons and play worry-banishing music.

He has enough musicians on hand at his home base, Chez Vito in New York, and his other clubs to take care of his needs for the present.

But he is worried about the future. So he made a survey of professional music schools, a canvass that confirmed his suspicions and deepened his gloom.

Juillard School of Music reported fewer students now are studying the violin because the instrument takes many years to master. Distractions at home, such as television, make practice there difficult.

The New York School of Music said the violin was more popular 40 years ago, before radio became a commercial enterprise, than it is today. This school said comparatively only 10 per cent of the students now are bowing the strings.

Youngsters in today's space age seem to prefer instruments that are easy to learn, the survey disclosed, indicating why the accordion and guitar are more popular than ever.

"I have employed hundreds of violinists both here and abroad," Pisa said. "I regard this as a situation full of alarm for those of us who enjoy violin music.

"There should be an organized campaign to win children back to the violins or should we admit that anything difficult, no matter how much the eventual enjoyment, is beyond our capacity?"

Birds Give People Lots Of Trouble

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bears and other animals have been hunted to near extinction in this country. But the animal kingdom continues to cause humans a surprising amount of trouble, the Journal of American Insurance reports.

In one incident, a farm boy took a shot at a sparrow perched on the wheel of a farm wagon and managed to demolish the wagon, dramage nearby stores and factories, break windows in 600 homes and knock down power lines serving the entire area. The wagon contained 300 pounds of dynamite.

Birds also have figured in even more tragic mishaps, including two airplane crashes.

A large whistling swan is believed to have caused the fatal plunge of a United Air Lines Viscount near Elliott City, Md., last November. All 17 persons aboard were killed. The swan collided with the plane's tail assembly and damaged a vital stabilizer.

Three years ago, an Eastern Air Lines Electra crashed at Boston after large numbers of starlings were drawn into the air intakes of its turboprop engines. Sixty persons died in that mishap.

More Multiple Lamb Births

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI)—Scientists at Texas A&M University have discovered a way to increase the number of multiple births in sheep.

Dr. A. M. Sorensen, head of the animal husbandry department, said ewes injected with gonadotropic hormone had a decided increase in number of twins and triplets.

If Car Aimed Wrong, Switch Ends By Hand

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Roy Hunt borrowed the midget foreign car of a friend to go on an errand. He got the motor started, but couldn't find the reverse gear to back up and turn around.

When traffic piled up behind him on the busy city street, Hunt got out of the vehicle, lifted the front end and wheeled it around to the direction in which he wanted to go, then drove away.

Book Relates Importing By The T'ang Dynasty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — When scholars and sinologists refer to the glories of ancient China chances are they mean the more than three centuries of the T'ang dynasty, from about 603 to 917 A.D.

A little known truth of the "Glory of T'ang" was the extent of importing done during that era, either by camel train from the north and west or by huge junks which plied the oceans to such far away places as Africa.

Sinologist Edward H. Schafer recently brought to light in a volume published by the University of California Press the thirst for exotics during the time of T'ang.

Titled the "Golden Peaches of Samarkand," Schafer's work attempts to explain the natural desire for objects from "enchanted lands." In this, he says, the Chinese of the period were little different than Americans of today with their purchases of cameras from Germany and Japan, autos from England, furniture from Denmark and perfumes from France.

Trees bearing the "Golden Peaches" were sent to the Chinese court as a tribute from the Iranian city-state of Samarkand. Schafer said he titled his book from them "because the peaches symbolize all the exotic things longed for . . . by the people of the T'ang empire."

Other tribute often took more bizarre forms, such as the two albino troglodytes sent by Cambodia, or the heavily bearded Ainus brought to the "Middle Kingdom" from Japan.

But along with those ambassadors who brought tributes came merchants from far lands (all considered barbarians by the Chinese) whose caravans carried spices and aromatic woods, brocades and small, rare animals, richly plumed birds for the pleasure of the private citizen, books and metals.

Other things brought to Chang'an, the capital city of T'ang, were intangibles, such as music.

Imported "western" music was greatly favored during T'ang, according to Schafer, and many were the wealthy Chinese who took instruction from some "barbarian" in the are of mastering a foreign instrument.

The T'ang dynasty is noted for the magnificent porcelain horses created by its artisans. But little known is the fact that important as horses were, mostly for purposes of war, the finest steeds came from other lands.

It was not uncommon, says Schafer, for a vassal state to send the emperor thousands of horses. Merchants often brought whole herds to sell and the Chinese snapped them up.

From the west came Arabian chargers and from the north, tough, long-winded plains ponies both of which the Chinese "loved and admired."

Maps and books on science from western nations, metal armor and precious jewels, silks and textiles, drugs and fancy foods all found their way into China and helped mold the fabric of life during T'ang.

Saving Relics In Italy Is Delicate Job

ROME (UPI) — Italy has as many historic treasures as any place in the world and is proud of it.

But connected with these treasures is a difficult job—to preserve them.

A number of government offices and departments are charged with such work. Many deal with such public monuments the Colosseum, the Forums, statues and even the huge cobblestones of the ancient Appian Way.

But probably the most delicate job is that of the Central Institute of Restoration, which was founded in 1941 for the specific purpose of safeguarding the nation's artistic and archaeological works.

Heading the institute is Prof. Pasquale Rotondi. During the past 22 years, the institute has become famous for its restoration of paintings, frescoes and other Italian works of art that were damaged, or were in danger of being ruined by the ravages of time.

To carry out this job, it uses the finest artistic and scientific methods and equipment which makes it possible to take X-rays of extremely thick canvases, isolate different layers of paint and even determine the types of pigment.

The institute also carries out experiments to determine what weather and time can do to paintings and frescoes.

The Institute of Book Pathology. It specializes in preservation of all types of documents and manuscripts.

Institute of Precious Stones which was founded back in 1580 by Francis de'Medici. In the 19th century it began to help in restoration and reconstruction of monuments, including sculptures and mosaics, although its traditional task is handling rare and valuable stones.

Source Of Revenue From Commuter Line

CHICAGO (UPI) — Publicly owned urban rapid transit lines can be a source of revenue for privately owned railroads.

The Chicago and North Western Railway, which operates commuter service in competition with the Chicago Transit Authority (CTA) in some areas of the city, realizes $168,000 annually in rent from the CTA for 2.5 miles of double-track right-of-way.

With Windmills, It Isn't The Cost; It's The Heavy Upkeep

KINDERDIJK, The Netherlands (UPI) — If you're in the market for a windmill, Holland is the place to get one.

The price is right — you can get one for as little as one Dutch guilder (about 25 cents) —but there is one catch: you have to sign an agreement obliging you to pay for the restoration and upkeep of the mill. This could run the price up to about 20,000 guilders ($5,000).

It costs about 40,000 guilders ($10,000) to repair a windmill. But since no one in Holland feels like spending so much on a broken-down windmill, the government, local authorities and a special society that has pledged to keep mills going in The Netherlands are willing to pay 50 per cent of the cost.

The government also offers new owners of windmills an annual stipend of 500 guilders ($125).

In 1923, there were 3,000 windmills in operation throughout The Netherlands. There are 977 left, most of them rundown, damaged by fire or just standing there and coming apart at the seams.

An average of 50 mills has been demolished annually during the past five years. The Ministry of Education, Arts and Sciences has put a stop to this, but no man making a living by milling corn or sawing wood is in a position today to pay for extensive repairs. In fact, they are trying to sell out.

Of the 977 windmills, about 400 are used for storing building materials, wood and other goods. The rest serve as living or working space, stand idle or are in daily operation for corn milling, wood sawing or draining polders, the tracts of low land reclaimed from the sea, or other body of water, by dikes and dams.

Many windmills have historical importance and Holland would not be what it is today if there had been no mills.

Dutch authorities are determined to keep the windmills going—even if it costs you your last guilder.

Machines Dig—And Vast Lawn Vanishes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 10 acres of lawn surrounding Ohio's statehouse in downtown Columbus virtually have disappeared.

Machines and men are digging a huge hole three-quarters of the way around the capitol building for a $6 million, 1,200-car under-ground parking garage.

Transportation Is Studied By Cities

BERKELEY (UPI) — Metropolitan transportation studies are under way in eight U.S. cities, the University of California's Institute of Transportation and Traffic Engineering reported.

They are in the initial stages at New York, Boston and Milwaukee. The studies are well under way at Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Seattle and Buffalo. Studies have been completed at Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Washington.

Quake-Wrecked Agadir Now Starting To Blossom Again

AGADIR, Morocco (UPI)—The night of Feb. 29, 1960, a businessman named Bouaib Said Ben M'Bark awakened to feel his adobe home being shaken to bits.

Bouaib Said, his frightened six children and wife jumped into their automobile and fled to the next village, barely missing the fate of 15,000 citizens who perished when Agadir, a beautiful seaside city known as the "Miami of Morocco," collapsed in an earthquake.

Three-fourths of the city was reduced to rubble and the rest was uninhabitable. Bouaib Said escaped with 60 old francs (51 cents) in his pocket. All he could salvage from the ruins of his butcher shop was the refrigerator.

Today Bouaib Said, smiling and extending a happier handshake, welcomed customers to his butcher shop in the new Agadir which has begun to rise from the wreckage.

"After the earthquake, the banks refused to give anybody credit," he said.

"But I had friends. They gave me confidence to start over. They gave me money to rent this shop, and animals to sell. Now we are making a new life."

As man historically climbs from the ashes of calamities to build again, so is Agadir beginning to blossom as a new earthquake-proof city, carefully planned by government-hired architects from Morocco and France.

The population of Agadir, estimated at 50,000 before the quake, now totals around 30,000. But most live in unaffected nearby villages. Many residents with money left.

But orange exporter Joseph Okafu, who lives in nearby Innezgane, frankly admits, "I am afraid to move back to Agadir."

"I lost my mother, father, sisters and brothers in the earthquake," he said. "I was buried for three hours."

The area still trembles, the last small tremor being noticed in June. A rumor spread later that a tidal wave would engulf the bay city. Virtually every citizen rushed to the mountains.

When I complained of a bad odor on the sandy beach, two miners assured me "it's from bodies still underneath the ruins," Architect Belvisi, however, blamed the old sewage system, which snapped during the quake and "smells temporarily."

Men are hammering, hauling cement and laying bricks for 40 buildings. These include six apartment buildings, 30 private homes, a one-story 1000-bed hospital of concrete blocks and assorted businesses.

The master plan, which it is hoped to be completed by 1965, calls for 500 private homes, a junior college, elementary schools, mosques, parks, markets, 122 houses and apartment houses in the demolished Talbordj (Moslem residential area).

Already the government, coupled with private financing, has built 500 houses for earthquake victims in the industrial quarter, 2,000 temporary barracks for victims, new streets and a police station, and repaired 1,600 apartments and houses and many factories to conform with earthquake-proof laws.

The yards in front of the cubicle-like new white houses are filled with mothers in veils and long robes, wheeling baby buggies or handing lollypops to their children.

Water, sewage, electric and telephone systems and the port of Agadir have been repaired and put into operation.

"The city will be bigger and better," said Belvisi.

For example, the simple, white, two-story houses for earthquake victims have running water, toilets and electricity. Formerly, the occupants lived without such conveniences.

Butcher Bouaib Said and his family moved into one of these houses from the temporary barracks. But hundreds of refugees still live in the barracks, unable to reestablish themselves in businesses or jobs.

Driving around Agadir, I had the impression it looked like an American southwestern city because the buildings either are new or under construction and have a whitewashed, desert look. No traditional Moroccan architecture is left. All adobe houses caved in, causing trapped occupants to die of suffocation from dust. Now the law demands cement and bricks.

Earthquake victims who decided to stay in Agadir explain they had no other choice. Bouaib Said confessed: "I had no money to go to another city, we had to stay here."

A fruit grower said: "The riches of Morocco are near Agadir. The city had to be rebuilt."

Sixty fish and fruit packing plants and numerous mines are in the area. Shipments include cobalt to Communist China.

Many Agadirians are optimistic about the city's future. Down at the beach the reinforced Nautical Club is open again and counts 300 members. Before the earthquake it had 650 members, of whom 150 survived. The day I visited, workers were repairing the swimming pool and a few members played billiards to the sound of jazz in the near empty lounge.

Up the hill, a warm sea breeze scattered dry leaves in an empty swimming pool and a crumbling garage. That is all that remains of a once plush hotel that was bright and gay with tourists from around the world.

"I must remain here," said the Nautical Club owner. "All my money is tied up in this club. A year or so, and life will be normal.

Leave DOD Tell You What PERT, CATS, MET Mean

HOUSTON (UPI) — "PERT," "SCATS" and "MET" sound like the nicknames of a jazz combo, but they are parts of the alphabetized language of the space age.

So are LOR, NASA, EOR, REP, LEM and MODS.

The stylized jargon of spacemen has a world of phrases knocked down to initials that everyone connected with space exploration plans knows. The words sprinkle reports and discussions and are sure to be a big part of conversation among the teams hat will man the two-spaceman orbital flights of the coming space series.

PERT — Program Evaluation and Review Technique.

SCATS — Simulation, Check-outs and Training System.

LOR—Lunar Orbit Rendezvous.

NASA—National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

REP—Request for Proposal.

LEM — Lunar Excursion Module.

MODS—Manned Orbital Development Station.

DOD — Department of Defense.

Toss a few of these names into a conversation between astronauts, and you may get: "NASA has asked for a REP on the LEM to fit in with the LOR plans that the DOD has its eye on."

University Explains Initial Confusion

ATHEN, Ohio (AP)—PI-TV-WL are components of a course at Ohio University, but it isn't chemistry or mathematics.

They stand for "programmed instruction," "television," "writing laboratory" — use of closed circuit TV, video-taped lectures and other means to cut the costs and teaching manpower required to teach remedial English.

A roof of Norfolk reeds, the most durable thatching, costs up to $1,120, but it will last 60 to 80 years if maintained properly. Devon reed remains in tact for 25 to 40 years, wheat straw 10 to 20.

Parakeets Prefer Women To Men

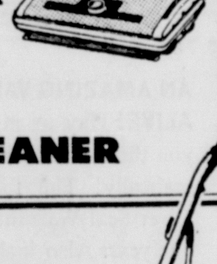

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Women and children have a slight advantage over men when it comes to teaching a parakeet to talk, report packers of bird food here.

The little feathered friends respond quicker to the higher-pitched sounds of women and children, says the R. T. French Co.

The note concluded, "That was the best wedding gift we got."

'Cocktail' Is Traced To Many Different Origins

"The identity of the person who first tied together the two words — 'cock' and 'tail' — to describe an iced delight remains cloudy, says Ken Pearson, a student of semantics. "Some attribute it to a New Orleans apothecary, others to Dutch housekeepers, the English, Kentucky hill folk or to either of two Colonial barmaids."

Antoine Peychaud was an apothecary who had come to New Orleans from his native Santo Domingo and opened a pharmacy which became the meeting place for his fellow Dominguios. He frequently served them brandy toddy spiked with bitters that he mixed by a secret formula.

Instead of serving the toddy in a brandy glass, he used a double-ended egg cup, called a coquetier (from coque — a shell). This was pronounced "Ko-kay-tyay" and its name was eventually transferred to the drink. Guests who did not speak French called it "cocktay" which later became "cocktail."

"The theory concerning the Dutch women stemmed from their use of rooster tail feathers as dusters to scatter the accumulation in the dining room," Pearson said. "This would naturally raise a lot of the dust into the air and the men would respond by mixing a throat-duster — which they called 'cocktail'."

English tradition has it that during the 17th century a popular drink was called "cock-ale." It was made by flavoring a keg of new ale with a red rooster that had been pounded to a pulp and steeped in strong white wine. The bird, some raisins and cloves were bound in a canvas bag and dumped into the keg for a week or so to give "cock-ale" its unique flavor.

The Kentucky version came from the period when cockfighting was a popular sport. Following the fights, fans gathered to discuss the day's events. With each social drink the story teller's tales of the feats of his favorites fighting bird became more formidable and thus these sessions became known as times to enjoy "cock tales."

"The flavor of romance was added by two barmaids," Pearson said. A book, "The Squire's Recipes," printed in 1748, tells about Mistress Peggy Van Eyck of the Cock's Tail Tavern in Yonkers. She mixed a powerful concoction for her fiance, Mister Appleton, to bolster his courage so he could face her father for his consent to a marriage. As she readied to serve him the drink, her favorite game cock crowed and shook himself so vigorously one of his tail feathers came loose. Peggy grabbed it, stirred the drink with it and called it a "cocktail."

"Then there was Betsy Flanagan, who owned a tavern in Westchester County during the Revolutionary War. One day a few Americans raided a British commissary and, among other things, carried off several fowls. They were presented to Betsy for roasting. She also decorated each bottle and jar in her tavern with the birds' tail feathers. Later, during the dinner she had prepared, one of the guests called for a 'glass of cocktails'."

Fire-Fighting A Family Affair

When a corn picking machine caught fire, Kuster drove it it into a pasture to save the field of corn. Then the grass caught fire.

Mining Camps Not Exactly Melting Pots

In his book "Treasure Hill," Jackson says the diverse roles played by various national groups were important factors in the development of mining communities.

Will Dye Cause Thefts To Die?

CHICAGO (AP) — A red dye added to gasoline belonging to New York State's Public Works Department may end pilferage.

In Event Of Nuclear Bomb, Farm Is Better Than City

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—"Silo" can mean more to defense strategists than the concrete underground home of America's intercontinental ballistic missiles.

It also can refer to the thousands of grain silos on American farms. The American farmer has been given a new emphasis in U.S. defense planning.

Prof. Arden F. Sherf, plant pathologist at Cornell University's New York State College of Agriculture and a military and defense expert, says farmers are of key importance in America's survival and revival in wartime. Following an attack, farmers would have to be depended on to save breeding stock, decontaminate food and get back to the business of feeding the nation.

The first thing to remember about a possible nuclear conflict, Sherf said, is that survival chances on the farm are good and rural people have time and distance factors in their favor when combating fallout.

Anyone not in the immediate area of the burst would have only radiation to combat and would have from a half-hour to four hours before fallout began. He stressed that this would give enough time to put a well made plan into operation and get to a prepared refuge.

Sherf recognizes the special problems that farmers would have with fallout in crop and livestock operations. But he says federal and state governments are dealing with the problems and are incorporating new information into regular programs of instruction for livestock, dairy, poultry and crop farmers.

The professor says that farmers are used to planning for floods, fire, and blizzards and can do many things to protect livestock and lessen the task of getting back into food production.

Aviation Achieved Steady Gains In 1963

WASHINGTON (UPI)—At precisely 8:58 p.m. EST Dec. 8, 1963, the scheduled airlines of the United States were flying proudly toward the second safest year in history.

That was the moment a Pan American World Airways jet came down in flames over Elkton, Md., carrying 73 passengers and eight crew members to their deaths.

In the 12 previous months ending last Nov. 30, the airlines had compiled a fatality rate of 0.09 per every 100 million passenger miles flown. Only one other year was safer—1954, when the fatality rate was 0.08. If there had been no fatal crashes during December, the fatality rate for the 12 months ending Dec. 31 would have been at or perhaps even better than 0.09.

Even with the Elkton tragedy, the 1963 safety record is impressive. Counting the 73 passenger deaths in that crash, the projected fatality rate for 1963 will be only 0.23—which happens to be the third lowest since the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) began compiling accident statistics in 1938.

The airlines hung up a 0.22 rate in 1957. For comparison, the rate in 1938 was 5.20 deaths for every 100 million passenger miles flown. Amid all the furor and alarm over air safety, it might be noted that in the last 12 years the airlines have kept the fatality rate below 1.

Those statistics add up to one fact: the fatality rate has been held down even though more people are flying and even though a single crash can cause more deaths than five crashes of a decade ago.

There were no dramatic air safety breakthroughs in 1963, but the record suggests steady improvement by all segments of civil aviation—the airlines, manufacturers, Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) and Civil Aeronautics Board.

FAA, for example, continued to stress better maintenance and established its first aviation mechanics award for outstanding work in this vital profession.

The agency also continued to modernize and improve its air traffic control system. By year's end, FAA had expanded its area positive control program to virtually all airspace from 24,000 feet up within the continental United States. Only a small area in the midwest and New England remained outside this little-publicized means of preventing collisions and both these will be added early this year.

Positive control involves long-range radar protection to all aircraft flying in a positive control area operating above 24,000 feet. No plane can enter such airspace without permission. All aircraft must operate under instrument flight rules and be equipped with "transponders" for quick radar identification. Modern radar is used to monitor this airspace and during 1964, the positive control ceiling will be lowered to 18,000 feet.

FAA also ended this year with the most promising development of its long fight to end the menace of air collisions. It has perfected a means of adding the vital dimension of altitude to radar. This will be translated into actual air traffic control use within the next two years.

Rarar is two-dimensional. It can tell a plane's speed and direction, but it cannot tell how high its targets are unless the pilots supply the information. A plane at 3,000 feet presents the same target as one at 30,000.

What the FAA has achieved is a way to add altitude information for easy display on its radar scopes. The system uses the aforementioned transponders, which merely are coded radio signals identifying the flight for radar. The new altitude information device also sends an additional coded signal which appears on the radar scope as the target's exact altitude. It even includes a green arrow which points up or down, indicating whether the target is climbing or descending.

The jet age celebrated its fifth anniversary in 1963 but it was a celebration mixed with some concern. There were several incidents during the year suggesting that the swept-wing giants may have unsuspected control difficulties during certain rare conditions of severe turbulence.

The incidents generally followed a similar pattern. A jet encountered a sudden, sharp downdraft. The pilot "trimmed" the nose up to compensate for the fall. Without warning, the downdraft changed to a violent updraft. With the controls still literally locked in climb position, the jet pitched sharply upward—in a nose-high attitude so steep that there was not sufficient airspeed to prevent a stall, followed by a dive.

The airlines, FAA and jet manufacturers have told pilots to increase turbulence penetration speeds. A swept-wing plane is harder to control at low speeds and it is difficult to recover from stalls in such aircraft. It is suspected the jets which ran into stall difficulties in turbulence were going too slow.

Nature still seemed to present the chief menace to air safety in 1963 as it has in other years. Between Jan. 1 and Dec. ing U. S. airliners on scheduled flights all took place in poor weather. One was caused by icing on the tail surfaces. One occurred on takeoff in a thunderstorm. The other two planes also were in or near thunderstorm areas.

However, the FAA, the airlines and the electronics industry are closer than ever to the airman's age-old dream — all weather flying, even in zero-zero conditions.

There were more than 60,000 flights cancelled in 1963 because of weather. Inability to fly—or rather land and/or take off under such conditions—cost the scheduled airlines about $60 million in that period.

Improved lighting and navigation aids already in use at some major airports are permitting airliners to land in weather that would have grounded them a few years ago. They are so efficient that the carriers are gradually training crews to land in ceilings of only 100 feet and visibility of one-fourth of a mile—instead of the prevalent limits of 200 feet and a half mile.

Around the corner — some FFA experts believe they are only two or three years away—are automatic blind landing devices which will line up planes with runways, establish the exact correct glide path and enable pilots to land with virtually zero ceilings and zero visibility.

FAA and the airlines also spent considerable time and effort on emergency evacuations. The agency has proposed stricter regulations in that area.

The tragic Pan American crash and the even greater death toll in a Trans Canada jet accident a week earlier undoubtedly have caused concern over the giant planes. Both accidents will take time to solve and no one underestimates their seriousness. But the jet age, five years old this year, was marked by a safety record actually superior to that of older planes in every respect.

For every jet crash, there are many more instances where their powerful structure proved stronger even than their designers intended. There were cases where the 120-ton giants were flipped over on their backs or sent into dives that broke the sound barrier. The stresses encountered were incredible, but the jets landed safely.

The black headlines that told of tragedy during 1963 obscured the millions of flights that were conducted safely and routinely. They also obscured the taken-for-granted achievements made since man first flew in powered flight—exactly 60 years ago on Dec. 17, 1903.

Texan Sells Models Of Solar System

HOUSTON, Texas (UPI) —A Houston man has the solar system for sale — as a matter of fact, he has many of them.

Harold Verson is an engineer who has invented a model of the solar system that he sells to schools and other institutions at prices from $195 to thousands of dollars. The more elementary models may end up in some high school physics laboratory where students are learning the ratios of movement of planets.

Among the more sophisticated customers have been the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) and the Marshall Space Flight Center. The flight center bought a $4,000 model of the Verson Solar System.

One of the inventor's most topical models is a large motorized globe in display plans for the Houston International Trade and Travel Fair. This globe has a small orbiting capsule shown at the exact relative orbiting speed of an actual spacecraft. A tape recording explains why the capsule passes over different areas on each orbit.

Stumps Painted For Boaters

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Marking underwater stumps as an aid to boaters also has been a help to fishermen, the Ohio Department of Natural Resources says.

White stakes are used, and fishermen make them targets for their lures, knowing that several species of fish seek shelter around underwater stumps. The marking program is being conducted in the waters on state park lands.

Buses Are Slow

SAN JOSE (UPI)—It's almost faster to walk than take the bus here. A traffic survey reported that the average speed of buses on downtown streets is 7.4 miles per hour and 70 per cent of the travel time between stops is spent waiting at red lights.

LaGRANGE, Ky., (AP) — Some motorists in Oldham County report they've seen a glowing red hand in the distance while driving at night.

Polish Children Garble Facts Like Any Others

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — American teen-agers apparently have no monopoly on the problem of recalling historical facts.

Radio Free Europe reports that the Warsaw daily newspaper Zycie Warzany recently upbraided Polish history teachers and students because of the results of a history test given 3,000 graduating high school seniors in 69 schools throughout Poland.

The article was entitled "Columbus Discovered the North Pole?"

It reported that in matching questions, Polish students identified Leonidas as a Brazilian football player, Confucius as a reformer in the United States, Spartacus as the leader of an 18th century U. S. rebellion and San Salvador as a battle of Greeks and Romans.

Students also identified the Napoleonic Code with Poland and the Declaration of Rights of Man and Citizens with the United States.

In a review of a book by Mrs. A. Bornholz, who analyzed the test results, the Warsaw newspaper said:

"The final results of the tests were startling. Out of 100 possible points, the national average was 16.9. Not one single pupil out of the 3,000 managed to answer all of the questions correctly. The analysis of the effects of teaching was ruthless."

Single Pedal For Brake, Gas

CHICAGO (AP) — An automobile designer has come up with a brake and accelerator combination on one pedal.

Product Engineering, a trade publication, reports that it may lessen the time it takes to move the foot from accelerator to brake, preventing fatal accidents.

The top portion of the gas pedal is linked with the engine accelerator and speeds and slows the car. The lower portion of the pedal can be depressed with the heel to brake the car.

New World Duck Pin Bowling Record Set

Humans Mentally Stronger Than Theories Have Held

BERKELEY (UPI) — A University of California psychology study has turned up some unexpected findings on the subject of personality.

For one thing, human beings seem to be mentally tougher in facing life's strains than current theories expect.

The U.C. study was based on a cross-section of individuals who were observed and tested from infancy to age 18, and again at 30. The studies spanned 35 years and were carried out by the Institute of Human Development at U.C.'s Berkeley campus.

Dr. Jean W. MacFarlane, research psychologist, said many of those persons in the U.C. studies led strained, unhappy or erratic lives in their younger years. Yet a high proportion of these surprised researchers by working out their problems and developing into stable productive and self-accepting parents and job-holders.

Among them were chronic rebels who had been expelled from high school; academic failures; unhappy, withdrawn schizoids, and one socially inept girl with extremely high blood pressure, which later became normal.

But others failed to achieve their potential after excelling during childhood. "Included were boys who were school leaders and athletes, and good-looking, socially skillful girls," Dr. MacFarlane said.

Perhaps, she explained, they had too much success too soon. This might lead to unreal expectations about life, or they may not have had enough stress in growing up "to temper strength or force thoughtfulness and maturity."

Dr. MacFarlane and her fellow researchers are trying to pinpoint the combination of factors—family, environmental and biological—that shape the mature and immature individuals. They also want to know what patterns of personality development that carry over from one generation to the next are modified or reversed.

Beware Of That Dry Air

CHICAGO (UPI) — That static spark you get when you walk across a rug and touch a metal object object may have up to 500 volts behind it — mildly annoying but not enough to do any harm.

The voltage depends on how dry the air in the house is, according to engineers of Hamilton Humid-Aire here. The dryer the air, the more powerful the spark can be.

Landing On Moon Won't Be Romantic

SANTA MONICA (UPI) — Scientists say that when astronauts set foot on the lunar surface, man's romantic sentimentality about the moon will come to an abrupt end.

The moon, according to scientists, is most apt to be a nightmarish world, drowned in solar radiation, stifling hot in sun, painfully frigid in shadow and pelted ceaselessly with murderous meteroids.

Scientists say living on the moon—which at best might be only an inhospitable slag pile — will be a continuous fight for survival. Man will have to have adequate protection against the harsh lunar environment.

And even if astronauts intend to land only briefly during their first round-trip moon mission, an emergency shelter might well mean the difference between success and disaster.

Douglas Aircraft's Missile and Space Systems Division, which has been investigating survival on the moon's surface, says the first step to establishing a "Little America" on the moon is shelter construction.

This might range from rudimentary shanties adapted from expended stages of rocket ships to full-fledged laboratories and dormitories equipped with hot and cold running water and air conditioning.

The shelter equipment for moon explorers would be stored in a pressurized cabin mounted forward of the liquid hydrogen tank in a permanent nose cone of the vehicle. Once on the moon, the tank would be converted into living space.

For a soft landing, the Saturn would be equipped with hovering engines and fold-out, shock-absorbing legs. The shelter could be operational before the arrival of scientists and astronauts.

Vietnam has been divided politically since Vietnamese of all persuasions secceeded in ousting the French, who maintained a protectorate from the end of the 19th Century to the middle of the 20th.

Steamboat Rams Car In Freak Collision

LOUISVILLE (AP)—The Belle of Louisville, a steamboat used for Ohio River excursions, had a collision with a car.
